FAMOUS FLYER DIES IN CRASH

ROOSEVELT AND AIDS OPEN BIG CAMPAIGN SOON

Tugwell Fires First Gun Wednesday.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 24.—[Special.]—One of the strangest campaigns of the nation's political history starts this week as the Roosevelt brain trust goes to the country to defend it work.

Professors and hard boiled administrators will harangue the voters, not in the old fashioned way by pleading for votes for the New Deal congressmen in November, but in a less direct fashion, by trying to uphold the schemes they have hatched, and by urging those schemes as the salvation of America.

It is not to be thought, however, that this will constitute the entire effort of the new dealers toward maintaining a strong majority of rubber stampers in the congress. The politicians will be at work also, led by their major domo, Big Jim Farley.

Roosevelt to Use Radio.

And the greatest politician of the New Deal, President Roosevelt himself, will be taking the air at regular intervals, rolling out in his soft Harvard accents glowing pictures of the New Deal he has fashioned, as he sees it in the future, bringing the "abundant life" to all Americans.

The President's first political broadcast, to be rendered as a "report to the people" on the work of the last congressional session, is scheduled to be delivered the end of this week, before he takes off on his long vacation cruise aboard a government battleship.

Will Cross U. S. by Rail.

On his return trip Mr. Roosevelt will cross the country by rail, and will deliver various speeches in the northwest and in the middle west. He plans to make these addresses "nonpolitical," after the fashion of his recent message to congress on social problems, but in them will lie the heart of the New Deal's appeal to the voters.

Two major addresses will be on water and power development in the west and in another speech, tentatively set for Green Bay, Wis., Mr. Roosevelt is expected to discuss the agricultural program, the plight of the farmers and dairymen. There are rumors that he will then make an appeal for the reelection of Mr. La Follette, but these were discounted here because the regular Democrats in Wisconsin have now a strong organization, a fact which Mr. Roosevelt is well aware of, and he has consistently refused to take any public part in local campaigns.

First of the professors to take the stump is the No. 1 man of the brain trust, Columbia's Rexford Guy Tugwell, who goes to the corn country this week, and will make his first spellbinding effort before the Iowa State Bankers' association at Des Moines next Wednesday.

Prof. Tugwell has been advised that he must curtail the brilliance of his vocabulary when he brings the message of the New Deal to the corn huskers and their bankers.

Four Syllable Words Limit.

It has been learned that of all the senators, experts and newspaper reporters who were present when the professor testified before the senatorial committee which last week tested his views on communism, only one fully understood him, and that one, of course, was Prof. Tugwell. The professor will be pained at being forced thus to furl his brilliance, but it is reported he has agreed to limit himself to words of four syllables and less.

However, if the Tugwell speeches are still too lofty in tone to reach the masses, it is reasoned that he will have appealed to the intelligentsia at least, and the next of the New Deal orators will take up the task at this point, and aim at the common people.

This will be Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, martinet of the New Deal, who leaves July 10 for a nation wide tour of at least 15 cities. In his rough and ready ballyhoo, Gen. Johnson will smash out with homely adjectives, prato on "dead cats," "bourbons," "slackers," "chiselers," "corporals of disaster," and the like.

Three Job Farley Next.

Later Postmaster General Farley, who has winked quite successfully at President Roosevelt's emphatic denunciation of politicians in public service, and has hung on to his three jobs—state Democratic chairman of New York, national Democratic chairman, and postmaster general—will start the old fashioned political hoorah.

These, Tugwell, Johnson, Farley

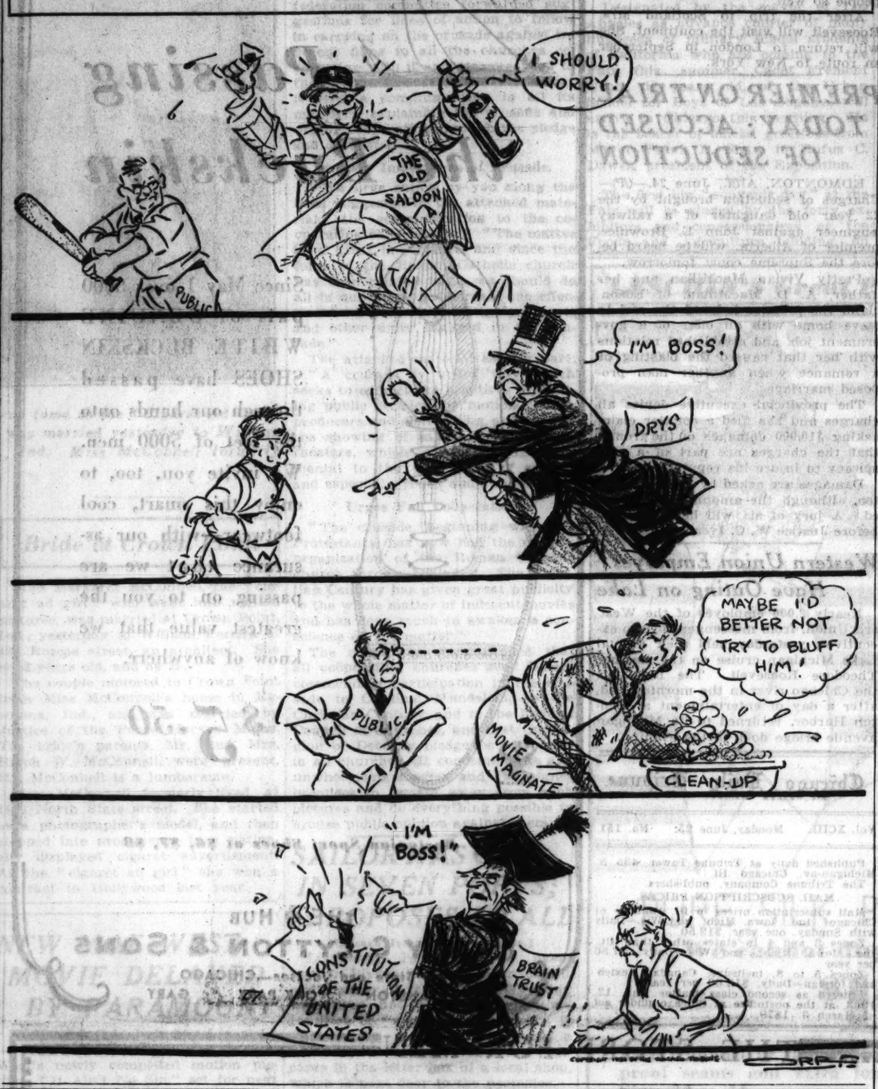
A DANGEROUS PASTIME—TRYING TO BLUFF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE



New Contract Whist Dooms the Kibitzer

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Contract whist, a new form of card game which its exponents assert combines the most scientific and spectacular features of whist and contract bridge, will be played in a national tournament for the first time at the 44th annual congress of the American Whist league which opens today at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Bridge experts throughout the country already are divided on whether or not the new game provides better entertainment than contract bridge.

Spells Doom to Kibitzer.

On only two aspects of the new game are all bridge and whist experts in agreement. The new game will be [a] more difficult than contract bridge and [b] it will do away with that annoying commentator of modern civilization—the kibitzing dummy player.

In the new game the bidding and scoring are identical with contract bridge. But in the play all hands are closed and there is no dummy. The old whist game had no bidding. Trump was selected arbitrarily or by the cut of a card and a team received points for all tricks taken over six.

The declarer, in contract whist, while approximating the strength of his partner's hand from the bidding, will have little clue to distributional patterns.

Nice Novelty, Says Sims.

P. Hal Sims, noted bridge expert and conductor of THE TRIBUNE's "Conquering Contract" column, said last night in New York that contract whist would prove interesting as a novelty.

Louis J. Hadded, a leading Chicago bridge player, expressed a similar sentiment.

Andrew J. Mouat, 616 Lake avenue, Wilmette, who is secretary of the American Whist league, stated last night that contract whist is the coming game.

"The play of the hand rather than the bidding will be given the stress in contract whist," Mr. Mouat said, "and for this reason it will be a more satisfactory and scientific card game.

"When we sat down for a session of old time whist," said a player last night, "we expected it would be a peaceful evening. Throughout play there would be silence. You didn't have to be afraid that your partner would perch behind you, muttering under his breath if you fingered the wrong card. This new game will keep husbands and wives together."

The contract whist tournament, in which 20 pairs of players already are entered, will be held Saturday, the concluding day of the league congress.

'HUMAN PROJECTILE' TRIES STUNT AGAINST WISH; MISSES NET, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 24.—A "human projectile," who used to thrill crowds by shooting himself from the mouth of a cannon, describing a graceful parabola and landing in a net, was killed today after swearing never to do it again.

Gaston Richard gave up the curious stunt last year when he reached the age of 53. He felt he was too old. But friends insisted that he perform the stunt again at a festival in Pre Saint Gervais, Paris industrial suburb, and against his wishes he agreed. This morning he found one of the springs in his cannon broken and hastily repaired it.

"That's bad luck," he told his friends, just before crawling into the cannon. "This is the last time I'll do this stunt."

With the big crowd cheering, he slid in and pulled a cord, the cannon roared, and Richard was hurtled through the air. He missed his net by 16 inches and was killed. The spring was not strong enough to give him a good push.

ALBERT HARRIS, BANKER, HURT AS HORSE HITS CAR

Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, was recovering in his home at 4923 Kimbark avenue last night from slight injuries received yesterday morning when his Arabian saddle horse, Satan, bolted and ran into an automobile. Mr. Harris is 67.

In the Midway bridle path at 60th street and Stony Island avenue, leading into Jackson park, the horse bolted against a north bound car driven by John M. Connelly, 6610 Normal boulevard.

Thrown to the ground, Mr. Harris incurred bruises and a scalp laceration. After first aid at the Illinois Central hospital he was taken home. His horse, its leg broken, was killed by Policeman Erskine Hill of the Hyde Park police station.

Sleepers on Rail Tracks Wakened Just in Time

John Losecki, a detective for the St. Paul railroad, was walking along the right of way in the vicinity of Fletcher street early today when he stumbled across two men sleeping on the roadbed and using the tracks for pillows. They were John Feller, 30 years old, 4234 North Irving avenue, and George McLeod, 36, 1415 Addison street. Losecki wakened them, and just in time, for five minutes later a freight train thundered along the tracks on which they had been sleeping.

Youth Writes Extortion Note to Vanderbilt

Clinton, Ill., June 24.—(AP)—Francis Goodrich, 19, recent graduate of Clinton High school, where he was regarded as a student above average, confessed today, authorities said, that he had sent extortion letters to Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and to Cornelius Vanderbilt III.

Asked his motive, according to Deputy Sheriff Leslie C. Orr, the youth said:

"Other people are writing letters demanding money and getting by with it, so why can't I?"

Blames Mental Quirk.

Orr added that despite the fact that Goodrich was rated high as a student, he believed some mental quirk might have been responsible for the writing of the letters.

The letter to Gifford demanded $25,000 under threat of bombing, United States District Attorney Frank K. Lemon said. The department of justice and local officials did not reveal the content of the letter to young Vanderbilt.

Orr said another letter had been sent by the youth to Gov. Horner of Illinois stating he had a "machine for destroying things" and that he thought the state should have the machine rather than have it fall into the hands of gangsters. Orr said Goodrich was reticent in discussing the supposed machine. No extortion letter was written to Horner, Orr said.

Wrote to Justice Chief.

The deputy, who arrested the boy after department of justice agents cooperated in the investigation, said Goodrich had also written a letter to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department of justice bureau of investigation at Washington, and that he understood the letter asked for investigation of crime conditions in and about Clinton.

Lemon said Goodrich would be taken to Springfield, Ill., tomorrow to face charges under the Lindbergh law.

Dog Stands by Boy's Shoes on Beach; Hunt for Body

A small black and white dog caused considerable excitement at the Belmont Harbor beach last night. For more than an hour the animal stayed in one spot at the water's edge and looked intently out on the water. Near him was a pair of boy's shoes. Bathers notified police, believing the dog's juvenile master might have drowned. Coast guards were called and dragged the harbor, but found nothing. The dog still remained on the beach, however. If he is there this morning the harbor may be dragged again.

PODERJAY BRIDE SLAIN, VIENNA POLICE INSIST

Send Full Findings to New York.

VIENNA, June 24.—(AP)—The Vienna international police organization, confident that evidence will support a murder charge against Capt. Ivan Poderjay, today dispatched a complete report of their findings to New York.

Police then withdrew from active participation in the case, hoping that on the basis of their findings American authorities will be able to extradite Poderjay, husband of Agnes Tufverson, missing New York and Detroit lawyer.

Viennese officials stated they believe Miss Tufverson was slain, but would not enlarge on their reasons for believing so. The basis for their conclusion is contained in data on the way to New York.

Trunks Most Important.

Bruno Barber, head of the international police organization, said that Poderjay's possession of trunks and clothing of Miss Tufverson remains their most important evidence.

Now that police have withdrawn from the inquiry, the investigation is being continued by courts, and under Austrian law is concealed in deepest secrecy.

A theory which received much popular and some official credence is that Poderjay is involved with an organization of international spies. Another version is that several principals in the strange disappearance of the American woman and in Poderjay's complex matrimonial experiences are spies.

Prepare to Send Detective.

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Prepared to carry on their search for the vanished Agnes Colonia Tufverson indefinitly, police today correlated the results of a month's investigation before deciding whether to send a detective to Vienna to question her husband, Capt. Ivan Ivanovitch Poderjay, a prisoner there.

Capt. John H. Ayres of the missing persons bureau, informed that a complete report of evidence gained by Vienna police had been forwarded here, awaited it eagerly.

He pointed out that though definite information may be contained in the report, it still will be necessary for New York police to discover what has become of Miss Tufverson before court action can be taken. The importance of the Vienna report, he said, is that it may contain a lead by means of which the necessary evidence can be traced.

To Search Liner for Clews.

Plans for a thorough search of Poderjay's cabin on the Olympic after that liner docks here Tuesday were being made tonight. Poderjay traveled alone to Europe on the Olympic last December two days after Miss Tufverson was last seen by a maid at her apartment. Poderjay took four trunks aboard the Olympic and is said to have had one taken into his cabin, staying beside it day and night. Capt. Ayres is especially anxious to examine the porthole in the cabin, and the width of the door, the last to determine whether a large trunk could be carried through the doorway.

The reappearance of Miss Tufverson alive was still considered a slim possibility, by Capt. Ayres, who was informed by Genevieve Larsson, chum of the missing barrister, that Miss Tufverson had a retreat near West Duxbury, Mass.

This gave rise to the theory at headquarters that if she still is alive she might be hiding, disillusioned by the collapse of her romance with Poderjay, Miss Larsson said Miss Tufverson had the place as a retreat where she could recuperate from the strain of overwork.

Detective Studies Data.

It seemed probable that if a detective is ordered to Austria to question Poderjay, it will be Arthur C. Johnson of the alien squad, who will sail for Spain in July in connection with the trial of a Spaniard for murder.

Decision to send Johnson appeared near because he has been assigned to familiarize himself with the evidence assembled in the Tufverson case.

Three sharply contrasting personalities stood out in the information Capt. Ayres has assembled—the two blonde brides of Poderjay, the missing Miss Tufverson, the other, Susanne Ferrand, in custody in Vienna, and the debonair Jugo-Slavian himself.

Romance, intrigue, international complications, mystery unequaled in 350,000 New York missing person cases have mingled in the lives of this trio since Miss Tufverson abandoned her business career to marry Poderjay last December. Nine months earlier he had wed Miss Ferrand in England.

Wedell Falls with Student in Low Spin

Wedell, holder of the land plane speed record, was killed outright and the student was critically injured. Sneeringen was taken to a hospital in Franklin, La. He lost consciousness upon reaching the hospital and was unable to tell what caused the crash. The ship fell from about 300 feet.

Sets Mark at Chicago.

Wedell's land plane speed record of 305.33 miles an hour was established on Sept. 4, 1933, at the international air races at Glenview, Ill.

Wedell had two famous ships which he designed and built at the Wedell-Williams Air Service, Inc., at Patterson, which was backed by Harry P. Williams, wealthy lumberman, who became interested in Wedell while the flier was on a barnstorming tour in his early days.

Williams, whose wife is Marguerite Clark, formerly of the films, backed Wedell to the limit. The two famous planes turned out were known as "44" and "92."

Some of His Records.

Among Wedell's claimed records with his high speed ships were these: 50 minutes from Washington to New York in a speed dash, set last Nov. 3; a 5 hour 5 minute record from New York to Miami, set last Nov. 19; the fastest trip ever made from Hartford, Conn., to Roosevelt field, New York, 18 minutes, when he averaged close to 300 miles per hour; Los Angeles races last July, when he finished second, but was awarded the Thompson trophy race when Col. Roscoe Turner was disqualified for cutting a pylon.

Wedell was one of sixteen crack American flyers who had entered the $75,000 London to Melbourne, Australia, race set for next October. He had been testing a special plane for entrance in this contest for the last four months.

Student's First Flight.

The injured student, Sneeringen, had been at the Patterson airport for ten days taking ground lessons from Wedell and his flight today was his first, said officials of the Patterson airport.

The crash was witnessed by several persons. E. J. Robertson, factory manager of the company and one of the witnesses, said that before taking off Wedell had examined the plane thoroughly.

"He always looked over a ship before flying," Robertson said. "If it wasn't all right he would have fixed it up before leaving the field."

Robertson said that Wedell had flown the ship several times before and that flyers considered it one of the safest types of planes manufactured.

Efforts to Right It Fails.

Robertson said the plane took off smoothly from the port, heading southward into the wind. It began to climb slowly, he said, and then about a mile south of the field the plane suddenly headed downward. It leveled for a brief moment as Wedell

2 BOYS DROWN, THIRD SAVED IN STORM TRAGEDY

Half Million Loss; 3 Other Deaths.

14 Die in Trafic

The Chicago area last night was recovering from the week-end's violent wind and rain storm which took five lives, including two boys drowned in a Lake Michigan boating tragedy, and destroyed property worth nearly half a million dollars. All day work crews were busy repairing fallen telephone and power lines and opening roads closed by fallen trees. Farmers were starting to rebuild barns and hay lofts leveled by the gale.

The two boys were drowned early yesterday when their boat was upset in the storm while they were returning from the yacht race finish at Michigan City. The third boy on the boat was saved by a passing ship after he had righted the craft and had sat most of the night with a dead companion in his arms.

Pastor's Son Drowns.

Those drowned in the Lake Michigan tragedy were Allen F. Thomas, 24 years old, 4827 Kenwood avenue, son of the Rev. George F. Thomas of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and Joseph Kuhns, 22 years old, 6933 Paxton avenue. The boy who was saved is Robert Warfield, 16 years old, 4831 Kenwood avenue.

The dramatic story of the death of his two friends and his rescue by the crew of an oil freighter was told by Warfield after he had been taken to his home, suffering from shock and exposure. He described his desperate fight to save the older youths as they were buffeted about in the high waves in the darkness after their craft overturned.

The trio had started out to follow the racing yachts from Chicago to Michigan City, he related, in Thomas' small 15 foot boat, powered with an outboard motor. After watching the finish, the youths started back for Chicago at 9 o'clock Saturday night. The squall struck them at 12:33 o'clock Sunday morning.

Tells of Struggle in Waves.

"I know the time because the water stopped my watch," said Warfield. "The waves got higher and higher and finally we unscrewed the motor and dropped it in the lake. That didn't help much, and in about five minutes the boat went over.

"I had on a life preserver jacket, but Allen and Joe had on government inspected buoyant cushions. They didn't do much good. We had trouble finding the boat and then we had trouble hanging on. The waves would wash over the keel and we'd get washed off."

Young Warfield described how Kuhns had become weaker and weaker—he had been ill recently—and how when the older boy was washed away, he swam out and pulled him back to the overturned boat.

Finally Kuhns said:

"Good-by, I'm going under," and disappeared.

Tells How Two Friends Died.

Warfield said he tried to dive after Kuhns as he saw him sink, but it was still dark and he lost sight of him. After a few minutes he swam back to the keel where Thomas was hanging on desperately. Several times, when Thomas was washed off, he dragged him back, he said.

"Then, after several hours, the water became calmer. Allan and I managed to right the boat. I crawled in and helped him in, but his face was blue, and he couldn't talk. I held him in my arms, but soon his pulse stopped. I looked at his eyes and I knew he was dead."

At daybreak, Warfield was still sitting in the foundering boat with the body of his friend clutched in his arms. He was sitting this way when the S. S. General Markham, a lake oil freighter commanded by Capt. L. M. Jonassen, sighted him. Sailors lowered a boat and came alongside.

Lose Body in Rescue.

With their rescue attempt came the last bit of tragedy. A heavy life preserver, flung by one of the sailors, capsized the boys' boat again, and Thomas' body slipped from Warfield's arms and was lost in the depths. A search was unavailing, and Warfield was taken aboard. Coast guard vessels were notified to look for the two bodies.

The third death of the day from drowning was that of Frank Ohab, 28 years old, 833 North Kostner avenue. He was thrown out of his rowboat by high waves in Pistakee bay, near McHenry. His body has not yet been recovered.

Recover Two in Fox Lake.

The bodies o. Wilfred E. Hall, 35 years old, former assistant state's attorney of Lake county, and Mrs. Ada Behanna, wife of William R. Behanna, Waukegan corporation counsel, were recovered yesterday from Fox lake. They were drowned Saturday night when the high wind overturned their 25 foot sailboat.

On board, in addition to the two who drowned, were Hall's wife, Ebba; Mr. Behanna, Attorney Jack Bairstow of Waukegan, and Justice of the Peace Harold J. Tallett of Shields township. These managed to cling to the rudder of the capsized boat until a rescue party, consisting of Harry Hall, Waukegan attorney, and John Fisher, member of the board of directors of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, put out in motor boats.

Damage caused by the high wind ranged from flattened barns to overturned telephone poles and blockaded highways. The storm spent most of its violence in Wisconsin and northern Illinois, and by the time it reached Chicago the wind had slowed considerably.

Lightning, which was severe in Lake county, struck and burned the Dietz Stables, a dance hall, and routed 500 patrons, amusing themselves in the resort just west of Mundelein. A panic among the dancers was quieted by the dance orchestra, which continued to play until it was forced from the two story building by the flames.

Heavy Farm Damage.

Still further north, in Wisconsin, the wind reached tropical velocity. At Sparta, the roads on all sides of the town were blocked by fallen trees. The local utility company estimated it would suffer a heavy loss because of fallen wires. From Rice Lake came reports that nearly a dozen barns had been blown over during the night. The damage from the storm at Stanley was estimated at $100,000.

A Wisconsin death from the weekend storm was that of Verland Ayre, 19 years old, of Marshfield, who was killed late Saturday night when a beam, blown from his father's barn struck him on the head.

Although the rainstorm cooled the city and suburbs of Chicago for a time, renewed summer temperatures came during the day. The mercury at the municipal airport reached a high of 83 degrees at 2 p. m. and hovered close to this mark the rest of the afternoon.

More Rain in Sight.

The forecast was not particularly hopeful, either. W. P. Day, the government weatherman, predicted increasing cloudiness and slightly warmer temperatures for today. However, he forecast local showers for this evening or tomorrow.

The heat sent record crowds to the city's beaches as crowds sought recreation in the cooling waters of Lake Michigan. Guards estimated that about 225,000 persons swam at the city and park beaches during the day. As usual, the Oak street beach drew the largest crowds, but the new Montrose-Wilson beach and the Jackson park beaches drew almost as many patrons.

John Vande Eschen, 21 years old, of 2433 High street, Chicago, was drowned yesterday while swimming in Cedar lake, south of Crown Point, Ind. The youth had dived off the Monon pier. A few minutes later he was seized with cramps and went down.

Lightning Strikes Two Churches in Same Storm

Evansville, Ind., June 24.—[Special.]—Lightning struck the Bethany Methodist church and the Simpson Methodist church here this afternoon during an electrical storm. Damage of several hundreds of dollars was done.

MOTOR CRASHES TAKE 14 LIVES OVER WEEK-END

Wife of Driver Is Killed on Irving Park Boulevard.

Mrs. Charles Misz, 23 years old, 1014 North Marshfield avenue, was killed last night when a car driven by her husband ran off the road in the 8000 block on Irving Park boulevard and crashed into a post.

Misz, his son, Florian, 5; his friend, John Skutz; Mrs. Helen Seipp, 45 years old, Brookfield, and Alex Moranda, 25, 745 North Lincoln avenue, all passengers in the car, were hurt.

Mrs. Misz's death was the 14th resulting from automobile accidents in Cook county over the week-end. There were eight fatalities Saturday and six yesterday, making the week-end death toll the heaviest since Jan. 1. The 1934 toll thus far is 576.

Joseph Guzzardo, 1 year old, 1120 Milton street, was killed yesterday in a collision of two automobiles at North avenue and Mannheim road, near Melrose Park. Seven other persons were injured. They were Benjamin and Mrs. Ida Guzzardo, parents of the boy, and Marie, 4 year old daughter, who were in one car, and Joseph and Mrs. Anna Kosowski, 5257 South Campbell avenue, and their daughters, Virginia, 11, and Lillian, 13.

List of Other Victims.

Mr. and Mrs. Guilardo are in the Westlake hospital, and may die. Marie, severely cut, was later removed home. The Kosowskis were badly cut and bruised. The Kosowski car was driven by Edward Kosowski, 17 year old son. He blamed the Guzzardo car for the accident.

POLICE INQUIRE INTO SAM BASS' DEATH IN FALL

The Summerdale police were investigating yesterday the death of Samuel B Bass, 43 years old, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, whose body was found at the rear of the Winthrop Terrace Apartment hotel, 5734 Winthrop avenue, where he lived. Bass had apparently leaped or fallen from a landing between the sixth and seventh floors of the hotel.

In his room were found letters from his estranged wife, Marian, who is living with their two children in Olcott, N. Y. The letters berated her husband for speculating and expressed indignation that he had accused her of appropriating money belonging to their children.

The body was discovered by William J. Kennedy, night clerk at the hotel.

Bass was a war veteran and a charter member of the Lake Shore Athletic club. Stocks and bonds of a par value of $24,550 were found among his effects.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 24.—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of President Roosevelt, arrived at Southampton today on the liner Europa on her way to London, where she will spend a few days before proceeding to Scotland. She was officially welcomed at Southampton by American Ambassador Robert W. Bingham, with whom she traveled to London.

Mrs. Roosevelt was cheerful and well. She said she thoroughly enjoyed the voyage.

"This is my first visit to England in four or five years, but England always comes second to my own America in my affections," she said. "After a few days in London I am going to Scotland to stay with my relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Fellowes Gordon, in Aberdeenshire."

Speaking of the President, Mrs. Roosevelt declared, "I am very proud of my boy. I think he is perfectly wonderful, and I am glad he has been able to serve the American people so well."

After the trip to Scotland Mrs. Roosevelt will visit the continent. She will return to London in September en route to New York.

PREMIER ON TRIAL TODAY; ACCUSED OF SEDUCTION

EDMONTON, Alta., June 24.—(AP)—Charges of seduction brought by the 22 year old daughter of a railway engineer against John E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, will be heard before the Supreme court tomorrow.

Pretty Vivian MacMillan and her father, A. D. MacMillan, of Edson claim the premier induced the girl to leave home with an offer of a government job, and established relations with her that caused the blasting of a romance when another man proposed marriage.

The provincial executive denies all charges and has filed a counter claim asking $10,000 damages on the ground that the charges are part of a conspiracy to injure his reputation.

Damages are asked by the plaintiffs, too, although the amount is not stated. A jury of six will hear the case before Justice W. C. Ives.

CHICAGOANS LOSE BOATS IN $75,000 LAKE GENEVA FIRE

Fire of unknown origin attacked the Palmer boathouse at Fontana, Wis., at the west end of Lake Geneva early yesterday, razing the building and destroying 15 motorboats and sailboats, some of them owned by Chicagoans. The damage was estimated at $75,000 by officials of the Fontana fire department.

The fire started in the boathouse, which is 350 feet long and 120 feet wide, at 3 o'clock in the morning and the one story wooden building was destroyed before fire companies from Fontana and nearby Williams Bay could bring the blaze under control.

A private bathhouse and an adjacent meat market also were destroyed.

FAIR ATTENDANCE SETS WEEK-END MARK OF 216,000

Greek Day Helps Swell Year's Biggest Sunday.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Faultless weather and peerless attractions combined yesterday to draw to A Century of Progress an unprecedented Sunday crowd of more than 114,500. The week-end total of 215,000 likewise established a record, exceeded only by the multitudes that poured through the gates on May 26-27, the first Saturday and Sunday.

Each Sunday crowd of the 1934 Fair has outstripped by significant thousands the attendance of the week before, and each week-end has seen a larger gate than the previous one, with the sole exception of the week-end that followed the opening two days.

Outstrip 1933 Crowds.

Moreover, every week-end throng except that of June 16-17 has surpassed the corresponding period of the 1933 Fair, as is revealed by the following table, in which the figures are given in thousands with the last three digits omitted:

Date in 1934	1934 Saturday.	1934 Sunday.	1934 week-end.	1933 week-end.
May 26-27	154	81	235	110
June 2-3	63	84	147	146
June 9-10	77	108	186	148
June 16-17	82	114	197	241
June 23-24	101	114	216	208

A factor in yesterday's record attendance was Greek day, which attracted Charalambos Simopoulos, Greek minister to the United States, and more than 15,000 Hellenic Americans. Music, songs, and pageantry depicted the accomplishments of the little country under pale blue sky that would do credit to Athens herself.

Diplomat Welcomes Americans.

The Greek ceremony was complete in diplomatic details other than the firing of a salute for the Grecian minister. Military regulations forbid the firing of a salute on Sunday. That phase of the welcome to the foreign diplomat will take place at 2:30 p. m. today before the General Exhibits building.

"We are indeed proud to welcome the people of the United States to this exhibit," the minister said.

"The people of the United States have much in common with the people of my country, and it is the earnest hope of the persons sponsoring this exhibit at the Fair that the 1934 Century of Progress Exposition will do much to cement this friendship."

Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, greeted the Graeco-American visitors, and responded to the address of Minister Simopoulos.

One other outstanding ceremony marked yesterday at the Fair. That was the dedication and opening of the war torn village in front of the Pantheon de la Guerre, world war panorama.

Norwegian Here Today.

After being closed down for more than a week to permit the installation of the village, the Pantheon yesterday was opened to the public. Participating in the ceremony were officials of the Fair and the St. Charles post of the American Legion.

H. D. Wilfert, representing the veteran's bureau of Washington, D. C., spoke in behalf of the American Legion and W. H. Chadwick responded in behalf of the Pantheon.

Another foreign representative will receive military and diplomatic honors today. Wilhelm Morgenstierne, Norwegian minister to the United States, is to arrive in the Court of Honor at the 14th street gate at 10:30 o'clock this morning for an official reception and a tour of the grounds.

Bride at Crown Point

Miss Margaret McConnell, the "cigaret ad girl" who went into motion pictures, was married at Crown Point, Ind., yesterday to William Pereira of 434 Roscoe street, an architect. She is 23 years old, and he 25.

The couple motored to Crown Point from Miss McConnell's home in Kewanna, Ind., and was married by Justice of the Peace Harvey Minas. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. McConnell, were present. Mr. McConnell is a lumberman.

Miss McConnell formerly lived at 1440 North State street. She started as a photographer's model, and then stepped into prominence in a nationally displayed cigaret advertisment. As the "cigaret ad girl" she won a contract in Hollywood last year.

NEW MAE WEST MOVIE DELAYED BY PARAMOUNT

Hollywood, Cal., June 24.—[Special.]—Paramount's public release of Mae West's newly completed motion picture, "It Ain't No Sin," set for next Friday, has been postponed for a week. Delay was due to the nation-wide church and civic campaign in behalf of clean films.

The New York censor's office demanded to know what "Ain't No Sin?" Paramount answered: "We admit the title is ambiguous. It had been chosen long in advance of the picture—even before Miss West's film story was written, in fact."

At local offices of the Will Hays group it was said the story of "It Ain't No Sin" was approved as "completely clean and interesting entertainment."

WOMAN 63, DIES OF BURNS.

Mrs. Anna Wolfranski, 63 years old, 4410 South Richmond street, died at the county hospital yesterday from burns about her head and face which she received in her home June 2 when she upset a kerosene lamp which she was cleaning.

CRUSADE AGAINST BAD FILMS GAINS PROTESTANT AID

Leaders Urge Support of 'Decency Legion' Drive.

The committee of ten of the Chicago church federation launched a campaign yesterday to circulate the pledges of the Legion of Decency, Roman Catholic organization opposed to indecent movies, in all the federation churches of Chicago.

The federation is a coöperative organization of Protestant churches. The federation committee forwarded suggestions for lines of action to follow in carrying on the crusade against indecent films to all the churches coöperating with it and recommended to the church federation as a whole that it send a communication to all its members, explaining the crusade and urging coöperation through the pledge and otherwise.

Stresses Importance of Crusade.

"We urge action by you along the lines suggested in the attached material," the communication to the coöperating churches said. "The matter is of great importance, and since the force of the Roman Catholic church has been related to it, we should do all in our power to increase the effectiveness of the work being done by it and other units engaged in the crusade."

The attached material said in part:

"A crusade is under way which seeks to correct the practices of flouting public decency, by motion picture producers and distributors, and against the showing of salacious pictures in theaters, which is so certainly detrimental to the well being of society and especially youth and children.

Urges Full Coöperation.

"The crusade, beginning with the Protestants, has now had the mighty organization of the Roman Catholic church thrown behind it. The Christian Century has given great publicity to the whole matter of indecent movies and has done much to awaken a conscience on the matter."

The committee recommended that all coöperating churches send letters commending participation in the crusade to Cardinal Mundelein, to the Christian Century, and to the Federal Council of Churches, and that the Legion of Decency pledge be circulated in all churches. It condemns vile and unwholesome movies and the signer promises to remain away from such pictures and do everything possible to arouse public opinion against them.

SAILOR HAS GIRL IN SEVEN PORTS; PROPOSES TO ALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 24.—The naval town of Plymouth is chuckling tonight and a sailor of the U. S. S. Wyoming who lives up to the old maritime tradition of "a girl in every port" is undoubtedly feeling sheepish as a result of the discovery of seven postcards in the letter box of a local shop, which is next door to the postoffice.

The shopkeeper discovered the postcards this morning. They were addressed to seven different girls, two in New York, one in San Francisco, one in Los Angeles, one in Hawaii, still another in Newfoundland, and finally, one in Mexico City.

To all the girls the sailor said he was looking forward to marrying them. To at least three he wrote, "I never think of any other girl but you."

Century of Progress Notes

MAJ. LENOX R. LOHR, general manager of The Fair, has joined the ranks of amateur photographers taking pictures of the Cascades fountain in the north lagoon. He has shot a number of movies of the display and hopes to capture the rainbow that already has helped to make the great fountain famous. The rainbow is visible as the slanting rays of the sun strike the fountain about 6 p. m.

Miss Gracie Jones, British railway queen on a road will tour, watched the Wings of a Century yesterday and was presented to the audience from the stage.

The weapons of Jesse James, outlaw, whose history was recounted with John Dillinger's in yesterday's Graphic section of THE TRIBUNE, are on exhibition in the sports and outdoor show in the Travel and Transport building.

Designated by the mayor of Los Angeles as advance courier of many hundreds of military school students of California who are coming to the Fair this summer, Cadet Fremont Gentz, 12 years old, of the Urban School for Boys of Los Angeles, will arrive in Chicago this morning. He is the bearer of official greetings from Mayor Frank L. Shaw to Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition.

The first big "souvenir day" at the Fair will be staged by the forty exhibitors and concessionaires at the Foods and Agriculture building, on Northerly island, on Saturday, July 7. Each visitor, on entering the building, will be given a shopping bag in which to carry the forty presents he will receive.

Body of Drowned Boy Is Found Near Fair Grounds

The body of an unidentified boy, about 13 years old, clad in overalls, was recovered yesterday from a water filled clay hole at North avenue and River road near the Cook county fair grounds. The Morton Grove county highway police said that the body appeared to have been in the water more than a week.

FOUR FLEE JAIL; KIDNAP BANKER PEACE JUSTICE

Overpower Guard and Get Firearms.

The hostages, Walter S. Posey, vice president of the First National bank of Lubbock, and Campbell H. Elkins, an assistant justice of the peace, were released unharmed tonight at Big Spring, Tex., 75 miles away, after a harrowing ride.

"Say, we're certainly glad to get back with the other kind of fellows," the banker exclaimed when he reached the sheriff's office at Big Spring.

Held "In Case of Shooting."

He said the four escaped prisoners, Ed [Perch Mouth] Stanton, convicted murderer of a sheriff; Bill Doupe, convicted hijacker, suspected of murder; Andrew H. Nelson, convicted burglar; and J. B. Stephens, convicted burglar, "treated us as nice as could be," but added: "We didn't have anything to eat all day. They divided up their cigarets with us, though, and told us they just wanted to have us as their guests today in case there might be a little shooting, because they knew the officers wouldn't want to hurt us."

The banker's brother, James P. Posey, is jailer at Lubbock. He had just "strolled into the jail to talk with friends" and walked into the midst of the escaping prisoners.

"They took Elkins' car and told him he'd find it around somewhere after they got through with it," Posey related. "They promised him they'd take care of it."

Posey said the prisoners talked little and he heard nothing that would give a clew to where they were going.

The four prisoners overpowered Deputy Sheriff Bedford Carpenter as he and a group of jail trusties were entering the cell block to feed prisoners on the third floor.

Disarm Beaten Deputy.

Carpenter, attacked and beaten about the face, drew his gun, but the prisoners quickly pinioned him and disarmed him.

The prisoners, with a rope improvised of bedding, tied Carpenter's hands behind him and forced him into the elevator.

Posey, the banker, was standing in the jail lobby on the first floor. One of the men covered him with a pistol. The jailbreakers next covered Elkins, who was sitting on a table in the jail front office.

Keys the desperadoes had taken from the main cell block door upstairs were used to open the gun case in the sheriff's office. A sub-machine gun, two 30-30 rifles, one sawed-off shotgun, and a pistol were taken.

'KIDNAPING' JUST A TRIP TO STATE'S ATTORNEY'S QUIZ

Max Stein, 6151 Winthrop avenue, manager of the Dearborn-Plaza hotel, 1032 North Dearborn street, was reported kidnaped yesterday afternoon. It soon developed, however, that he had been taken from the hotel to the state's attorney's office, where he was wanted as a witness, and he was released a few minutes after an alarm had been broadcast concerning his rather sudden departure from the hotel in the company of three men.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 24.—(AP)—Authorities tonight awaited the arrival of the steamer Silver City with warrants for the arrest of her master and three officers on manslaughter charges growing out of an accident at sea in which five perished.

The warrants charge Capt. Edward Vardy and his fellow officers with responsibility for the deaths of Capt. Martin Ford and four Newfoundland seamen, who went down with the schooner Ethel Collett after a collision with the Silver City June 10.

EASTERN HERMIT KILLS TWO MEN, HITS WOMAN

Wolcott, Conn., June 24.—(AP)—John Crowe, 65, shot and killed two men and wounded a woman today. Then he fled to the woods. A posse of 200 state and local police as well as civilians searched for him.

The dead men are Clarence Yuskis Jr., 22, and Julius Karvauskas, 40, a hired man in the employ of the Yuskis family. Mrs. Clarence Yuskis, mother of the dead youth, had a slight flesh wound in the forehead.

Immediately after the shooting Crowe fled to a nearby shack, but after the posse, which formed quickly, fired 500 shots into the building and tossed in several tear gas bombs without any response, they found the structure unoccupied.

Crowe was said by police to have lived as a recluse in the shack over week-ends. Police said it was fitted up as a small arsenal.

Clubs Uncle to Death.

Bellefontaine, O., June 24.—(AP)—Roy Harvey, 40, who disappeared last April after relatives prepared a lunacy warant against him, turned up at his home in West Mansfield tonight to deal death with a wooden stake and a knife.

He clubbed his uncle, Lawson B. Harvey, 76, to death with the stake; beat his 72 year old aunt; pounded his way into the barricaded home of his uncle, Edward Harvey, 63, and slashed him in the chest with a knife; and then, cornered, cut his own throat.

Police Hold Death in Hotel on North Side Accidental

Police yesterday expressed the belief that the death of Roy Glorch, 37 years old, who was found dead Saturday in the Uptown hotel, 4700 Broadway, was accidental. He had died apparently as th result of an overdose of sleeping tablets. Investigator said Glorch, who lived at 2246 Lawrence avenue, had left a call at the hotel desk for 1 o'clock, indicating he had not planned to end his life. No notes or other evidence which might tend to support a suicide theory were found.

Hunt Owner

Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms will attempt tomorrow to trace the ownership of three rifles found by North Riverside police yesterday in a ditch on Des Plaines avenue near the Illinois Central tracks. With the rifles were 18 empty clips and a zipper style hunting jacket. Police believe hunters shooting out of season feared detection and discarded the rifles.

DILLINGER, FLOYD RAID ON OZARKS TIP IS FRUITLESS

Ambulance Story Brings Out Sixty Officers.

Branson, Mo., June 24.—(AP)—Sixty state and federal officers, machine guns ready for action, raided the Ozark hills ranch of Clyde Higgs today in a fruitless search for John Dillinger, escaped Indiana desperado, and Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd, southwestern outlaw.

The peace officers acted upon information that two men, identified by the informant as Dillinger and Floyd, had arrived in an ambulance at the ranch Friday night. One of the men was reported seriously wounded.

Higgs denied any one had been at his ranch in the last two days and that any one had arrived there in an ambulance. The sheriffs searched Higgs' cabin thoroughly.

Sheriff Curtis said it was the belief of officers that the two men were taken to the Higgs place in an ambulance and that they obtained medical treatment and departed.

Sheriff Curtis said he had been told a physician, whose name he did not know, but whom he believed was from Wichita, Kas., had been at the Higgs ranch in the last few days. He said he believed this physician possibly had treated the wounded man.

ARIZONA EX-CONVICT IS HELD AS SUSPECT IN ROBLES KIDNAPING

La Junta, Colo., June 24.—(AP)—Don Rodriguez, 23, Arizona ex-convict, was questioned here today as a possible suspect in the kidnaping of June Robles, six year old Tucson Ariz., girl.

Sheriff Ralph Whitton declared Rodriguez exhibited knowledge of the kidnaping and said he was in Arizona April 25. The girl was abducted that day when on her way home from school. He left Arizona May 15, the day after the girl was found chained in a rude den in the desert near Tucson, the sherif said.

Whitton described Rodriguez, who said his home is in Globe, Ariz., as "plenty smart" and said he had made no statements of 'self-incriminating nature." Rodriguez was arrested June 10. When Rodriguez and a companion broke into the home of Harry Mendenhall, a banker, who beat Rodriguez over the head with a gun and held him until the police arrived. The other man escaped.

FACTOR EXPECTS COURT TO FREE HIM TOMORROW

John Factor, held in the Sycamore lace curtain jail for extradition to England on a swindling charge, expected yesterday that Judge Evan A. Evans of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals would release him tomorrow under a statute which limits to 60 days removal of prisoners in extradition cases.

Factor has been in the De Kalb county jail more than 60 days, his attorney, G. Gale Gilbert, pointed out.

The state department has failed to issue a warant for his surrender to the British government. Authorities, it is understood, wish Factor kept in America until the Illinois Supreme Court rules on convictions of Touhy gangsters for kidnaping him.

"Technically," said Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer, representing the British crown, "Factor has never been surrendered into our custody and until he is, we can't be charged with failure to remove him."

ADMITS EXTORTION THREATS AGAINST SON OF BANKER

Indianapolis, Ind., June 24.—(AP)—Reeves Brown, 26, was arrested today and admitted to federal agents that he tried to extort $1,200 under threat of death to Irving W. Lemaux Jr., 18, son of the president of the Security Trust company here. The arrest was made after the agents and city detectives had followed a 13 year old boy who picked up a "dummy" package left with the cashier of a downtown garage under instructions from the extortionist.

Val C. Nolan, United States district attorney, said Brown, employed in the print shop of a hospital, admitted he engineered the whole plot to "get some money."

In one of four letters received by Mrs. Lemaux the writer warned her to "remember the fate of Bobby Franks and Marian Parker."

PAROLE OFFICERS OPEN CONVENTION HERE TOMORROW

400 from 11 States Will Study Problems.

Representatives of the parole boards of eleven states will begin a four day conference in the Medinah club tomorrow under the sponsorship of the Illinois department of public welfare. About 400 parole, legal, penal, and police officials of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, and Wisconsin will participate.

George T. Scully, superintendent of supervision of paroles for Illinois, is to direct the conference. Gov. Horner and Arthur Wood, chairman of the federal parole board, are to speak.

Supervision the Problem.

Reciprocity between states in parole supervision will provide one subject of discussion, and participants will exchange ideas on institutional preparole education, felon classification, general parole supervision, and the sponsorship and after-care of parolees.

"Parolees, or convicts released on parole, are actually trusties at large," Mr. Scully said in announcing the conference. "There are now in effect working agreements between some of our central states on supervision of parolees of other states.

Hopes for Agreements.

"We seek to perfect existing agreements, institute new agreements, and perhaps pave the way for uniform laws that will enable each state not only to control its own parolees but also to dictate the admission of rejection of parolees from other states."

COMPILE BOOK LISTING INDIAN TRIBAL SIGNS

Washington, D. C., June 24.—(AP)—The strangest dictionary ever compiled, listing not words but signs, is being completed here to rescue from oblivion the Indian sign language.

Hundreds of signs and their word meanings are being listed by Smithsonian institution scientists with the aid of Richard Sanderville, 70 year old Blackfoot Indian, one of the last of his race who knows the sign language.

Almost forgotten today, it once was the wordless speech by which the Red man made treaties with other tribes, carried on trade, and parleyed for war and peace around ancient council fires.

The language was a system of symbols made by the hands and fingers, not at all like the signs used by the deaf and dumb.

It was a kind of international code learned in childhood and was the only way members of the different tribes could make one another understand. Few modern Indians know or use the language, and the Smithsonian is anxious to save it before it is too late.

RED RAIL CHIEFS HIT; SHIPMENT OF GRAIN PERILED

MOSCOW, June 24.—(AP)—Managers of Russian railways were denounced today by the newspaper Izvestia for failure to fulfill a transportation improvement plan designed to speed up movement of grain and other freight next winter.

The repair program for the year has been only 12 per cent executed by some lines and only 36 per cent by the line making the best showing, government reports indicate. Although the production of rails the first half of the year was to be 262,000 tons, only 195,000 tons has been turned out.

No lines, it was reported, have started erecting snow fences. The Izvestia berates railway managers for centering attention on problems of routine operation. It urges the government to prod them into preparing railways for the winter rush.

CHICAGO'S PERFECT BACK

Judges' Choice

The most beautiful back in Chicago, three artists and three chiropractors have concluded belongs to Miss Vivian Zweigoron, 17 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Zweigoron, 1542 West 69th street. In the Palmer house yesterday, they studied the backs of the 33 contestants.

Judges considered spinal examination, general health, beauty, grace, posture and carriage, with a possible score of 100 per cent. Miss Zweigoron, whose back was praised by the artist contingent for its "smooth, flowing contour and undulating flow of muscle," scored 92½.

Second place was awarded to Miss Patsy Shan, 700 North Grove avenue, Oak Park, who scored 91, and third place to Miss Aldona Narvid, 2424 West 69th street, who scored 89¾.

Miss Zweigoron will represent Chicago in a state wide "back" contest July 20 at Dixon in connection with the state convention of chiropractors.

Artists assisting in the judging were John G. Prasuhn, Sudduth Goss, and Charles Orville Engel. Chiropractor judges were Dr. T. J. Boner, Dr. A. G. Eichel and Dr. H. E. Gillig.

ASSESSES EACH MEDINAH GUEST ON $4,400 VALUE

Personal property tax assessment lists left in the rooms of 209 permanent residents at the Medinah club, 505 North Michigan avenue, revealed yesterday that the assessor estimates the taxable personalty of every guest at exactly $4,440.

Practically none of the resident guests owns furniture or furnishings, the management stated. Most of them have single rooms in which only their clothing, toilet articles, and perhaps a book or two may be classed as their personal property.

Under the present personal property taxation system the assessed value is set at 37 per cent of the assumed actual value. On that basis the $4,440 valuations arbitrarily placed against the 209 men and women make it appear that each guest was assessed on an actual valuation of $8,000, plus a 50 per cent penalty for failure to file, or $12,000.

Complaints on 1933 personal property assessments will be received by the board of appeals starting today, George F. Nixon, member of the board, announced yesterday, for the townships of Lake View, Maine, Niles, River Forest, and Riverside. Deadline for the complaints, which may be filed in room 337 at the county building, is July 7.

CCC MAN JAILED FOR MURDER OF SCHOOLGIRL, 14

Saranac Lake, N. Y., June 24.—(AP)—Truman Showers, 24, a member of the Civilian Conservation corps, was held by state police tonight for questioning in connection with the raping and slaying of Cleo Tellstone, 14 year old high school girl, whose nude body was found in the woods today a mile from her home.

After grilling the youth for several hours at the Saranac Lake barracks the troopers brought him out. It is believed they were taking him to the jail at Malone.

Showers comes from Syracuse. He was taken into custody because he was seen driving a CCC truck past the Tellstone house in the village of Bloomingdale shortly after the girl left home yesterday to post a letter. She was not seen alive after she posted the letter.

'JIMMY' WEDELL, SPEED PILOT, IS KILLED IN CRASH

Teaching Youth to Fly; Falls 300 Feet.

apparently attempted to straighten it out. Then it fell nose first to earth. "Jimmy crashed," some one shouted.

Robertson and a score of others leaped into an automobile and rushed for the plane.

They found it had struck a small tree in a rice field and then buried its nose in several feet of mud and water. The plane was demolished but did not burn.

His Dreams Come True.

New Orleans, La., June 24.—[Special.]—When Wedell roared his way on Labor day into a world record of greater speed than any human ever before flew in a land plane, another of those impossible glory dreams of the American small town boy had come true.

A hobo kid flyers had justified the faith in him to which a rich man held tenaciously for years at a cost of nearly a million dollars. When Jimmy Wedell flashed past official timers at the international air races at a speed of 305.33 miles an hour, it was in a low wing monoplane of his own design.

The crown of world-wide fame had been set on as fantastic a career as ever was written in the annals of the air. For Jimmy Wedell, blind in one eye since boyhood, a lad who never even reached high school, had managed to get exactly one hour of flying instructions in all his life. He was one of the last of the great barnstormers.

Paterson is a little town on Bayou Teche in the heart of the Evangeline country. There Jimmy Wedell built his world-beating airplane. Patterson became the air capital of the world, its men said. Two men thought it, Jimmy Wedell, who built the plane, and Harry P. Williams, who backed him to the limit, and beyond.

Races Storm for Baby.

Last December Wedell won an event which he himself called his greatest achievement, a race against death and time. Flying from Houston, Tex., in a borrowed plane thorugh snow and fog, Wedell brought Sue Trammel, a baby a few months old, to Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, for an operation which could save her life. The pilot dared weather which drove every other plane on his course to the ground, and came through safely.

One Dies in Burning Plane.

Yates City, Ill., June 24.—[Special.]—James C. Ryan, 28, a licensed pilot of this city, and Dr. Robert T. Plummer, 35, of Trivoli, were killed this evening when their plane crashed in a spin and caught fire four miles northeast of Farmington. Dr. Plummer, just learning to fly, was at the controls of the ship, which he and Ryan owned jointly.

The crash was seen by Fremont Opie, a farmer; Archie Manuel of Hanna City, and Al Stengall of Peoria.

At the risk of their lives the three ran to the burning plane, cut Dr. Plummer loose from the straps of his seat, and dragged him to safety. He was taken to a Peoria hospital, where he died. Ryan was killed outright.

Two Collide in Air.

Rutland, Vt., June 24.—(AP)—W. J. McMullin, pilot, and R. L. Oakes, a photographer for the aerial exploration survey of New York, were killed today as their airplane collided with another 3,000 feet over this city.

The pilot of the other plane, Capt. H. H. Mills of Hartford, Conn., leaped in his parachute to safety.

LEARNS TO FLY BY MAIL; FIND STOLEN PLANE IN CRACKUP

Fairfield, Ia., June 24.—[Special.]—W. M. Groves, manager of the Muscatine, Ia., municipal airport, early today found and identified the Aeronca monoplane stolen from its hangar early Thursday.

The plane was found in the field of a farmer, whose 19 years old hired helper, James Pentzel, had been flying it over the countryside.

Pentzel, who had taken a few flying lessons by correspondence, is believed to have stolen the ship and flown it here.

The youth had broken the propellor and one wing in a landing and had left for Davenport for repairs. He was to be arrested on his return. The plane was traced through complaints of farmers that he was scaring their cattle by low flying.

BULLITT PLANE CRASHES IN FIELD AT LENINGRAD

U. S. Envoy and His Pilot Escape Injury.

LENINGRAD, U. S. S. R., June 24.—(AP)—William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to Russia, and Lieut. Thomas D. White, military attaché of the embassy at Moscow, crashed while attempting to land in an airplane at a field here today. Neither Bullitt nor his aide was injured.

Lieut. White, at the controls of the embassy plane, said the motor failed as he was about to alight. He was obliged to make a quick descent and the plane, striking soft earth, nosed down and turned over.

Bullitt came here to meet his young daughter, Anne, who is expected to arrive for a visit Wednesday.

Bullitt Tells of Accident.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LENINGRAD, June 24.—Ambassador William C. Bullitt tonight told how he escaped injury in a plane crash at the Leningrad airdrome today.

"We had left Moscow just after noon," he said. "Midway we met bad weather. Coming within sight of the airport, my excellent pilot, Lieut. White, before attempting a landing in the marshy field, stopped the engine. While descending the motor refused to work again. White kept his presence of mind and tried to maneuver, inclining to the left, but because of the marshy land he could not prevent the plane from turning upside down.

"We found ourselves in a queer position, but fortunately we were strongly tied and two minutes later we were free. I didn't experience one moment of emotion and here we are unscratched, but the machine was almost destroyed."

Roosevelt Gets Message.

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt received a message today from William C. Bullitt, ambassador to Russia, saying he and a pilot had landed "upside down" in an airplane at Leningrad, but that he was all right.

"Plane landed upside down," Bullitt reported, "but we emerged rightside up. Trust no one has reported to you that we are dead. We are both unscratched. Good luck for your trip."

PAY TO BE TOPIC OF TEACHERS AT CONCLAVE HERE

Salary and working conditions in the teaching field will be studied at the annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers to open at the Morrison hotel today. The convention, which will continue through the week, is expected to attract several hundred teachers representing 140 local organizations in 25 states.

The federation will analyze reports on the school pay situation throughout the country. It proposes to draft a program of federal aid for schools based on the convention findings. Plans for a revision of present school tax systems will also be discussed.

Dean Maynard C. Kreuger of the department of economics, University of Chicago, will speak at the opening session this morning on "The Responsibility of the Teacher in the Present Plight of the Schools." Federal Judge William H. Holly, former general counsel for the federation; John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; John H. Walker, former president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and Dean E. O. Melby of the school of education, Northwestern university, are scheduled to appear on the convention program. Henry R. Linville of New York, head of the federation, will preside.

NEED ENERGY?

Today we call attention again to important facts which were presented to smokers in a recent item in this paper.

Perhaps you overlooked it. We repeat:

You can release new vigor, when tired, by smoking a Camel.

This comes from the "energizing effect" in Camels as recently confirmed and described by a famous New York scientific laboratory. Everyone gets fatigued...cross...down in the dumps...when his energy is used up. But the way to turn on more energy has now been pointed out, by actual Camel smokers who tell of their own experiences. And by up-to-date research made in the laboratories of science.

And so—"get a lift with a Camel!" Any time you want to enjoy yourself or restore yourself. Steady smoking need not concern Camel smokers, since the finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never get on your nerves.

CAMEL'S Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

SMASH CRITICS OF NAZI REGIME, GOEBBELS CRIES

'Reactionaries' Are Given a New Warning.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 24.—Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of propaganda, today threatened to take drastic action against "reactionaries," and again lashed out at those who criticize the government. His tirade, which was made in the course of a speech at Essen, is believed to have been aimed at Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen and his conservative associates. Last Sunday Von Papen denounced Nazi "arrogance and excesses" in a speech at Marburg.

"We vanquished the Marxists," Goebbels thundered, "but we still tolerate the reactionaries. They appear under the guise of society gentlemen such as reserve officers, intellectuals, newspaper men, and priests who think Nazism only a temporary phase. It is the same clique we knew before and during the war. It has learned nothing in all these years.

Ready to Sweep Them Out.

"We allow them to stick in their mouse holes. But the minute der fuehrer [the leader, Chancellor Adolf Hitler] gives the order to wipe them out they will be swept away within 24 hours.

"Only members of the Nazi party have the right to criticize, and leaders who criticize must take action immediately to enforce reforms. Those who are unable to improve conditions must be silent."

Goebbels told his listeners that the present crisis will not be over in a year, and perhaps not in ten or twenty years. But in the same breath he held out the promise that unemployment will be abolished.

"Then we will work out a new four year plan to initiate improvements in the standard of living," he said.

Praises Talk with Duce.

Germany is preparing to break the ring which isolates her by negotiating with Italy and Poland, the propaganda minister continued. The recent conference between Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini will probably have more fruitful results, he added, than "five or six international economic and disarmament conferences."

Referring to the strained relations between the state and the churches, the propaganda minister said: "We cannot bind ourselves to any one religion. We are neither Protestants nor Catholics, only Germans."

Admitting that the Nazi state has not reached perfections, Goebbels said it must progress slowly to avoid setbacks. The people, he said, must be patient and "hard, like Hitler." He cautioned Germans to emulate the chancellor during their difficulties.

"The German people must learn to face their difficulties now as England did in 1918," he declared.

Bishop Addresses Catholics.

BERLIN, June 24.—(AP)—Bishop Nicholas Bares today exhorted 75,000 German Catholics at a huge, open air convention to regard Christ as their only "fuehrer," or leader.

The admonition drew sharply to the attention of the nation the increasing tension between the reich and the church. The advice was given on the eve of negotiations between church leaders and the department of the interior, which tomorrow will start a study of reasons for the failure of the concordat, signed at Rome a year ago to adjust relations between church and state.

Bishop Bares' remarks were made in the course of a sermon at the Hoppegarten racing course, to which German Catholics from all parts of the nation came for the thirty-second annual convention of the Berlin bishopric.

Bishop Bares' sermon was characterized by restraint, but he made several indirect references to strife between the church and the government.

"Harken to the message of the ministrants of God—not to the faltering words of human beings," the bishop advised.

"You need a protecting shield against the ills that beset you and against the destructive force threatening us. You need a bulwark to save you from blunted insensibility to religion.

"You must understand it is imperative for you to consecrate yourselves wholly, for all time and eternity, to one alone, and that is Jesus Christ."

BISHOP URGES BRITAIN TO DISARM EVEN IF OTHER NATIONS DO NOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 24.—"If all attempts to secure disarmament fail, I would have my own country disarm and for its safety trust to a policy of international righteousness and coöperation with other nations," Dr. Ernest William Barnes, bishop of Birmingham, declared tonight at a service in connection with the national peace congress at Birmingham.

He attacked militarists among the clergy "who speak as though a bombing plane can set out with Christ's blessing, or as though poison gas is a direct gift of the Holy Spirit."

"Those implications are false," the bishop said. "There is nothing in Christ's teachings to excuse the cruelties of war. War is of the devil, not of Christ."

The bishop predicted that any alternative policy to disarmament would lead to large scale war and the end of western European civilization. He cited jealousy and national pride as the main causes of war. Explaining the policy of "international righteousness," Dr. Barnes declared that as far as Great Britain is concerned, he would reverse the injustice of the treaty of Versailles, returning to Germany her colonies, and give India self-government.

500 PARIS VETS RIOT; PROTEST CUT IN PENSION

PARIS, June 24.—(AP)—Rioting flared in Paris today, when 500 war veterans, continued their weekly protests against pension cuts. They marched out on the square in front of the Paris Opera, in the heart of the capital, and fought police and mounted guards, who quickly brought the situation under control.

A riot broke out yesterday at Longchamp because of a bad start in one of the horse races. It took on a political twist at the height of battle when shouts of "Stavisky" were heard, the reference being to France's greatest political scandal in a generation.

The readiness of crowds in general throughout France to resort to violence and destruction is worrying authorities. They have been forced to give protection to 1,000 political meetings in the last three months, and there have been more than a dozen serious clashes.

Belgrade Greets Barthou on French Security Tour

PARAGUAY CLAIMS FOE LOST 2,000 TROOPS IN BATTLE

BUENOS AIRES, June 24.—(AP)—The outcome of the terrific battle at Fort Ballivian, last remaining Bolivian bulwark in the Gran Chaco, was clouded today in a new outbreak of propaganda warfare between the capitals of Bolivia and Paraguay.

Official Bolivian claims from La Paz that 2,000 Paraguayans had been killed or wounded in a deadly artillery barrage were flatly denied in Asuncion, where the ministry of defense declared that between 2,000 and 2,500 Bolivians had been killed or wounded.

The Paraguayan losses were not stated. The Bolivians placed their losses yesterday at 61 killed and 170 wounded; but it appeared definite that Fort Ballivian still remains in Bolivian hands.

Lull in Fighting.

While the war ministries were laying down a barrage of words, the fighting in the jungle area along the Pilcomayo river, scene of slaughter and destruction since May 13, when the third major Paraguayan offense began, apparently had lulled while both sides reorganized their lines.

The Paraguayan ministry's statement bitterly attacked what it called Bolivian propaganda seeking to keep Bolivian civilians and the world misinformed as to the progress of the war.

The statement said that an attack by the Bolivian troops was met by deadly machine gun fire "which reduced the compact ranks of the attackers."

Leticia Commission Chosen.

MANAOS, Brazil, June 24.—(AP)—The mixed commission which is to govern the much disputed Leticia area between Colombia and Peru was formally constituted yesterday with the Brazilian general, Candido Rondon, assuming the presidency. The commission will sail for Leticia when preparations are completed.

Gen. Rondon with the former President, Theodore Roosevelt, discovered and explored a jungle river in Brazil.

Besides the Brazilian, a Colombian general, Luis Acevedo, and a Peruvian senator, Pablo Villaneuva, constitute the commission of three. It is under a mandate of three governments to stand guard for four years over Leticia's 2,780 square miles.

COAL INDUSTRY ENTERS FIGHT ON TVA EXPERIMENT

Trade Association Backs Alabama Operators.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—[Special.]—The entire bituminous coal industry Saturday swung its support behind the Alabama coal mine operators who are trying to stop the spread of the New Deal's socialistic experiment in Tennessee valley.

The National Coal association, trade association for the bituminous industry, made public a resolution commending the action of Alabama coal interests in bringing an injunction suit against the TVA.

Declaring that the hydro-electric power developments, which are the heart of the TVA, are "impossible of either social or economic justification," the National Coal association promised to help fight the Alabama battle. The resolution put the national coal industry into a fight to the finish against the New Dealers over the constitutionality of the TVA.

Injunctions being sought in Alabama assert that the electric utility functions being assumed by the TVA in competition with private business violate the constitution.

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal association, said: commenting on the resolution adopted by the board, said:

"This TVA power development program as it now stands is a life and death matter for the bituminous coal industry in the southern field.

"Its consummation can have no other effect than to put out of business dozens of mines, to destroy the jobs of thousands of miners, and to wipe out millions of dollars of private investment within the Tennessee valley area.

"On the one hand the government is aiding our industry with the NRA code and on the other hand threatening us with irreparable injury.

"We want to cooperate with the President in his efforts to promote economic recovery, but we cannot support a power program which imperils the rehabilitation and future prosperity of the bituminous coal industry."

NEGRO IS SLAIN, BODY MUTILATED BY WHITE BAND

Manchester, Tenn., June 24.—(AP)—A 35 year old Negro was shot and killed and his body mutilated by a band of white men near here early today.

Officers reported the act occurred after the men had visited a Negro dance, where the Negro struck one of them. Eight men were held tonight charged with murder.

Sheriff C. D. Huffman of Coffee county said that before the Negro, Dick Wilkerson, was slain his attackers went to his home and "tore up everything he had, tore it literally all to pieces."

They then returned to the dance, he said, and took Wilkerson and an unidentified Negro away in an automobile. Apparently the second Negro escaped.

Wilkerson's body was found about 14 miles southeast of here.

Included in the band of attackers, the sheriff said, was a 14 year old boy, the son of one of the men in the band. He, the officers reported, furnished the names of the eight men who were arrested.

DEATH INQUIRY OPENS.

Moline, Ill., June 24.—[Special.]—State and county authorities are investigating the death of William A. Wahlgren, 50, of Moline, whose body was found last night in a rooming house. Coroner Harry J. Vance, suspecting poisoning, ordered the stomach sent to the state chemist for examination.

3 MILE DISPLAY OF FURNITURE IS TO OPEN TODAY

The 31st semi-annual market of the American Furniture mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, will open its three weeks' exhibition today with more than three miles of 1934 furniture styles on display for 7,000 visiting merchants.

More than 500 manufacturers of furniture, electrical appliances, kitchen equipment and home furnishings in general have entered exhibits, leasing floor space which exceeds by 65,000 square feet the total at the January furniture show. The National Rug show, to be held with the furniture exhibit, will include products of 37 rug mills.

Full schedules for the visiting dealers, furniture buyers, and department store buyers have been planned by both the National Furniture association and the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers. A luncheon featuring trends in furniture style will be held at noon tomorrow in the Furniture Mart.

Also to open tomorrow, for 5,000 buyers, are the midsummer furniture market and the national Chicago gift show, both in the furniture division of the Merchandise Mart.

MRS. A. MADSEN WOULD DIVORCE FOURTH HUSBAND

Hot Springs, Ark., June 24.—(AP)—Seeking marital freedom for the fourth time, Mrs. Aksel Madsen of New York, red haired beauty and artist's model, is here to seek a divorce from her present husband. He is an international big game explorer at present with the Danish legation.

The Madsens were married in Chicago in 1930. Less than a year before, Mrs. Madsen had divorced Count Jean de la Vaiss, French world war ace, who married her in Memphis in June, 1929. Walton G. Rogers was her first husband. She was Jeannine Nell Lucia Gibson of Chattanooga and Nashville, Tenn. She then was 16 and had attended convent at Nashville. Rogers later became a Baptist minister and she divorced him 11 years later at Chattanooga.

Mrs. Madsen refused to divulge the name of her third husband. She said that marriage was annulled.

ROOSEVELT AND AIDS OPEN BIG CAMPAIGN SOON

Tugwell to Fire First Gun Wednesday.

will be the headliners of the campaign, along with Wallace, Ickes, Madame Secretary Perkins, and Cummings. But there also will be numerous speeches by smaller fry, both in and out of the brain trust, such as NRA Counsel Richberg, TVA Counsel Lilienthal, AAA Counsel Frank, the political prize fighter, Gene Tunney, and the song and dance man, Eddie Dowling.

As curtain raisers for the propaganda campaign, Chester Davis, administrator of the AAA, has gone up to stony Vermont to tell the textile workers that the textile code has boosted their pay rolls by 160 millions, and Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, has gone back home to Wisconsin to tell the folks there that the federal government has poured enough millions into Wisconsin to represent $66 for every man, woman and child in the state.

Thus one of the major keynotes of the New Dealers' campaign is disclosed. Special tables are being prepared for speakers whereby they will be enabled to tell farmers, workers, unemployed, and so on, just how many millions have been paid into their counties, cities and states. It will remain for the Republicans to tell the voters that they are going to pay for those millions themselves some day.

Some of the seriously minded advocates of the New Deal doubt the wisdom of this carnival of speechmaking by the brain trusters.

There are fears being voiced by the few conservative minded New Dealers that the effect of an avalanche of words from the brain trusters on the folks out in the west and the middle west will be an avalanche of votes for Republican candidates for congress.

Some opinion holds that when November nears President Roosevelt again will put the lid on his radical professors and let Mr. Farley and his 50,000 precinct captains take care of the finish.

The Republicans are planning a bit of speechmaking themselves. The new chairman of the Republican national committee, Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, will make his first big speech, keynoting the congressional campaigns, at Jackson, Mich., on July 7, the 80th anniversary of the birth of the party at Jackson.

MIDWEST GETS 150 MILLION IN DROUTH RELIEF

Roosevelt Signs Order Pouring Out Cash.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 24.—[Special.]—Using the authority granted him by the recent congress under the two billion dollar emergency appropriation act, President Roosevelt in his home today signed an executive order which pours $150,000,000 immediately into the drouth areas of the middle west.

It was the first time the chief executive had wielded a portion of the immense power vested in him at the last session. He was given the authority to spend $525,000,000 to meet the drouth crisis alone, and his order today called for the immediate expenditure of nearly 30 per cent of that amount.

$12,500,000 for CCC.

The $150,000,000 is to be spent in the following fashion:

1. To the director of emergency conservation work for the establishment and maintenance of civilian conservation corps camps, $12,500,000.

2. To the farm credit administration for making loans to farmers for seed, feed, freight, summer fallowing, and similar purposes, under such terms and conditions as the governor thereof may prescribe, $25,000,000.

[Details of the operation of this portion of the order will be found in the Financial section.]

3. To the federal emergency relief administration for making grants to states, $56,250,000.

4. For the purpose of increasing employment through the purchase of lands in the stricken areas, $12,500,000.

5. To the secretary of agriculture or such agency as he may designate, the sum of $43,750,000 for the purchase, sale, gift, or other disposition of seed, feed, and live stock and for transportation thereof.

Eye to Political Benefits.

Fully aware of the political benefits accruing from this wholesale lading out of millions and desirous of getting the best possible publicity for the executive order, the signing of the bill was delayed until today in order that it might be given to the newspapers of the country on a Sunday when news ordinarily is scarce. The President originally had intended to make the announcement yesterday.

The President also signed a number of minor bills and dictated a big batch of letters. He lunched with Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York and discussed politics.

The presidential party will leave tomorrow night for Washington.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

June 24, 1934.

YEARS ago when a small farm cottage (now abandoned) was built here on the farm, little did the builders know that some day, decades later, a room of this house would be turned into a "private hotel" by a family of phoebes. But this very thing has happened because a smart phoebe found an entrance and exit into this room through a broken window and picked out a nesting site on the side of the wall. Now here she is with a bunch of five young ones.

I have just been around to look at this interesting family sitting so quietly in this old cottage which 40 years ago must have been quite a home here in the oak woods overlooking a ravine. The nest is placed on a little jog in the wall which has just enough of a flat surface to give the phoebe a chance to do her expert masonry work with mud, grasses and moss. It is about four feet from the floor. I crouched very quietly in the dark corner of the room opposite the nest and waited about two minutes for the mother bird to fly in through her private entrance, light on the nest and feed one of her offspring with insects. (This species is a flycatcher and as such mighty useful in killing insects.) After feeding one of the birds she lingered a few minutes, as if to sort of tell her hungry crowd that she'd be back with something very soon, and then, quick as a flash, she darted out the window again. She had no sooner departed than I saw one of the husky youngsters in the nest stand up and fan his wings back and forth as if he were taking his exercises in preparation for the day when he would follow his parent out into the world.

There was an air of excitement yesterday in the big yard where 78 spring pigs spend their time. For the first time in their lives these active little grunters were being introduced to the latest thing in a farm cafeteria. As soon as the boys set up this "help yourself" self-feeder all the pigs swarmed around the "counters" and staged a regular riot to get their noses into the food. Of course, there was some doubt in the minds of these little porkers what this self-feeder was when it was placed in the yard. But it didn't take very long for the animals to get on to the idea that here was a good-eats counter and every guy was to look out for himself. So they pushed and they shoved, and they squealed and they grunted, to sample the menu provided by the self-feeder.

This open cafeteria has several compartments for different kinds of foods, so that the porkers get a varied diet including the necessary minerals, vitamins, etc. One compartment has, of course, ground feed which is the main body of the meal. Then the pigs can pick out what represents salad and desert for porkers from the other food compartments.

Another stray dog has been causing trouble on the auxiliary farm. Some weeks ago a roving canine got into the area around the duck pond and not only killed a goose, but just about ruined the nesting chances of the other birds. Now a stray dog that went "hunting" in the woods caught a turkey hen and killed her. However, the turkey crop has been very successful in spite of this latest casualty. There are 130 young ones on the farm right now, all growing in fine style, and the Barred Rock hens have done a pretty good job with the guinea hen eggs intrusted to them by scoring 31 chicks out of 40 eggs. Two more hens have just been ordered to get busy with clutches of 19 guinea eggs.

Paul Sleezer of the University of Illinois is now on duty as the official guide for the experimental farm. He will be available to all visitors.

PASTOR WARNS OF DEPENDENCE ON NEW DEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oberlin, O., June 24.—[Special.]—Warning against dependence upon the New Deal or any other scheme for saving the social order, the Rev. Dr. Ashley Day Leavitt of Brookline, Mass., today delivered the keynote sermon of the biennial general council of the Congregational churches.

He declared that any scheme in the hands of ruthless men may be the cause of all evils that seem inevitable under our present order of life.

Paints Dismal Picture.

The Harvard church pastor painted a dismal picture of the future of western civilization. He added, however, that something can be done about it and asserted that the Christian principles must be invoked in shaping the system of political and social life by which the fortunes of all men are affected.

'The doom of civilization is just around the corner," said Dr. Leavitt. "The overturning of social and economic systems is already under way. What a temptation it is, when the message of good will and trust in God has grown rather stale through monotonous repetition, to awaken the people with prophecies of impending revolution."

Sees Change for Worse.

Dr. Leavitt declared that organized Christianity is in a humiliating position in the world today. He declared it to be a power, "But it is not a power to be reckoned with. Its counsels of peace, of brotherly love, of the supremacy of spiritual values, are known wherever anything is known of Christianity, but in spite of a multitude of shining examples of Christian living in individual cases the life of the world seems changing for the worse rather than the better."

The fact that the Christian church is not effective in shaping systems of political and social life of the country was deplored by the council member.

Urges Broader Idea.

Dr. Leavitt concluded the sermon by asking the question, "Is Christ Enough?" This he answered affirmatively but with the provision that the church enlarge its "outmoded" stereotyped ideas of salvation. This idea was adequate, he said, for bringing right relations between man and God only through Christ.

At tomorrow's business session of the council the proposal made by Prof. Arthur H. Holt of the Chicago Theological seminary for the creation of the social relations board will be acted upon. The new board, if set up, will have equal standing with those of home and foreign missions. Leaders of the council declare that the Holt proposal is the most radical offered to a Protestant church.

THREATEN HOTEL STRIKE IN DRIVE FOR HIGHER PAY

Plans to organize hotel and restaurant workers in Chicago in a drive for shorter working hours and higher wages, were completed at a meeting of union and independent leaders at 157 West Van Buren street yesterday afternoon. George Beinlich, head of the Hotel and Restaurant Industrial union, was named chairman of an organization committee.

If hotel owners do not meet demands for a 40 hour week and $15 a week minimum cash pay, the joint committee is threatening to call a strike, scheduling it for a time when World's Fair attendance is at a peak, Beinlich declared after the meeting. He charged that hotel and restaurant workers are not being paid a living wage and that conditions are worse under the NRA codes than before.

John Burke, president of the Congress Hotel company, and head of the Chicago Hotel association, an organization of operators, was unworried last night by the strike threat. "I agree with them about the code," he said. "Conditions are worse than before—worse for the hotel operator. But I know of no code violations and labor in the larger hotels is satisfied."

DIES IN INCURABLE HOME FALL.

Stephen Hansen, 55, for three years an inmate of the Chicago Home for Incurables, 5535 Ellis avenue, fell to his death yesterday from a balcony on the fourth floor of the home.

HUNT ROBBERS OF 2 PHYSICIANS AND THEIR WIVES

Police last night were seeking the bandits who held up two leading Chicago physicians and their wives, robbing them of jewelry valued at $2,450 and $95 in cash early yesterday morning as they were returning from a north side party. The victims were Dr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Portis, 5737 Blackstone avenue, and Dr. and Mrs. William C. Buchbinder, 5109 Ellis avenue.

As the Portis automobile halted before the Buchbinder home two armed men leaped from another car. Each menaced one of the physicians as they took $25 from Dr. Buchbinder, $15 from his wife, and $45 from Dr. Portis. From Mrs. Portis they snatched a watch, bracelet, and two rings valued at $2,450. Then they drove away.

Dr. Portis is professor of clinical medicine at Loyola university and attending physician at the county hospital. Dr. Buchbinder, an assistant professor of medicine at Northwestern university medical school, is on the staffs of Michael Reese and the county hospitals.

BOY DIES OF LOCKJAW.

THE OLD DEAL IN FRANCE AND THE NEW DEAL HERE.

Bonds of the French government advanced last week to 135, or 85 per cent above par. This rise which has been in progress for some time is a reflection of the complete confidence Americans have in the intention and ability of the French government to stay on the gold standard without devaluing the franc. Several waves of fear as to the ability of France to stay on gold have swept the world since the dollar was first detached from the old gold parity. Apprehension was particularly acute last February, when immediately following the formal devaluation of the dollar there was a financial scandal in France followed by political disorders and budget difficulties. Nervous foreign balances fled Paris and frightened Frenchmen hoarded.

But French financial authorities insisted that all this was but a part of the normal operations of a gold standard. Those who wanted gold were given it, and to emphasize that inflation was not to be resorted to substantial reductions were made in governmental expenditures. When the purpose and capacity of the French to maintain the gold standard became clear there was no longer any reason for domestic or foreign withdrawals of gold. The flow was quickly reversed. Funds in volume have been returning from abroad and gold has been coming out of hoarding. Since March the gold holdings of the Bank of France have increased 3,500,000,000 francs. Money has become easier, the rediscount rate has been reduced to 2½ per cent, unemployment has been declining and, according to a report from the Institute of Statistics of the University of Paris, published in the Review of Economic Statistics, the improvement of the general situation is steadily becoming more pronounced.

Favorable developments in France suggest what would have been the succession of events in the United States if there had been firm adherence to the gold standard and a balancing of the budget through a reduction of governmental expenditures. Our money would have been proved sound by test and we would have been experiencing the rewards of virtue which France is enjoying. It is altogether probable that the sound revival of business which began about the middle of 1932 [and was interrupted following President Hoover's expressed fears for the safety of the gold standard in September] would have started again if there had been stern action to maintain the dollar inviolate immediately following March 4, 1933.

But all that is water over the dam. The lesson from France is that economic reconstruction lies along the line of sound money and governmental economy and not along the road of inflation and colossal government expenditures. We need now what France has, a balanced budget through greatly reduced spending by governments, a dollar whose honesty is actively guaranteed by every ounce of gold in the treasury, and an encouragement to private initiative to embark in profit making, employment creating enterprises. In France, where these methods have been tried, unemployment now stands at 327,000. In the United States, where the procedure has been the exact reverse, 10,900,000 people are unemployed.

SIMPLIFYING THE MOVIE QUESTION.

It is variously said that the movies will, won't, can, cannot, must, and dare not reform. It is said that the public will not permit it and that the public will not tolerate anything else than reform. Critics do not agree as to what is good and what is bad. As Mr. Kinsley reported, one and the same play may get in the list of the worst ten and in the list of the best ten. The dilemma reveals more than the variability of temperament and taste. It contains the complexity of the subject.

Probably the first question is: Who is to see it? The broadest assumption is everybody—juvenile and adult. Few other forms of recreation, esthetic or not, are subjected to that test. Literature and the stage are not. Movies began as semi-juvenile entertainment. The mind was supposed to be juvenile whether the body was or not. As the entertainment matured it carried the child along with it. It never has acquired the freedom which loses thought of the adolescent stipulation. That would create a problem for anything. Furthermore, questions of taste, even of principle, cannot be defined in censorship rule books. The difference between good and evil cannot easily be stated there. Intangibles enter where prescriptions stop.

To take an instance: John Barrymore plays the impresario Jaffe in the Ben Hecht-McArthur play, "Twentieth Century Limited." An adult would feel that he had a grievance against all censorship, direct or indirect, if it prevented him from having the hilarious enjoyment of this travesty or of others in like key so well done. Yet the book of rules would have an item against relationships condemned by law and morals and not condemned, if presented at all, by the film.

Austere judges of the movies say that no cynical view of life may be adopted with propriety. Satire and travesty might have a hard time getting over that rock. The head most clearly seen to be hardest rapped is that of the producer to whom salaciousness is the main motive, with all other considerations secondary. He has a script prepared for that purpose, or if one lacks the element he has it injected. He deals in the smirk, leer, and double intention, wrecking his story if necessary to make it pornographic. If he was suppressed there might be clearer vision for the rest of the problem.

A DAY'S RUN FROM CHICAGO.

Visitors to the Chicago Fair, particularly from the south and east, would be well advised to take a little swing around the neighboring country before going home for a larger vision of the region from which Chicago draws its strength. Don't hurry away, but get a bird's eye view. A trip through northwestern Iowa, southwestern Minnesota, and the "mountain region" of southwestern Wisconsin, to specify one integrated area of rivers, bluffs, and mountains, will repay the time and enrich the experience.

"Mountains" must be used in quotes to indicate that the illusion of them can be brought to the sense and imagination with a height of less than two thousand feet. Even the people of these parts have traveled far to see less than is unfolded within a day's automobile run of Chicago. The roads which descend from the height of land to the valleys of the Mississippi, the Wisconsin, the St. Croix, etc., are full of charm, the less used roads being remote from the import of life on the crowded highways.

Just now hen partridge and quail are leading their broods along the trails; orioles, indigo buntings, brown thrashers, goldfinch, bluebirds, bobolink, thrush, and yellow hammers are flashing from cover to cover. The kingbirds are harrying crows and hawks. The marshes are full of red winged blackbirds. Blackberries are in blossom.

The visitor from east and south will find monumented in these river valleys the evidences of an exploration which his own gulf or seacoast barely antedates, remarkable, as he will admit, because his are evidence of approach from the sea and these of the explorer's and the settler's deep penetration of the ancient wilderness.

WORLD'S RECORDS.

The world's records for the mile, the half mile, and the shot put have all been broken by American athletes in the course of the last few days. Both the winning Yale crew and the Harvard crew which was defeated broke the course record at New London. American athletes are better than American mechanics. By and large we run, jump, throw, and swim better than any other people in the world, but, though we pride ourselves on our mechanical intelligence and aptitude, we do not hold the records for mechanical speeds. Germany has the fastest ocean liner and Britain has the fastest motor boat. The Italians and the British have been the only important contestants in recent years for flying speed. The British have the fastest automobile. Legs and lungs are important, but so are motors. We ought to excel all along the line.

Editorial of the Day

THE SHORT MEMORY OF THE NEW DEAL.

[New York Herald Tribune.]

It will doubtless be recalled by our readers that when the newspapers of America insisted upon expressly reserving the constitutional rights of a free press in accepting the newspaper code they were thoroughly jeered at by the administration. Gen. Johnson scoffed and scolded at length. The President of the United States saw fit to say in approving the code: "Of course . . . nobody waives any constitutional right by assenting to a code. The recitation of the freedom of the press clause in the code has no more place here than would the recitation of the whole constitution or of the ten commandments."

What a short memory the New Deal has! When the Weirton steel case was argued before Judge Nields in Wilmington not long ago one of the first points strenuously urged by counsel for the government was this precise point. Counsel for the Weirton company had sought to plead the unconstitutionality of section 7 [a] of the recovery act. The legal forces of the government were quick with their reply. In their brief they contended:

The defendant, having applied for approval under the recovery act of a code of fair competition for the steel industry and having obtained the benefits accruing to it under the act by reason of such approval, cannot now attack the constitutionality of the provisions of that code.

It is a well settled rule in the federal courts that one who has himself voluntarily invoked a statute or who has received the benefits flowing from a statute is estopped later to assert its unconstitutionality.

The brief proceeded to cite a long list of cases, beginning with Daniels vs. Tearney [102 U. S. 415] and ending with United Fuel Gas Co. vs. Railroad Commission [278 U. S. 300], in which this doctrine was laid down. Of course, where a citizen has acted under duress, the rule is different. The learned attorneys for the government, however, had no difficulty in proving to their own satisfaction that the Weirton Steel company was a free agent when it asked for and accepted the code. To be sure, the President had a reserve power of prescribing a code if an industry objected, but he had not exercised the power in this case, so the action of the signers was free as free. Messrs. Fly and Nebeker, of counsel for the government, stressed these arguments in their oral pleas.

It is amusing to compare these confident assertions with the airy denials of the general and the President. Judge Nields did not pass upon the point, as he refused the government the injunction it asked upon other and more elemental grounds. But the contradiction within the administration could not be sharper. What the present administration says when it is persuading an industry to accept a code and what it does after it has the industry roped and tied are plainly two quite different things.

The moral for the newspapers of the country is obvious. When anything as vital as the freedom of the press is at stake don't take chances. The publishers were everlastingly right when they stubbornly insisted upon reserving their constitutional rights in their code. The law of waiver and estoppel may not be as clear as counsel for the government pictured it at Wilmington, but the danger is too great to be risked, whatever the price in scoldings from on high. For in the interpretation of the constitution the final authority is still the Supreme court and neither Gen. Johnson nor the President.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE RUMOR that the depression is finally and absolutely over is borne out by the item in the newspapers to the effect that young Mr. John Jacob Astor has presented the latest lady to whom he is engaged with a $50,000 bracelet of sixty diamonds. A country whose people can toss money around like that is a long way from the poorhouse. It's a consoling thing to think about; a fifty thousand dollar bracelet set with sixty [see 'em, count 'em] diamonds. It makes one believe indeed that all is well with the world. Whereupon we will now emit three hearty ha ha's and go down and get a hot dog sandwich and a glass of beer for dinner.

THAT IDEA FROM WASHINGTON to have bootlegging stopped by requiring the distilleries to have their names blown in the bottles doesn't seem so good when you reflect that it is not at all impossible to refill an old bottle. If the brain trust will only think this over again they will see that the best way to stop the bootleggers will be to make them carry a bell when they go on the street and ring it constantly, while they proclaim every ten feet, "I am a bootlegger and I can prove it!" Then the government sleuths could arrest 'em on suspicion, and if they really prove they're bootleggers then they could be put right into jail. So there! That would hold the sassy old bottleggers for awhile.

TO OCTOBER FROM MAY.

It is a far, far call
From Springtime down to Fall—
A wandering, wistful way
Down to October from May,
And a weary way; and yet,
When once your feet are set
Upon the journey, alack!
You cannot ever turn back.

Out of the woodland, clean
In luscious, limpid green,
Through knee-deep, mauve meadows,
Where billows of sun and shadows
Lave you with redolence,
Lure you with lotus scents,
You ramble along till soon
You reach the haven of June.

Here you would fain pretend
You have found the journey's end—
Here, on the Summer's bosom,
Where roses attain full blossom,
Where brooding birds are blest
With fledglings in each nest,
And sing to the hearkening earth
Of the miracle of birth.

But roses must lose their bloom,
And blooms their rare perfume,
And fledglings must learn to fly
Into the deepening sky.
For the miracle of Life
Is a thing of change and strife,
And on and on you must stray
Down to October from May.

Over the ripening wheat
Wavers the sultry heat.
Its glory and glamour shed,
It waits to be harvested,
While deep in the distant wood
Reign silence and solitude,
Where Springtime reveled and sung
When the season was young.

You come to a wood again,
Somber and weeping with rain.
Slowly the twilight closes
On vague visions of roses;
Slowly the leaves descend—
This is your journey's end!—
You have traveled the weary way
Down to October from May.

SAY WHAT THEY MAY about the bicyclists being pests, I haven't seen anybody on a bicycle yet who zooms down a country road at the rate of eighty or ninety miles an hour or drives while intoxicated. Sometimes they may have partaken a little too freely of milk or sarsaparilla, but anyhow they don't hog the middle lane or go smashing through the red lights. And they don't crash into your car and knock off all the fenders and bumpers and lights and licenses and then pick up a hammer and ask you what'ell you're going to do about it. And most of 'em add much to the beauty of the landscape. Oh, that platinum blonde in very short shorties that cruises around and about in Lincoln park! She certainly has a good right to cruise about. And as for her left? Oh, and indeed and indeed!

AND SINCE all those honorary doctor degrees have been showered by the colleges on the President's advisers in Washington the theaters down there would do well to revive the old custom of having the comedian rush out on the stage and shout, "Is there a doctor in the audience?" It would be great fun to see the entire audience stand up and answer in a mighty chorus, "I'm a doc!"

THE BLACK WIDOW.

INSECT bites, including spider bites, are not only annoying but are sometimes dangerous. Most of us are familiar with the local pain, the swelling, and the general systemic reaction following bee stings. There are many cases on record of fatalities resulting from bee stings.

In many parts of the United States there is found a black spider with the long name Lactrodectus mactan. This insect is commonly called the black widow because of her habit of consuming her mate. The spider is also known as the shoe button or hourglass spider, and is the most poisonous found in this country. The bite of the female only is poisonous, proving that Kipling was right in saying that "the female of the species is more deadly than the male."

When full grown the body is about one-half inch long and the legs have a spread of approximately two inches. The most distinguishing characteristic of the black widow is a bright red hourglass shaped patch on the under surface of the body. The web of the black widow is coarse and irregular and is usually spun in dimly lighted corners of rooms, on rafters, in attics, barns, basements, old fashioned privies, etc.

The symptoms caused by the bite of this vicious insect are similar to those produced by snake venom and resemble those of the bite of the cobra. The venom of the black widow will kill small animals within a few minutes. A physician experimenting with the poison of this spider took a small quantity and experienced at once marked heart embarrassment, severe headache, spasms of chest and abdominal muscles, and intense pain. He described the pain as severe as that of angina pectoris.

The sharp sting caused by the bite of the insect disappears quickly and is followed by excruciating and paroxysmal pain involving the entire body. The pain usually localizes in the abdomen, and may, unless there is a clear history of spider bite, require careful discrimination, else it be mistaken for a serious abdominal condition demanding surgical aid. There is usually a profuse cold perspiration, restlessness, nausea, and vomiting. The local reaction at the site of the bite is not great. There is usually a small amount of redness and swelling. The systemic effects, however, come on very quickly and within an hour after the injection of the poison the patient is seriously ill. The absorption of the poison is so rapid that little can be done by treating the local wound. The management of the condition consists in controling pain and supporting strength of the patient. Hot baths, hot compresses, and heat to the lower extremities may give considerable relief. Spinal puncture in a few instances has been tried and found to be of value.

In a recent survey of cases of spider poisoning more than a dozen fatalities are recorded among several hundred cases. The mortality rate is fortunately low and recovery usually occurs after a few days of intense suffering.

More than one-half the area of the United States is infested with the black widow. Black spiders, especially those having a red colored area on the under surface of the body, with their webs and eggs should be destroyed wherever found. Children should not be permitted to play in unused barns, sheds, garages, attics, or basements where spiders are likely to spin their webs and breed. Should a single black widow be discovered prompt spider eradication measures should be adopted. Insect killing sprays may be of value.

DEVELOPING ARMS.

H. H. writes: In answering T. Y., who asks what exercise will best develop the arms, you recommend pitching hay, rowing, swimming, wrestling, boxing, ropes, ladders, and bars. Hay pitching is one hundred per cent, but I know of exercises that are both better and more useful than the others you mention. I got a fine pair of arms from laying 3,500 bricks a day for some years. A slim Jim lad of a few years ago can today break a chain with his biceps, which he got from cutting and threading steam pipes. "Work on ropes" is good, but I know a man past 71 who can still go up 100 feet hand over hand. He sailed the seven seas for 60 years. Climbing ladders is also good for the legs, especially when carrying a hod of mortar on the shoulder. Bars are fine. An eight foot crowbar and a ton of bowlder make a fine combination.

But perhaps T. Y. is a lady. I know a lady who had slim arms and a big stomach, but her dad got out of work and the lady had to take in washing. You should see her today. Her shape would be envied by a movie queen, and such arms! The lady possesses a bit of temper and dad as well as the kids have learned to respect these arms.

Perhaps T. Y. could get a vacant lot somewhere and a spade and rake. His, or her, congressman would send seed for the asking and the department of agriculture a book of instructions. These, combined with a will to do, should show such results as a reduced front, a stiff back, strong arms—not to speak of the fresh vegetables and the beautiful flowers.

CURE FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

M. K. writes:

1. Is there any cure for tuberculosis?
2. When an ulcer has developed in the throat is there any treatment or medicine that will cure it?
3. If a person has had tuberculosis three years and gets an ulcer in his throat, could it be cured?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. If the ulcer is tubercular your doctor will know how to treat it.
3. Yes. Modern sanitarium treatment may be required.

SWIM AFTER OPERATION.

J. S. writes: I was operated on for acute appendicitis six months ago. I am in good condition. Can I go swimming?

REPLY.

Yes, if the scar is thoroughly healed and firm.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I inherited a piece of real estate. The will has been probated, but [1] there is no evidence of title given except in the inventory of the court. I am making application for a HOLC loan and [2] have nothing to show them. 3. How do I go about getting a deed [4] or some title to this property? Who issues it, the court, executor, or others?

W. P.

1. The probate proceedings are themselves a matter of record. It is not customary as a part of probate proceedings to execute new deeds unless partition proves necessary or there is a will directing the executor to execute deeds.

2. If you mean that you have no abstract or guaranty policy, then this difficulty would be present despite the probate proceedings. If you have such a showing of title, then you should have it brought down to cover the probate proceedings.

3. It seems probable that a deed is not necessary.

4. It seems probable that you have title to the property. If an attorney handled the probate he is in a better position to answer your questions than we are.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, June 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister-in-law died last December. So far as we know, she left no estate, but we now find that her sisters in Missouri had purchased some stock for her. My wife has acted for the deceased sister, who was blind, but has no power of attorney. The sisters in Missouri wish to sell the stock, which amounts to a small sum. Will it be necessary to have an administrator appointed here in order to realize on the stock and apply the funds toward the funeral expenses? F. W. H.

Ordinarily the principal probate should be held where the deceased resided at the time of her death. The necessity for probate will depend on the attitude of the transfer officers of the corporation. They may be willing to waive probate. You should try taking the matter up with them.

FIRE DEPARTMENT EXAMINATION.

Chicago, June 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I have been told that the new eligible list for city firemen is to be posted in the near future. Is this true? Will any men be taken from the old list before it is taken down? C. A. S.

I wish to inform you that the results of the examination just recently completed for firemen [fire department] will not be posted for some time. The city council in its annual appropriation bill granted department heads the right to determine the necessity for filling all vacancies. If at any time a requisition for firemen is received the commission will certify against same.

ASSIGNMENT OF POLICY.

Chicago, June 12.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Can I give my life insurance to my brother for security? If so, what must I do? My wife is now named as beneficiary. B. J. I.

A life insurance policy is personal property, and so it may be assigned to some one else. In such a case the face value of the policy is paid to the person to whom the policy is assigned. Insurance companies are usually willing to arrange such an assignment of rights, but will not consider the arrangement effective until it has received notice at its home office; and under no circumstances will any company assume any responsibility for the validity of such assignment. The assignment provision varies with the different companies, some stipulating that in addition to the filing of the assignment it must be approved in writing by certain officers of the company, and that the original assignment and due proof of interest must be produced when the policy is presented for payment; also, that all assignments shall be subject to any indebtedness to the company at its home office. This clause is for the protection of both the company and the policy holder. It makes it impossible for an agent to take upon himself the authority to extend the time for paying premium or in any way alter the terms of the contract. Where an assignment has thus been brought to the attention of the company and consented to, it is held to constitute a new contract, the assignee obtaining the rights of the original insured. If you reserved the right, when taking out the insurance, to change the beneficiary, you can make the assignment without difficulty, while, on the other hand, if such reservation was not made, written consent of the present beneficiary will be necessary.

THE STRAW VOTE.

Hinsdale, Ill., June 22.—The Literary Digest poll of Roosevelt's first year is most gratifying because, while Washington dopesters predicted not over twenty per cent unfavorable replies—probably only ten—there were actually forty.

The favorable wording of the question, the personal popularity based on a devil-may-care grin and a smooth salesman's best style of insinuating speech, the stark terror progressively squeezing the blind and unreasoning in high and low places, the unwillingness to risk retarding recovery or incurring wrath for lese majeste, the hope of being on the profit side of repudiated obligations, the threat of mob action, legal and illegal, by several kinds of questionable citizenry, the excitement of the greatest exhibition of magic on earth running a continuous performance in Washington and in a national chain of branch houses, all added to the perennial strength of party regularity and patronage, combine to make forty per cent mental and moral equilibrium a fine showing after only one year of maximum tyranny.

The majority is usually wise—after the fact, not before. Historical students will discover that Herbert Hoover clearly pointed out the subversive character of the Roosevelt proposals before election, but the voters will have to learn it by dearly bought experience, which they will in time. One year is too short.

H. R. HOLE.

HE EATS NAILS FOR BREAKFAST.

Chicago, June 21.—Your leading editorial of this date was a pip. I refer to "The Straw Vote," which has you stumped. Give us more editorials like it. Talk about serio-comic! Here is Roosevelt performing hundreds of constructive acts for humanity and you are complaining about the little pigs and the pants presser!

After all, TRIBUNE, I do not say that you are not good; you are good—and funny. Who wrote the aforementioned editorial? I'd like to see the guy personally. His type is all what ails the country. His thinking is as straight as a corkscrew. I venture to say that he is as old and weak as the alleged facts he puts on paper. No doubt the old boy calls himself a rugged individualist.

J. S. S.

THE COLOR OF THE SITUATION.

Chicago, June 21.—Your straw vote editorial of this date deserves some attention. Evidently the number of people who have answered in the affirmative to the question has alarmed THE TRIBUNE and as a result you are reaching for the last straw to change the color of the situation.

The truth of the matter is that the question, as phrased, signifies an attempt to obtain a majority of negative replies, because a lot of people may like 90 per cent of the accomplishments of the administration and not be in accord with the other 10 per cent. However, the question takes in 100 per cent and is therefore very unfair to general and common opinion. I'm sure your interpretation of the question, if you are honest about it, is a pure sidestep to the real issue. I am a real supporter of Roosevelt and his policies, but my answer would have to be "no" to the question because there are a few things I am not in accord with.

Naturally, mistakes have been made, but that is the case in all big enterprises. The Republicans and Mr. Hoover did so little that it was all a mistake.

One word about Hi-Bred corn. You rave and rant about that in every issue of your paper, but consider this: Mr. Wallace was selling this corn years ago. Naturally a farmer will buy the best seed he can. If he used it last year why shouldn't he this year? Your attempt to make it appear that this corn just went on the market to meet the present situation is a good example of the poor consideration that your staf gives to matters of the moment.

NO BATTLE OF WATERLOO.

Chicago, June 20.—On June 18 THE TRIBUNE published an article about the duke of Wellington and the battle of Waterloo, dating this battle June 18, 1815.

Gen. Wellington never defeated Napoleon, and there was no "battle of Waterloo." Napoleon rushed his troops northward to the village of La Belle Alliance, after he defeated Von Blücher at Ligny, and then the combined forces of Dutch, German, and British troops under Wellington's command at Quatre Bras on June 16, about 12 miles south of La Belle Alliance.

On June 18, 1815, Wellington's quarters were at Waterloo, about six miles north of the battlefield, and he was about to be completely defeated by the great warrior. Wellington's famous saying, "I wish it wouldbe night, or the Prussians would come," is well known.

Generals von Bülow and Pirch, after marching two days and nights, arrived at 4:30 p. m., and Gen. von Zieten's Red Hussars, dashing in across the famous sunken roads, arrived at 6 p. m., attacked at once, and defeated Napoleon's famous guards. The well known French saying, "Sauve qui peu," originated from this attack, when Napoleon's grenadiers saw the black coats charging them out of the little wood in the east.

"Private" messages were sent to Rothschild in London from Waterloo, "that Napoleon took Waterloo," and Rothschild bought all bonds and state papers which dropped to almost nothing. Afterwards, when the real news came through, the bonds and loans quickly went up again, Rothschild got the millions, and Waterloo the undeserved famous name.

U. S. WILL SPEND 110 MILLIONS ON POSTOFFICES

626 Towns Affected as Congress Fight Nears.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—[Special.]—In a new and timely demonstration of New Deal generosity, the administration today announced plans for the immediate expenditure of 110 million dollars in the construction of federal postoffices and government buildings in more than six hundred towns throughout the land.

Announcement of the program came from Postmaster General James A. Farley and Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., accompanied by a carefully detailed list of the cities and towns in each state which are to feel this latest boon from a lavish government.

626 New U. S. Buildings.

In all, six hundred and twenty-six communities in every state and four territories have been selected for new federal buildings, according to the announcement. Half of the program—302 buildings—will be undertaken with the 65 million dollars authorized for that purpose in the recently enacted deficiency-emergency appropriation bill. It was explained that 324 buildings will be constructed with "funds already available from other sources," it was explained.

In selecting the projects to be included in the new program Mr. Farley and Mr. Morgenthau stated they were guided by the language of the deficiency bill directing that they "endeavor to distribute the projects equitably throughout the country so far as may be consistent with the needs of public service," and "with a view of relieving country-wide unemployment."

Linked with Congress Race.

In the announcement of the building plans, however, the element of timeliness was apparent. Democratic congressmen are just returning home to start campaigning for November reelection. It was agreed by all observers that the erection of new federal buildings by a Democratic government will prove a boon to many a Democrat seeking reëlection, or a new seat in congress.

The announcement by Farley and Morgenthau said:

"The acquisition of the necessary land and the preparation of plans and specifications will be taken in hand immediately with a view toward getting the contracts on the market and awarded within the shortest practicable time.

"Preference is being given to those projects for which the government has previously acquired the necessary real estate for building purposes, so that an immediate start may be made in the preparation of plans and specifications. In all other cases the real estate will be acquired as rapidly as possible."

191 Lack U. S. Buildings.

"Of the 302 projects," the announcement added, "there are 191 communities selected which do not have any federal building at the present time and where the average postal receipts amounted to approximately $29,500 per annum.

"In selecting the new list of building projects, the secretary of the treasury and the postmaster general have given consideration to the locations of the 324 projects already authorized under other funds but which have not been placed under contract. These will also be placed under contract as quickly as plans and specifications can be prepared.

New York Will Lead.

"Every effort will be made in the carrying through of this program expeditiously with a view to relieving unemployment throughout the nation."

New York state, according to the list of selected projects, will receive more of the new buildings than any other state, with fifty-nine of its communities slated to get new postoffices, customs houses, or courthouses. California, traditionally high on the list when federal money is being handed out, came second with 51 projects. Third was Pennsylvania with 45, Texas was fourth with 35, and Illinois fifth with 32.

The distribution of the new projects among the various states was as follows:

Alabama	10	New Hampshire	6
Arizona	7	New Jersey	30
Arkansas	6	New Mexico	4
California	51	New York	59
Colorado	8	North Carolina	17
Connecticut	8	Ohio	28
Delaware	4	Oklahoma	13

Kentucky	6	Utah	1
Louisiana	6	Vermont	4
Maine	6	Virginia	14

Michigan	17	Wisconsin	11
Minnesota	13	Wyoming	4
Mississippi	8	Alaska	1
Missouri	10	Hawaii	1
Montana	4	Puerto Rico	1
Nebraska	7	Virgin Islands	1
Nevada	2

Allotment for Illinois.

The list of projects failed to show the amount to be expended on each individual building, indicating only the location and type of the edifice proposed.

The list for the north central states includes:

BISHOP CANNON LEADS 4,000 IN URGING NEW U. S. DRY AMENDMENT

Mountain Lake Park, Md., June 24.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, today led more than 4,000 people in urging congress to submit a new prohibition amendment.

The proposed amendment to the constitution would empower congress to prohibit, or restrict, the sale of alcoholic liquors in the nation as a whole.

"This will make national prohibition of this national evil a clear cut issue in the election of every congressman and every senator until we have again achieved prohibition," Bishop Cannon declared.

STEEL INSTITUTE SAYS MEN FAVOR COMPANY UNIONS

Asserts 90 Per Cent Vote in Elections.

New York, June 24.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute declared in a statement today that 90.12 per cent of workers "eligible and available to vote" in eight major steel companies' employé representation plans had cast ballots at final elections, compared with approximately 85 per cent at the primaries.

The institute made public final figures on the elections balloting, showing 193,362 workers participated out of a total of 214,561 eligibles.

A district organizer for the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers was nominated as an employé representative in a plant of the U. S. Steel corporation, the institute said, but was defeated in the elections.

The institute's statement said:

"Even though some employé representation plans make no restrictions on the choice of employés as to their representatives, it is significant that in practically all cases employés only were placed for nomination for employé representatives."

The companies' elections on which the institute showed final figures were:

	Employés eligible.	Ballots cast.
U S Steel Corp	132,860	119,049
Youngstown Sheet and T.	14,306	12,544
Jones & Laughlin Steel	15,740	15,065
Republic Steel Corp.	28,859	26,448
Sharon Steel Hoop Co.	2,018	1,970
Wheeling Steel Corp.	7,348	6,523
Pittsburgh Steel Co.	5,450	4,274
Inland Steel Co.	7,980	6,889

The institute termed the figures a confirmation of "the position of the steel industry that strike talk by union leaders was not supported by the vast majority of employés."

Johnson Will Not Leave Hospital Before Tomorrow

Washington, D. C., June 24.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson will have to wait several days before he resumes his tussles with labor problems and NRA code troubles. While those attending him at Walter Reed hospital, to which he went Friday for treatment of an abscess, said that his condition was "much improved," they believed he might not leave the institution before Tuesday.

ASK ROOSEVELT TO PROHIBIT CAR COMPANY UNIONS

Detroit, Mich., June 24.—(AP)—Resolutions asking President Roosevelt to order the automobile labor board to prohibit company unions and accusing Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator of amending the automobile codes without consulting workers were adopted today at the conference of the United Automobile Workers' Federal Labor unions.

More than 100 delegates, representing automobile manufacturing and assembly plants in 17 states, attended. William Green, American Federation of Labor president, took an active part in the discussions.

Leaders demanded that Johnson call a public hearing in which to present evidence they claim will show that automobile codes are unfair to workers. A resolution charging automobile parts manufacturers with using unlawful and coercive methods also was adopted. A separate code for the parts industry was asked.

The conference also requested clarification and modification of code sections governing computation of total seniority and the preference said now to be given men considered exceptionally skilled by the managements.

MARION DAVIES PORTRAIT STAYS DESPITE 'BAN'

Exhibit Secretary Confers with Fascist Chiefs.

ROME, June 24.—(AP)—Despite a flurry of orders and a confusion of statements the portrait of Marion Davies in the American pavilion at the International Art exposition at Venice will remain there a few days longer, the secretary of the exposition said today.

The removal of the portrait was ordered yesterday by high officials of the exhibition and it had been reported that the picture had been taken into the Italian pavilion.

The order, however, was not immediately carried out and today Prof. Antonio Maraini, secretary of the exposition, said the portrait will remain in the American section a few days longer.

Fate Remains Uncertain.

Its presence there had been objected to by Mrs. Juliana Force, director of the Whitney Museum of Art, and the controversy concerning it has involved many officials.

Maraini announced that the fate of the picture remains uncertain. Last night he was in Rome and it was understood he had conferred with high Fascist officials on the involved dispute concerning the picture of the American movie actress.

"Nothing definite will be decided until Count Volpi di Mesurata arrives in Venice from Brussels, probably on Tuesday," Maraini said. "Meanwhile we are not going to place the picture in the Italian pavilion, as had been reported. We are letting it remain where it is because it is no worse than some of the other American exhibits.

Want Change of Control.

"We hope the publicity which surrounded this affair will prove to American art patrons and artists that their pavilion at Venice should be controled by the American government. Then no such controversy as surrounds the Davies portrait could occur."

Reports from Venice stated the picture is in the vestibule to the American pavilion, and that a card explaining it is not a part of the regular exhibit is displayed beneath it.

Some of the foremost artistic figures in Rome expressed the belief the dispute will not be settled finally without the intervention of Fascist authorities.

IMPERIAL GEMS OF RUSSIA PUT ON DISPLAY HERE

Children's jewels from the imperial household of Russia, including a gold and silver Cossack toy and a gem encrusted cradle in which once reposed the babies of the Czars, were at the Blackstone hotel yesterday. They are to be put on display at Marshall Field & Co., this morning.

The children's articles are a part of nearly $1,000,000 worth of imperial jewelry brought to Chicago by Prince Michael Alexandrovitch Groundoroff, once a member of the imperial family and now a naturalized American citizen. The collection is owned by Dr. A. S. Hammer.

Most striking piece in the collection is the toy Cossack, an exact replica of the Cossack who for years was the personal bodyguard of the Dowager Empress Marie Feordorva. It was made by the court jeweler, Faberge, and is perfectly dressed in gold and silver garments with sapphire eyes and jeweled buttons.

ROOSEVELT MEDALS FOR SEABURY AND EDITOR W. A. WHITE

New York, June 24.—[Special.]—Samuel Seabury, as a champion of social justice, and William Allen White, as a distinguished interpreter of the American mind, will be awarded the Roosevelt medals for 1934, at the observance of the seventy-sixth anniversary of the late Theodore Roosevelt's birth, Oct. 27.

The awards were announced today by James R. Garfield, president of the Roosevelt Memorial association. The medals, established in 1923 by the association, will be bestowed by the president of the association at a banquet at the Roosevelt birthplace here.

Mr. Seabury's career on the bench, ranging from the City court to the State Court of Appeals is cited, together with his conduct, "at great personal sacrifice," of the Magistrates' courts inquiry and later of the legislative inquiry into the city government.

Of the noted editor of the Emporia Gazette of Emporia, Kas., who is also novelist and political writer, the announcement says:

"William Allen White, who receives a medal for distinguished service as an interpreter of the American mind, has for forty years illuminated the American scene with his wise comments on men and affairs. He has chosen to live in a small town and his presence has given that town dignity and importance."

ELLSWORTH AND BALCHEN PLAN 2D ANTARCTIC TRIP

New York, June 24.—[Special.]—Lincoln Ellsworth, the explorer, with Bernt Balchen, veteran pilot, expects to be on his way by September for another attempt to discover what lies between the Ross and Weddell seas on the Antarctic continent. In the July issue of Natural History Mr. Ellsworth discusses plans for a flight from Deception island southward along the shores of the Weddell sea to its head and thence straight westward across the continent to the Bay of Whales.

The flight totals 2,800 miles, or 100 miles less than the projected flight of last January, which had to be abandoned because of the crushing of his plane's wings in a sudden break up of ice.

The plane will soon be shipped to Dunedin. Then the icebreaker Wyatt Earp will start for the lonely Antarctica archipelago, the group of rocky islets due south of Cape Horn bordering on Graham land. Deception island itself, Mr. Ellsworth writes, offers a protected harbor and an opportunity for a good take off with the 7,500 pound load the plane must carry.

TWO BULLS SLAIN AS SPANISH IDOL RETURNS TO RING

NIMES, France, June 24.—(AP)—Juan Belmonte, whose prowess as a bullfighter made him the idol of all Spain, made a triumphant return to the ring today after a retirement of six years.

In the ancient Roman arena here the veteran made a brilliant exhibition of his mastery at handling cape and sword. The fighter's daring passes brought storms of applause from 15,000 fervent fans.

After it was over he was awarded the ears and the hearts of two bulls as a symbol of the enthusiasm and respect of the crowd. So daring were his passes and so heedless of danger that the second bull tossed him three times. Each time he came nimbly to his feet, completely escaping injury.

The veteran fighter retired at the insistence of his wife and his friend, the celebrated Spanish painter, Zuloaga, after he had been injured gravely in a bullfight in Spain.

STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT SET FOR ABOUT JULY 10

Rapid City, S. D., June 24.—(AP)—Careful preparation of every detail toward success of the world's greatest stratosphere expedition may delay the ascent until about July 10, officials said today. The needed equipment will not be installed before July 6 or 7, and then the start will await favorable weather. The army air crops is joint sponsor of the flight with the National Geographic society. Maj. William E. Kepner, pilot, and Capt. Albert W. Stevens, observer, will use the largest free balloon ever built, hoping for a record height of 15 miles.

Gentlemen:
When a publication sells thousands of dollars worth of vacations for an advertiser during the bank holiday, that's news. When it betters its 1933 record in 1934 by 39 per cent., that's even more news.
A year ago we decided to run in the New York Herald Tribune Magazine a test campaign in February and early March to determine what type of copy would sell the most New England vacations.
We knew that some 3,000,000 persons come to New England every year to enjoy her matchless and diversified recreational facilities. We knew that nowhere in so small an area can be found so compactly arranged for the visitor's satisfaction mountains and seashore, lakes and countryside, quiet solitude and popular resorts.
But we wanted to test on a concentrated class audience just how we could most effectively present this New England story. We expected the coupon return to be small and the sales negligible, due to seasonal factors. Furthermore, our advertising ran in the trying period of the bank holiday.
We were both surprised and pleased when the results were totalled to find that the New York Herald Tribune had one of the lowest costs per inquiry of any publication -- newspaper or magazine. Research further indicated that for an expenditure of $912.00 this small test campaign brought 1,333 people to New England, and that they spent a total of $129,108.30. This represents a return for each dollar invested in advertising of $141.56.
Naturally after this profitable experience last year, a new series was tested this year. Somewhat smaller space units were used. The most successful advertisement last year was repeated as a measure of results -- and the cost per inquiry was 19 per cent. lower. This year's best advertisement pulled at a cost per inquiry 38 per cent. better than last year's best puller. And the average for the six advertisements this year was 39 per cent. lower than last year. Although we spent $228 less for space, we received 258 more replies. We are more than satisfied with the result of our advertising in the Herald Tribune Magazine.
Sincerely yours,
Robert Huse
Director of Advertising and Publicity

Here is a fascinating record of results that defied closed banks, blizzards, general depression and an unfavorable season.

New England Council advertising appeared in the Herald Tribune in February and March of 1933. Herald Tribune readers' response was so exceptional—not only in inquiries but in definite dollar value—that a similar campaign was again used this Winter and Spring. Again the Herald Tribune delivered an instantaneous reader response—at one of the lowest costs per inquiry of any publication, either magazine or newspaper.

1,333 travelers, who sent in keyed coupons, were brought to New England at a total cost of $912. They spent $129,108.30, a return of $141.56 for each dollar spent.

Advertiser after advertiser, both national and local, has had experiences of this type in the Herald Tribune. Write or wire the nearest branch office for the complete results story of this newspaper.

Society Views Races Today at Arlington Park

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE opening of the Arlington Park racing season today is an event to which society has looked forward for several weeks. The 30 days of racing at this fashionable and beautiful track will be the most thrilling days of the summer to all of the horse lovers and racing enthusiasts of Chicago and also will furnish an exciting month to prominent race horse owners from the country over who will be here to watch their entries run in at least one or two of the main events.

The opening day is one of the most gala of days at the track. Everyone is anxious that the sun will shine brightly so that the ladies will appear in their prettiest, gayest frocks and largest hats. If it is fine today the spectators will be able to feast their eyes between races on the colorful Post and Paddock club terrace and box inclosure and the grand stands, as well as on the panorama of the track and grounds.

Post and Paddock Club Members to Have Guests.

Laurance H. Armour, president of the Post and Paddock club, and Mrs. Armour will be entertaining guests at luncheon today at the club. Theirs will be one of many luncheon parties, for nearly all of the members of the club are bringing guests with them to inaugurate the eighth season of racing at Arlington. Among these hosts and hostesses are the Warren Wrights, the Benjamin H. Marshalls, who will have with them their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Fleming and Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Simmons; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz, the Roy Carruthers, the Alfred Ettlingers, the Chauncey McCormicks, whose luncheon will be a family party; the Benjamin L. Behrs, whose pretty daughter, Miss Edith Behr, always makes an attractive picture at the track; Miss Narcissa Swift, who seldom misses a day's racing; the Robert J. Thornes, Mrs. Walter Peacock, and the J. Clarke Deans.

Mothers and Daughters Return from Europe.

From a winter spent traveling in Europe and a round of visits in the east members of two families arrived in Chicago yesterday for a short visit here. They are Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham and her daughter, Miss Betty Lou Dillingham, who has been in school in Paris, and Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and her daughter, Miss Eleanor McClurg, who with Mr. Hinckley and Barbara McClurg saw a good deal of the Dillinghams in Europe.

Mrs. Dillingham and her daughter will be here until tomorrow night only, visiting the John Alden Carpenters, and then they will be off for their home in Honolulu with Lowell Dillingham, who joins them tomorrow. He was just graduated from Harvard. Mrs. Carpenter has invited a few friends in for tea this afternoon to meet the Dillinghams, and they are all going to the Fair for the evening.

Mrs. Hinckley, who has been to her reunion at Smith college and spent a fortnight in her Boston home since she and her family docked in New York recently, will be here for a longer visit which she will divide between three old friends, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk. Eleanor, however, will stay with Adair Orr and her parents, the Robert C. Orrs, on Stone street.

Mrs. W. S. Brewster Gives Benefit Sale Today.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster is giving a rummage sale tea this afternoon in her home on Green Bay road in Lake Forest from 4 until 6 o'clock for the benefit of the Alice Home hospital. Guests have been requested to bring donations for the Trading Post Rummage shop in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Robert Gardiner, Mrs. Thomas Dennehy Jr., Mrs. Stephen Hord, Mrs. Paul Moyer, Mrs. Richard Mabbatt, and Mrs. Kent Chandler will pour tea during the afternoon.

Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne has invited six friends to assist her tomorrow at the sale to be held by the Chicago Woman's exchange at her home in Lake Geneva. The assistant saleswomen will be Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. William M. Spencer, Mrs. Earle Zimmerman, Mrs. William F. Petersen, and Mrs. Philip Starck.

Three Society Girls Wed Next Saturday.

Next Saturday, the last one in June, will be the wedding day of three prominent Chicago girls. Two will be married here, one in town and one in the country, and the third will be married in the east. Miss Eleanor McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, is the young woman who is being married away. She will be wed to Sargent Collier, son of Mrs. E. Pomeroy Collier of Boston, at what is sure to be one of the most fashionable weddings of the summer at Bar Harbor, Me., where Mrs. McCormick has a lovely estate.

Miss Jane Fortune, daughter of the John L. Fortunes, is the city bride. She will be married to Joseph E. Nolan, son of the William S. Nolans of Boston, at 4:30 o'clock in the chapel of the Holy Name cathedral. Only the immediate families will be present, but Miss Fortune has invited a few of her closest friends to come to the Fortunes' Astor street home around 5 o'clock to wish them good luck.

Miss Chloe Watson, the country bride, will be married in the gardens of the Winnetka home of her parents, the Cornelius B. Watsons, at 5:30 o'clock to Pierre Bouscaren, son of the Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE whole spirit of the Streets of Paris at A Century of Progress is typified, it occurs to us, by the phrase painted on the front of the Life Class: "C'est la nuts!"

Typical—Error—Identification—Will.

THIS is a true story. An expensively dressed woman with two magnificent furs wrapped about her shoulders strode up to the ticket desk at the Art institute the other day, bought a 25 cent ticket and delivered the following monolog:

"I'm in a terrible hurry. Just stopping off for a couple of hours on my way from the Baer-Carnera fight to the coast. See? Now show me the naughtiest thing you've got and let's be quick about it. Have you got a rickshaw? I'm dead on my feet. A wheel chair! All right, bring it along."

The guard arrived with a wheel chair and, glancing at her furs, he asked if she would have them checked.

"What?" she exclaimed. "Why they cost me a thousand dollars apiece!"

The guard made no answer and wheeled her toward the elevator. As they were ascending toward the second floor he asked if there was any particular picture she wanted to see.

"Picture?" she exclaimed. "What do you mean—picture? I want to see a hot show."

At this the guard stood agast.

"This is the Art institute," he explained. "What did you think it was?"

"Migawd, let me out quick," the lady answered. "I thought it was the World's Fair."

THAT children really know things nowadays is indicated by the story Mrs. Samuel T. Chase of Lake Forest tells about her small granddaughter, "Tut" Boyden. A family group was discussing the action of President Roosevelt in giving up his chair to George Rublee, oldest alumnus of Groton, at the recent commencement ceremonies. Some one mentioned that Mr. Rublee, who married Juliette Barrett of Chicago, had been called "Aeneas" at Groton. At this point 11 year old Tut, daughter of Polly Chase Boyden, spoke up.

"O, I know who Aeneas was," the well informed child exclaimed. "He was the guy who married a gal named Dido, and she committed suicide because she couldn't marry him."

A SECRETARY in the employ of a very popular lady who is in the real estate business resigned recently, and she left behind her last will and testament to the co-workers in the office. Among her bequests (her name is Mabelle Hamilton Perry) were:

"To Caroline Langdon, a gal who can take it, the best wishes and prayers from a gal who can't.

"To Florence Taylor, in addition to love and kisses, I leave the galling memory of all the eggs we have et together when we might have been dining on caviar and humming birds' tongues.

"To Catharine Ellis, who has always admired my figure, I leave the memory of how it looked at the Streets of Paris ball in the orange dress. That should keep her cheered for months to come. (And what it will do to the breadline, from whence I go, is nobody's business.)

"To Gay Robinson I leave my fingers crossed in the hope she may rent something some day."

Holds Dancer Must Be Happy to Be Success

Movie Director Discloses Precepts for Girls.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 24.—[Special.]—Skill in dancing depends on health, according to Mme. Albertina Rasch, dance director, and health depends on what she calls "natural physiology." Mme. Rasch explains "that's why I encourage my dancing girls to go out with boy friends." She says: "But my girls train as hard as any boy athletes would. Girls have to have a good time if they're to radiate happiness, which is what a dancer is supposed to do. My girls are given plenty of time to enjoy themselves, besides doing a lot of hard work. After all, training is simply a matter of common sense. It is absurd the way some dancing teachers insist that their girls stay away from the opposite sex." Mme. Rasch says that some of the dance troupe now with her, who recently worked through "The Merry Widow," are the daughters of former dance pupils of hers. Some are former working girls, and a few have names in the social register.

Charlie Farrell caused some perturbation around the Fox lot, where he recently resumed a romantic film partnership with Janet Gaynor, by telling a representative of a British film paper that while he was in Hollywood he was merely used as a background for Miss Gaynor. Farrell and his wife, Virginia Valli, are on a trip through Europe.

The longshoremen's strike continues to hold up Columbia's studio program for filming the bulk of "Captain Hates the Sea" out on the briny. The studio had intended chartering a passenger steamer for a movie run to Balboa, Canal Zone, with John Gilbert, Victor McLaglen, Fred Keating, Florence Rice, Leon Errol, and Wynne Gibson, Alison Skipworth, Andre Beranger, and Louis Alberni aboard, but there has been so much rioting and interference with movement of ships at San Pedro that the studio couldn't get a ship to leave the docks.

Kubec Glasmon, Chicago scenarist, has been assigned to adapt "Spring 3100" to the screen, this being the telephone number of New York police headquarters. The story originally was titled "Police Headquarters."

Tom Brown was talking to a group of friends at Radio studio and said he had proposed marriage to Anita Louise nine times. "She said 'no' eight times," he said. "And the ninth time?" inquired his friends, thinking it was time to buy wedding presents. "She just shook her head," said Tom mournfully.

A little newsboy, stricken with adoration for Irene Dunne, had been slipping copies of weekly magazines under her dressing room door every week for some months. Finally a studio policeman caught him at it, but the actress saw the policeman rushing the kid out. She intervened, and asked what she owed for the magazines, at which the youngster blushed and said, "Nuthin'," adding that he wanted to give them to her. That was too much for Irene; she invited the kid to eat breakfast with her, and told him to deliver the magazines whenever he wanted. And she told the studio policeman to let him do it.

Ginger Rogers says: "Two points that may spoil a beautiful girl's appearance are the elbows. When they are brown or discolored, the elbows detract particularly from good looks." She rubs arm lotion on her elbows daily and bleaches them occasionally.

One of the recently completed pictures which got snagged by the clean-up crusade was Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Born to Be Bad," for which retakes have been ordered by the Hays office. Franchot Tone and Patsy Kelly were in it, and Anita Loos and John Emerson are rewriting situations to which exception was taken.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Bearss, 5346 Cornell avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Edwina Cole, to Robert Strumpen-Darrie of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Strumpen-Darrie of New York. Miss Bearss is a graduate of St. Mary-of-the-Woods academy and of Indiana university, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Strumpen-Darrie attended L'Ecole Supérieure de Commerce of Antwerp, Belgium, and Georgetown university.

Good Morning!

Capri—quaint, picturesque!

Amid its settings of wide-flung sea, luring hills, and smiling skies, a man and woman meet and love and vow eternal fealty. . . .

Capri! Reunion . . .!

Smooth production, excellent acting and beautiful scenery, work together for the good of "All Men Are Enemies" and make its unoriginal story interesting.

Helen Twelvetrees invests the character of the Viennese heroine with charm and considerable pep. She has acquired a new animation that is gratifying to the observer. Mona Barrie in the rôle of the defrauding femme is cool, slick, efficient and good to look at. Remember Marquerite, "Peggy" Snow? Miss Barrie reminded me of her. Also, she's not unlike Kay Francis.

At first you don't care for Hugh Williams as the English hero. Too band-boxy, somehow, for either the artist he's supposed to be or a he-man. But he grows on you by reason of a sincere and able performance. Small bits are beautifully turned out. How much—how VERY much—these seasoned, colorful character players do for a picture!

The film has quite a bit of suspense—and it makes you perfectly WILD to go places and see things.

See you tomorrow.

Museum to Exhibit Domestic Animals in Stone and Bronze

An unusual exhibit of sculpture of British champion domestic animals by Herbert Haseltine will be previewed by Field museum members tomorrow in a special hall at the museum where the models will be permanently kept. The exhibit was given to the museum by Marshall Field, a trustee, and will be opened to the public on Thursday.

The showing of models of domestic animals will be first of its kind offered by the Field museum, which has previously devoted its interests to wild animals. The sculptures, which have been exhibited in Paris and London, are one-fourth life size and are cast in bronze or carved in stones of various hues and textures.

Haseltine began the works in 1921, first modeling the champion shire stallion, Field Marshal V, from the stables of King George of England. The famous British race horse, Sergeant Murphy and Polymelus, were added later and the present exhibit includes models of bulls, swine, draft horses, and polo ponies which won prizes in various English competitions.

Black Velvet Berets Arrive in Life Sizes

Floppy Models Effective for Summer

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Miss just one day of shopping and on the next you're startled with changes that leave you gasping. One day all things in shop windows and cases are for summer wear—bright gay colors, filmy chiffons, crisp cottons, and the like. The very next morning you see the first of the black velvet.

Big, floppy new black velvet berets, that are tremendously effective with all sorts of summer clothes have come to town. You'll wear them well down over the right side and pull and dip all the new fullness in the best manner to flatter your eyes. They are far bigger than the skimpy little numbers of last season. This time berets are big, dashing, swanky things, straight from a Paris studio.

Stunning all-white berets are just as breath taking as the wicked looking velvet creations. You wear them with black dresses or with black or dark toned sheer street suits with some very satisfying results. White gloves to match these fabric berets, a white handbag, and white footwear comprise the newest of summer accessories to wear with the big all white beret.

Black velvet berets go dashing about with all white suits. These suits are knowingly accented with big bows of black velvet anchored on the chest section of the dress. Or you can be even smarter and wear these black velvets with flesh color, with old blue, or any other pastel colored ensemble you may own. The thing to do is to effect a startling contrast only possible with black dramatics.

Fashion photograph . . . with or without the flattering shoulder cape, this sheer white embroidered organdy dinner and dance dress is one of the most attractive in the new summer collections. Pastel contrast is achieved in the double velvet belt and flowers. From a Chicago shop.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young singer. She stakes him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for an opportunity of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara sells her car for expense money and gives half to Jerry. He follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry as Mulligan. He are Jerry are antagonistic. They go on a hunt for a bear sighted in the hills.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

PLANNING A GETAWAY.

Far below Otis was coming up the trail, and breaking off to crawl along the craggy cliffside towards Harmer. He carried a tomahawk to help with the skinning. Even at that distance the swift and accurate movements of the two men could be followed almost precisely.

"How absolutely revolting," said Jerry in a high voice.

"You wouldn't think so if your shot had laid him out, Jerry," said Cara.

"You accuse me of jealousy."

"I accuse you just of being human, darling." But she saw he wanted to go on. They quickened their pace down the winding trail back to the bottom of the canyon. "Hunting's as old as the world, you know, Jerry," she said.

"All right, all right, my dear," he answered petulantly.

He knew, of course, that it was as she said; he would have been delighted and proud if that savage red eyed black bear had fallen to him. He mounted his horse and sat quite still while Harmer, Otis, the dogs, with the rolled up skin, climbed down to the bottom, while the afternoon sun was at its fiercest.

Harmer came straight to Cara, lying on the grass beside Jessie. He had wiped his hands clean with moss, and pulled on his hard gauntlets, and mopped the sweat from his face. They looked at each other, and in the silence, it seemed that each was spellbound.

"Has she forgiven you?"

"Call it a day?" he asked presently.

"I'm sorry the skin isn't yours."

"So am I," she said, but lightly.

"We may get another fellow one day."

"No, we don't," Jerry thought, sitting gracefull thinking blackly, on the kindhearted Buck. "And 'one day' won't come, either." He went on thinking scornfully of the value they—Cara and the hunter—put upon their sporting trophies. He supposed the skin might be given to her, mightn't it? He couldn't see the difference—for a woman—so long as she got what she had seemed to want. And the murderous muddle up on that blazing plateau of rock—what an insensate five minutes of life! Between leaping dogs and the attacking bear they might have all gone to kingdom come, tumbling down the rocks, or in the hug and under the ripping teeth of the angry wild beast.

The hunter looked across at him.

"Has she forgiven you?"

"Miss Follette would forgive me more than that." Jerry answered, sitting light and graceful in his saddle, one hand on his hip, negligent, uninterested in the whole affair of the grizzly.

They started for the camp.

He didn't seem to worry much about Cara that evening. When she went to see the further salting and scraping of the hide, which the Indians, pegging it out in the clearing, were doing, superintended by the hunter, he was not with her. He had watched for a few minutes, from the doorway, smiling and cheerful, smoking a cigaret, and then, no one observing him, he withdrew within. He went to the saddle room at the back of the cabins where, beside the saddlery and a couple of dog travois for pack carrying, the assortment of saddle packs were ranged. He picked a comfortable looking one among the score or so, because its canvas looked light, and its size wasn't suspicious. He went to the storeroom—a tin of milk, a tin of beef, wheaten biscuits, tea, a billycan, a tin of butter, a tin of fruit. . . . Then he looked more carefully among the guns, the knives, the axes and the fishing rods. There were actually two compasses. He took one, feeling luck to be almost too good.

He undid the straps of the pack and laid it out, and lined two blankets into it. It strapped up quite small—it didn't look much more than provisions for one day's rather lavish picnicking. That was enough, Coppertown being a mere eighty mile ride away at most. He managed to get this pack unseen into his cabin and to roll it under his bunk. Then he did something clever. He didn't care about Buck and Jessie, they were to him just carriers, but he filled his pockets with sugar, went out into the corral where, after their oat feed, the horses and mules were grazing.

If Jerry did not care about Buck and Jessie, neither were they interested in him. They recognized no horse lover here. It took quite a few minutes of soft coaxing, calling, during which they stood with their kind faces attentive and their ears pricked forward, before they advanced slowly to him and took the sugar. The mules, seeing what was afoot, came up and stared and nuzzled him, too.

Bill was feeding by himself at the other end of the corral, an unneighborly horse, but soon he galloped over, ears flat, whites of eyes showing, and scattered them all in a mad stampede, making for Jerry. He sprang aside, but the horse was almost upon him when a voice shouted and he veered away, bucking and kicking. Harmer stood there.

"I shouldn't go into the corral when Bill's loose, Mr. Flint. Bad as bears."

"What do you keep such a brute for, then?"

"O, I like him," said the hunter.

"I was feeding them a little sugar."

"Earning their love and gratitude? I came looking for you to suggest a last drink again. Miss Follette has turned in. She bids you good night."

"All the fur work finished?"

"Perfectly. A beautiful skin. Let's come along."

"Does he know anything?" Jerry wondered as they sat together, in friendly fashion, enjoying their usual double Scotch under the stars. Last night he had been hostile, but he was very friendly with the hunter tonight, explaining his ambitions, touching on his friendship with the Follettes, referring casually to his understanding with Cara and her people's approval.

About this casualness there was nothing uncertain or suspicious.

He knew better, however, than to have another drink with that quiet skeptical man beside him, assessing every word. He said, "Good-night and I hope we don't turn out so early tomorrow," gracefully, and went to his cabin. The pack was there all right under the bed. No one knew anything.

It was a good line, that: "I hope we don't turn out so early tomorrow."

Leaving Cara all that evening, as soon as early supper was over, not even waiting around to bid her good night—that was a good idea, too. He was no longer tired with their long day. In fact, now that the irk of it was over, he felt powerfully refreshed. He was taut and watchful, every sense keyed up, especially awake. He said to himself, sitting on his bunk: "Now or never. This life gets her. It just seems to take the passion clean out of her. I don't seem near her. Or—or something else has touched her . . . she isn't the girl she was. . . . At that place—Swan lake—I'd swear she was thinking honeymoon just as much as me, just like me. But now. . . ."

There by himself he gave a cynical, silent laugh: "God's truth, how I hate the clean, wide open spaces."

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

RESPONSES TO ONE NO TRUMP.

I have two further observations to make regarding the responses discussed so far, and then we will proceed to examine forcing take-outs.

When You Have Already Passed.

The possession of a five-card suit, or two of them, does not make it any less desirable for you to relieve your partner of doubt or strain when he has bid a no trump in third or fourth position. If your strength is distributed over three suits, and your hand is such that a three no-trump contract cannot well be in doubt, whether you hold an absolute two-suiter or not, raise immediately to three no trumps. Such hands as

Sp. K x	Sp. K x
Hts. x.	Hts. Q x
Di. K 10 x x x	Di. Q J x x x
Cl. K J x x x	Cl. K 9 x x

though far short of an original bid, plainly require no safety refuge.

Why bid your suits? No trumps is the most desirable game contract, so lead the way to it without giving the enemy any information for leading. Should the opener have a powerful hand, he can say "four no trumps" as a modest slam try, and then you can bid your suits and ascertain the declaration in which a slam should be played. The first of the above hands pleads for a minor suit slam, the second one for big business in no trumps, if the opener can invite it in view of your original pass.

When You Have Partial Score.

Under these conditions, you will naturally bid your five-card suits in preference to immediate raises in no trumps, though I would not favor minor suit bidding unless the partial score were forty or more. Two no trumps will almost always be easier to make than four in the minor suit, whereas three in the minor might be a better contract than two no trumps.

In later articles I will deal thoroughly with the partial score angle; for the moment, you need only remember that possession of partial score should not affect opening bids in any way, and while it does affect responses by making the minor suits far more prominent, it should on no account interfere with slam tries, even the mildest kind that have to be dropped at an early stage. You must not bid any hand in a more optimistic manner than you would if you needed 100 points for game. Differently, perhaps, but not misleadingly.

The Bidding of a 10 x x x x Suit Is to be Avoided if Possible.

In a team of four match last month, the South hand, dealer, held

Sp. 10 8 7 6 5	Di. A 10 2
Hts. A Q 9 6	Cl. A

and when he bid a spade, as many did, the bidding went as follows between the partners, the opponents always passing: One spade, two diamonds, two hearts, two spades. Can you blame South for hoping to make a game? Does it not look as if he could lose two spade tricks and the heart finesse, and throw two hearts on his partner's long diamonds? Those who bid the hand in this manner and reasoned accordingly, next bid three spades, which partner took to four; his hand was

Sp. Q 9 4	Di. K Q J 8 5
Hts. 10 3 2	Cl. 10 7

and the contract was set a trick, as there were four spades in one hand and opener could not clear up the trumps, as he could not stand the repeated forces from club leads.

I prefer a heart bid on South's cards; this should result in: Two diamonds, two spades, three diamonds, pass—or two diamonds, two spades, three hearts [showing a feeble preference] three spades, pass.

Note that if South's spades had been J 10 8 x x, four spades could have been made as the opponents could only get in twice with spades to lead clubs. Declarer holds off the second club lead, discarding a heart, and makes game by winning the heart finesse, conceding a club and two spades. Lacking the jack of spades, the timing factor is against him and he cannot control the play of the hand, being thus prevented from using dummy's diamond suit to shed his losing hearts.

Girl Long Pampered Shouldn't Be Blamed if She's Spoiled Adult

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If you bring a girl up to the age of nineteen on the principle that nothing that she wants should be denied her, it is not fair to criticize her if she cannot conform to conduct expected when the financial tide turns.

A parent who brings up a girl without an idea of where the money comes from is the one to blame, not the girl, when said parent turns the girl loose with a young mate of modest income and mate and marriage are wrecked the first year out.

Or, as with the case in hand today, in which the mother claims a breaking heart over her nineteen year old's ingratitude. Until a few years ago the girl was indulged beyond a millionaire's daughter's dreams. Today the family income is reduced to $20 a week, which the mother is earning. Out of that $20 the daughter gets a spending allowance and money for hairdress and manicure.

Never a word of affection greets the mother's ears. The girl is mean, sharp tongued, bitter over the turn events have taken.

BY MARY MEADE.

Once upon a time in our salad history the finishing touch to almost every dish of crisp, cool greens or blithe, juicy fruit was a swirl of spicy boiled dressing. A few continentally minded folks went in for oil and vinegar and dashes of this and that, but most of the modest home cooks contentedly boiled their dressings and loved 'em.

Then waves of mayonnaise and floods of French dressing flowed in upon us. We grew adventurous and flattered these foreign flavors with rare spices, piquant sauces, and nippy cheese, making all sorts of delightful novelties. But all the time the old boiled faithful stayed on the books for a pleasant relief from too much oil. Today it's staging a comeback with home cooks, not only as its former simple self, but also in a whole lineup of new versions designed to make families and visiting Elks start salading more mightily than ever.

Maybe in the scramble you have lost your basic old faithful. Then here is one upon which a dozen new favorites can be built.

COOKED SALAD DRESSING.

3 tablespoons sugar.
1 teaspoon prepared mustard.
1½ tablespoons flour.
1 egg, well beaten.
¾ cup milk.
¾ cup vinegar.
1½ tablespoons butter.

Mix together the salt, sugar, and flour. Stir in the beaten egg, blended with the milk. Add the mustard and blend until smooth. Slowly mix with this the vinegar and cook over hot water in a double boiler, stirring constantly until thick. Take from the fire and stir in the butter.

But for a salad of greens, or for a celery and chicken masterpiece, something more nippy and varied in texture is called for. Then try—

PEPPY PICKLE DRESSING.

Use the cooked salad dressing recipe, adding a dash of curry powder when mixing. When the mixture is cooked and cooled, stir in 4 tablespoons of nippy pickle sandwich spread and serve in and about green vegetables, a chicken salad or a salmon and celery combination.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING.

Start off with the foundation cooked dressing recipe, but make these changes: Omit the mustard, add an additional tablespoon of sugar, and substitute ½ cup of cherry or pineapple juice and ¼ cup of orange juice for the milk. For a company touch, which is luscious but not necessary, whip 1-3 cup of cream and fold in. This dressing is most at home over strawberries and pineapple, over apples, red grapes, and bananas, or over a salad of fresh pineapple, celery, and nuts.

Also, stuffed dates and stuffed prune salads have their special loves among cooked dressings. A simple, fluffy dressing for these boys turns up when we use the foundation recipe, but separate the egg, folding in the stiffly beaten egg white when the dressing has been cooked and cooled.

Or the same stuffed prunes may choose a new mate in—

PEANUT BUTTER DRESSING.

When the simple cooked dressing has cooled, beat in ¼ cup of soft peanut butter. Vegetables, stuffed fruits and mixed fruits all vie for this smooth topping with the rich brown taste.

Still another sport from the family tree is—

PIMIENTO DRESSING.

Start with the above recipe or with any other good cooked salad dressing formula. Cool the boiled dressing and mix in one finely chopped hard cooked egg, a minced pimiento, and 1½ tablespoons of chopped sweet pickles. This little number seems to have a great weakness for salads of leaf lettuce or of crisp, shredded cabbage.

But the real winner, when cole slaw comes up, is the familiar tongue tingler with a new tang.

SOUR CREAM SALAD DRESSING.

1 tablespoon flour.
¾ teaspoon dry mustard.
2 teaspoons confectioner's sugar.
Dash of cayenne pepper.
1 egg yolk.
1-3 cup vinegar.
2 teaspoons butter.
2-3 cup thick sour cream.

Mix together the first five ingredients in the top of a double boiler. Add the vinegar and beaten egg yolk, stirring in carefully. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add the butter and chill. Just before serving beat the sour cream until stiff, but not enough to turn it to butter. Fold this into the dressing and blend with the crisp slivers of cabbage.

Summer Improves Health of Baby if Mother Is Careful of Essentials

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Summer and the baby.

The modern mother looks forward to the combination with delight. The old dread known as "summer complaint" has evaporated for the average, well informed woman. To her summer means freedom, sunshine, and increased health for her baby—provided she takes certain essential precautions.

Through a marvelous system pure, clean milk is available for every child. All this in prevention of "summer complaint," of course, applies to the bottle-fed baby or to the one who has been weaned. Most mothers know that the breast-fed baby seldom has summer complaint. So nurse your baby through the summer if possible.

Now let us see what is proper summer care for the baby.

[a] First, he must be fed properly and carefully.

[b] He must be kept clean.

[c] He must be kept as cool as possible.

[d] And he must be kept rested and quiet.

If you are living where a suitable supply of milk cannot be obtained and kept properly find out from your doctor whether he wishes you to boil or pasteurize the milk that is available.

In hot weather reduce the baby's food intake, giving him about a quarter less than usual. In this case cool boiled water should be substituted.

Brief and excellent reading references on keeping the well baby well will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Society Views Races Today at Arlington Park

Louis H. G. Bouscarens, also of Winnetka.

Several parties have been given and more are planned for Miss Fortune and Mr. Nolan. Last Friday her sister and brother-in-law, the junior William J. Lawlors, and her brother, John L. Fortune Jr., gave a small dinner at the Palmer house. Tomorrow night Miss Barbara Graf is giving a spinster dinner for Miss Fortune and her closest friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graf, on Woodlawn avenue. Wednesday night Miss Alice May Dickinson is giving a small dinner in the home of her parents, the Francis R. Dickinsons, and Thursday evening Miss Isabel Gordon will entertain for Miss Fortune and Mr. Nolan at a cocktail party in the apartment of her parents, the Frank M. Gordons.

Miss Fortune will have no attendants at the wedding, but Mr. Nolan will have Philip Loring Reed for his best man. After a wedding trip he and his bride will be at home for the summer in the apartment of the bride's aunt, Miss Joanna Fortune, at 900 North Michigan avenue.

Miss Watson and Fiance Facing Busy Week.

Miss Welthyan Harmon gave a cocktail party for Miss Watson and Mr. Bouscaren in Highland Park, and beginning tomorrow there won't be a day until their wedding that will not be filled with parties for the pretty, blonde, popular Miss Watson and her fiancé. MacMillan Robinson, one of the ushers at the wedding, is giving a dinner at his home in Evanston tomorrow night, and Wednesday Miss Harriet Tilden, one of the bridesmaids, is giving at Knollwood a luncheon which probably will be followed by swimming, and that evening another bridesmaid, Miss Grace Fitzmorris, will give a dinner either at the apartment of her parents in town or at the Exmoor Country club. Miss Lois Truesdale and Mrs. Willett N. Gorham have scheduled a luncheon at Glenview Thursday, but this party may be called off. Thursday night Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, the bridegroom's sister and Miss Watson's maid of honor, will give a dinner in her parents' Winnetka home, followed by dancing at Glenview. Miss Watson will give the spinster dinner at home on the eve of the wedding, and Mr. Bouscaren will have his bachelor dinner at the same time either at home or at Indian Hill. His brother, Henri, will serve him as best man.

Following the wedding and reception, which will also take place in the gardens, Mr. Bouscaren and his bride will leave for the east. It is still undecided whether Mr. Bouscaren will be sent to Europe on business immediately so that they will have their honeymoon abroad. Otherwise, they will postpone a long wedding trip until he is sent later in the summer. If they spend the summer here they will occupy the Watson home, for the bride's family will be away for the warm months.

Week of Gaiety Awaits Miss McCormick and Collier.

News from Bar Harbor indicates that Miss McCormick and Mr. Collier will have a gay whirl before their wedding, too. Included among the parties to be given for them is the one the bride's father, Robert Hall McCormick, will give Thursday night at Steepways, the residence of his sister and brother-in-law, the Walter Ayers. Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno of Boston will give a luncheon the following day at their home at Indian Point, near Bar Harbor, and there will be a dinner dance for the bridal party at the Bar Harbor club that night. The bride's aunt, Miss Mildred McCormick, will entertain the bridal party at luncheon Saturday before the wedding. The wedding will be small, in the Church of Our Father at Hulls Cove at 4:30 o'clock, followed by a reception at Burnmouth, the McCormick residence. Mr. McCormick and Mr. Ayer went east Saturday. Mrs. Ayer and Miss McCormick have been in Bar Harbor for several days.

Miss Bell and Sidleys Sail for Italy.

When the giant liner Rex steamed out of New York harbor last Saturday, Miss Frances Bell, daughter of the Laird Bells of Winnetka, and Mr. and Mrs. William Pratt Sidley of Winnetka were aboard. They are bound for Italy, which will be the starting point of Miss Bell's travels all over the continent. She is traveling with several of her Smith classmates. The girls plan to be visiting scenic and historic spots throughout the summer, returning to this country in the fall. Miss Bell will be at home next winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Newton Perry are once again in their Astor street apartment, where they plan to spend the summer, and the C. Raymond Messingers of Milwaukee, who occupied the apartment during the winter while Mrs. Perry was away, have opened their Milwaukee home for the summer. Miss Sally Perry will return to the Latin School for Girls in the fall, and one of the Perry boys, I. Newton Jr., will return to his studies at St. Mark's. Brewster Perry, the other son, was graduated from Andover recently, and his family has not yet decided upon his college career.

Mrs. Henry K. Gilbert of Orange, N. J., is in town visiting her parents, the Alden H. Littles, of East Delaware place. The former Marjorie Little will be here until July 2, when she will go east to join her husband at his parents' home in New Hampshire for a few weeks before returning to Orange.

A son was born yesterday to Mrs. Paul A. Welbourne III. of New York at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Welbourne, who was a Chicago debutante, has been staying with her mother, Mrs. Albert Thomas Evans, 179 Lake Shore drive. Her husband, who is associated with Armour & Co., was hurrying here from New York.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

In one of our State street stores there's a beautiful box of cosmetics on display that you simply must not miss. The fact that it's a bargain isn't the half of it.

The preparations in it are almost beyond words. Ordinarily they're expensive, the kind you look at on the shelves with envious eyes when you buy your medium price face cream. This box of special sizes puts them well within your reach—and they're well worth reaching for.

This house has no cleansing cream; its cleanser is a fluid made of the finest oils and has an emollient quality that makes it a delight for the sensitive skinned. Then there's a bottle of tonic—and it is a tonic, not a mildly astrigent wash for the sole purpose of clearing away the remnants of clingy cream. It will make your skin tingle a bit, if it's very thin, but the tingling will do it good. For our own skin, which is a bit too delicate for comfort, we find it most pleasant. The pink lotion feels cool and clean, then there's a sensation of vibrancy.

The skin food, also found in the box, is virtually perfect, one of the richest, most finely blended we've ever used. It's scented with jasmine, but it's its elegant richness that will win you. We can't imagine the dryest skin not responding to its nourishment.

But that isn't all in the stunning box. There's a powder that we'd stamp as grade A. You have seven shades from which to choose and please take a look at the shade called "apricot." If you can wear it take it. It's lovely. There's a bottle of astringent, too, that will fall in with a real face treatment, and a cunning little lipstick. The cream rouge [and by the way, there are three shades in this] is soft and smooth.

All in all, this box has nearly everything in it and because of the special sizes it's low priced. Don't miss it if you like to get acquainted with some elegant products that might prove too expensive for you otherwise.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Refreshing Special Baths Are Tonics for Tired Tootsies

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A friend backed me up in the corner the other day and rebuked me: "If you'd tell us poor crippled sisters more about how to keep the feet comfortable we wouldn't have to spend so much on makeup, mebbe."

I doubt myself if the makeup money would be saved. It's too uplifting a habit with us femmes to be considered in terms of economies at all. But my friend was right about tying the face and feet up that way. I think I already have told you about a smart New York salon that does its facials beginning with the feet, the theory being that there's not much use facialling if you are going to go on wrinkling over the feet.

I did get a simple, homely little tip t'other day from a man whose time is professionally occupied with helping the foot crippled get back into free and comfortable muscle action again. For a quick pickup, this is, after a shopping day or any foot standing day. He says you'll feel like an untroubled newborn if you do this: "Dissolve one-fourth cup of Epsom salts in about two gallons of hot water, immerse the feet in it for two minutes, then spray or rinse them in cold water for about a minute. Repeat this process twice, finishing with the cold water and brisk rub. Three or four such foot baths will keep you stepping lively, you're promised."

Another highly recommended foot bath is made by dissolving about one-fourth cup of bicarbonate of soda or boric acid powder dissolved in hot water. The process same as in preceding paragraph. The idea is not to soak feet for long periods in hot water, which makes them more tender, but to wash them and tone them with the cold water.

From the same voice of experience in foot matters, I learned that if you dab iodine on the corn after each bath, it's a grand pain chaser.

And something else about hurt-y feet. You have to watch out for cheap dyes sometimes used in turning white 'ppers into colored ones. The dye does bad things. Not the colored shoes that you get from reputable shoe dealers, for their process of incorporating color and the coloring used is done properly. But I am told that there is nothing better for ailing feet or for healthy feet, for that matter, than the open worked, sandal type white summer shoe.

Want to Join Sally's Party? Write a Letter

She'll Take Boys and Girls to Cubs' Game.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

For all you boys and girls who would like to attend the first of THE TRIBUNE'S parties for children, which was announced yesterday, I'm going to give directions today for getting an invitation.

Every summer THE TRIBUNE gives a series of parties for children. Once a week, all during July and August, I take 100 boys and girls to all the nicest places I can find. We had a grand summer last year, but I think we've planned even more fun for this season.

We're starting our series of good times on July 5, with a trip to Cubs' park to watch the Chicago Cubs play the Pittsburgh Pirates. We'll see all your favorite players on the Chicago team, and the famous Waner brothers and many other stars on the opposing team.

Wouldn't you like to come along?

If you would [and who wouldn't?] here's the way to win an invitation:

I want, of course, to take the boys and girls who'll get the most out of the game, those who know and love baseball. Since I have no way of knowing this, you'll have to tell me. You can do this by writing me a letter about why you want to come, which Cub player you like best and why, what you think the score will be—anything you want to tell me which will show me that you'll enjoy our trip on July 5.

These letters must include your name, address and age, and they must be on my desk by next Thursday, June 28.

That's all you have to do to try for an invitation, and if you're a fan that's easy as pie, isn't it? On Thursday, I'll read every letter [except those lacking the name, address or age of the writer], and select the 50 boys and 50 girls who are to be my guests. And won't you be pleased if you see your name printed in THE TRIBUNE next Sunday!

So hurry, hurry, get your letters written and send 'em to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, because Thursday isn't very far off!

CUBS DEFEAT DODGERS IN TWO GAMES, 5-1, 8-0

CROWD TO SEE OPENING TODAY AT ARLINGTON

Field of 25 Named in Handicap.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Here we are up bright and early this morning, dope book under our arm, binoculars strung across our shoulder, our best spectator's sport togs on, and the finest racing in America awaiting us at the opening of the Arlington Park Jocky club's season this afternoon.

E. R. BRADLEY.

And we think we have one or two or three or possibly more winners up our sleeve.

Yet there's one thing lacking as we search and fumble around through our pockets.

"Where's our pass?"

Well, brothers and sisters, there just ain't none."

Twenty-five in Handicap Field.

So when that huge field lines up at the three-quarters pole—twenty-five were named over night to fight it out in the Inaugural handicap—at about half past four this afternoon, a park full of paid customers will no doubt be peering out at the scene. How is a dyed in the wool racegoer going to pass up a horse race like this one, even if he has to crawl over the fence?

With a muddy track possible, but one that is good probable, it was difficult to determine which were the most highly fancied candidates for the Inaugural among the racegoers gathered in Chicago awaiting the opening last night.

Still the betting indicated that either Col. Edward R. Bradley's fleet mare, Barn Swallow, or Mrs. Jack Howard's flyer, Advising Anna, might rule as the post time choice. Some wagering was going on, and the odds quoted against each of this pair were 4 to 1. Indian Runner, the winner last year, and Isaiah, which captured the Washington Park Inaugural four weeks ago, were the second choices at 6 to 1, with Warren Wright's Calumet stable entry of Hadagal, Sir Ten and Some Pomp held at 8 to 1.

Most of 'Em Will Go.

The best guessers of probable starting fields figured last night that 18 will go to the post, yet none of the trainers gathered at Arlington yesterday morning, where the horses worked over a muddy racing strip, indicated that they had any intention of scratching out of the race.

This will be the fifth running of the Inaugural handicap. The winner in 1930 and in 1931 was Silverdale, then racing for Edward B. McLean of Washington. Gold Step raced to an unexpected victory in 1932, and last year Indian Runner upset the best handicap dope when he beat Okapi. No More and a dozen other fleet sprinters. The field for today's renewal of the race shapes up as the strongest that has ever tried for the prize, which will have a gross value of about $5,000.

Sharing interest with the Inaugural handicap will be the Greater Chicago purse at a mile. This event is for 3 year olds and upward, and attracted Good Goods, a stable companion of Cavalcade, which finished third in the Belmont Stakes; Dogmata, the winner of the Sweitzer handicap at Washington Park; Mrs. John Hertz' Watch Him, Late Date from the Audley Farm stable, Pomposity, owned by W. R. Coe of New York, and Clarify, the property of W. C. Stroube of Texas. All of them are eligible to the $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap to be run July 4.

Star Youngsters Race.

Six other races complete the program, and it is quite likely that out of one or the other of the 2 year old races on the program will come an outstanding candidate for the Hyde Park Stakes, which is to be run on Saturday. Cavalcade started on his journey over the championship trail by winning the Hyde Park renewal a year ago.

The rule the Illinois racing commission adopted abolishing all free passes and badges, and which becomes effective today, seems to have been accepted in good faith by all except a few of the habitual pass moochers. Hundreds of season tickets offered at half price by the Arlington Jocky club have been sold.

More visitors are in Chicago awaiting the Arlington opening than ever before. These conditions added to the attractive opening day program prepared by the racing secretary, Jack Campbell, should pull to Arlington one of its largest opening day gatherings.

Track Dries Fast.

While the track was muddy yesterday morning following a drenching rain on Saturday night, it dried out fast all day yesterday with a blistering sun beating down on it. It should be in good condition this afternoon provided there is no additional rainfall.

Post time for the first race will be at twenty minutes after 2 o'clock this afternoon. All wagering will be through the electric totalizator which made a big hit with all visitors at Arlington last year. This betting method has attracted race players from all parts of the country.

ARLINGTON PARK.

ARLINGTON PARK will be the thoroughbred racing capital of the country for the next five weeks during the sixth annual meeting under the present régime. This premiership, based on presence of the greatest stables, is marked tribute to the local track and its management.

It nearly always is possible to secure outstanding stake performers if the value of added money events is made high enough. Stake candidates are shipped to a course and then shipped away again after the event is won or lost. Stellar features of this kind are attractive, afford variety for patrons. Yet the real test of a meeting is its day to day racing.

Arlington Park in the past has been singularly honored by the number of eastern stables shipping here for the entire meeting in contrast with stake events alone. This applies to 1934 as well despite more keen competition from New York tracks through increased purses there made possible by removal of legislative restrictions against betting.

Arlington Park, as now constituted, was formed in 1929 to take over the holdings of the late Curly Brown, builder of the oval, lest such holdings fall into the hands of interests not considered desirable in the Chicago racing picture.

At an invitation meeting of civic leaders and sportsmen, nearly $2,000,000 was pledged in less than thirty minutes. Perhaps the remarkable feature of this underwriting was that subscribers were told they never would make a profit, the most they ever could hope for would be their money back without interest.

Under the slogan, "Racing for Sport Only," Arlington operated. Original backers, the present management, never have received a dividend—never expect to—have received no interest on their money, and only 20 per cent of the first investment has been returned.

When depression came, Arlington Park, in common with Maryland, Kentucky, and New York tracks, reduced values of some of the more pretentious added money stakes. Its management, however, kept purses for day to day races as high as possible as encouragement to owners and the breeding industry. With such policy The Wake is heartily in accord.

Arlington Park was founded with the definite purpose of furnishing high class racing to Chicago racegoers. Whether or not one has agreed with all subsequent activities, and one usually has, its executive board never has deviated from that policy. Compared with the past, the present meeting may not be the greatest in Arlington Park history in point of attendance and speculation, owing to general business conditions. It will be the greatest its sponsors can provide and the greatest in the country for the next five weeks.

She gazed solemnly into my tea cup
Then spoke in faraway voice
"Today good fortune attends you,
You will meet the man of your choice.

"He seems to be restlessly pacing
For some reason I cannot see
And you two are soon to travel."
[I could hardly conceal my glee].

I crossed her palm with some silver
[Your future revealed for a dime]
And reproachfully dashed for the station
For I had been squandering time.

But I must confess I was puzzled
How she saw in the leaves of my tea
That my husband was impatiently waiting
At the five-fifteen gate for me.

GRANT TO MEET M'DIARMID FOR WESTERN TITLE

Gracyn Wheeler Wins in Woman's Finals.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Ga., continued his march toward another tennis championship by beating Robert Bryan of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the semi-finals of the Western tournament at the River Forest Tennis club yesterday. The score was 6-3, 8-6, 7-5.

GRACYN WHEELER.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon he will meet John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., for the title. McDiarmid yesterday defeated Marcel Rainville of the Canadian Davis cup team, 2-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

Gracyn Wheeler of Santa Monica, Cal., won the woman's championship by conquering Dr. Esther Bartosh of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1, in the final round.

Marianne Hunt and Dr. Bartosh beat Helen Fulton of Winnetka and Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., 6-3, 6-4, for the women's doubles championship.

Grant and Karl Kamrath of Austin, Tex., beat McDiarmid and Bryan of Chattanooga, 7-9, 6-3, 14-12, 6-2, and 6-1, for the men's doubles championship.

Grant Wins Easily.

Miss Wheeler had become one of the most popular players in the tournament by her courageous rallies in previous rounds when she came from behind to beat Catherine Wolf, the defending champion, and Helen Fulton. These matches, instead of exhausting her, brought her game to its peak, and against Dr. Bartosh yesterday she was invincible. Her graceful, sweeping forehand and backhand drives were working to perfection. Scoring placement after placement, she swept through the two sets with the issue never in doubt.

Grant accomplished his victory over Bryan in handy fashion. He wasted little time in the first set, volleying and driving aggressively to pile up a comfortable advantage. In the second set he continued to extend himself until he had taken a lead of 4-2, when he decided apparently that he could go on at any time to win as he pleased. As Grant eased up Bryan turned on more pressure and forced the set into extra games. But the little fellow from Atlanta expended just enough energy to keep ahead of his opponent and eventually ran out the set at 8-6.

Rainville Gets Upset.

The final set also went into extra games, Grant chasing his opponent from side to side in the back court and then drawing him to the net with soft drop shots. No matter how aggressive Bryan became Grant usually managed to get to the right spot at the right time.

After dropping the first set of his match with Rainville, McDiarmid resorted to a steady chopping game. Time after time he sent the ball skimming just above the net to land in his opponent's backhand corner. Rainville eventually became unsteady. His deep drives, calculated to land within inches of the baseline, traveled just too far.

MEN'S SINGLES.

Semi-Finals.

John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, defeated Marcel Rainville, Montreal, 2-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-3.
Bryan Grant, Atlanta, defeated Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Finals.

Bryan Grant, Atlanta, and Karl Kamrath, Austin, Tex., defeated John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, and Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, 7-9, 6-8, 14-12, 6-2, 6-1.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Finals.

Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, defeated Dr. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

Semi-Finals.

Finals.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

PHILIP K. WRIGLEY, controling owner of the Cubs, has a way in which he can determine the mood of Manager Charley Grimm. . . . If Grimm, while walking, lets his hands flop as if they were on loose hinges P. K. knows his manager is jovial. . . . If the hands don't flop Charley isn't feeling so chipper. . . . Arndt Jorgens of the Yankees is one of the few foreign born major leaguers. . . . He arrived at Modum, Norway, in 1906. . . . Johnny Goodman never swears. . . . The New York Giants are a pinochle club. . . . The White Sox prefer rhummy. . . . Charley Harvey, manager of Steve Hamas, says Max Baer will fight his man for the championship in September or October, no matter what Baer says for publication at this time. . . .

Casey Stengel, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, says Catcher Gus Mancuso is the most valuable member of the New York Giants. . . . He attributes the success of the Giants' pitchers to Mancuso's work behind the plate. . . . Jack Dempsey playfully put a headlock on his pal, Floyd Fitzsimmons, before the Baer-Carnera fight and Floyd now is seeing triple. . . . The Detroit Tigers had Carl Hubbell for a trial in 1926, but Ty Cobb, then manager, couldn't see him and he was shipped to Toronto. . . . The home club keeps all the receipts in Nebraska State league games. . . . Dr. Alexander Alekhine, world chess champion, is willing to meet José R. George Keogan, Notre Dame basketball coach and dog fancier, also is a gardener of considerable promise. . . . He has an excellent collection of oriental rugs. . . . National league players have hit 2,583 home runs since 1930 as compared to 2,493 by American leaguers. . . . From the competitive viewpoint the national A. A. Jesse Little, now a farmer of Lowell, Ind., was known as one of football's best recoverers of fumbles while a member of Purdue's 1892 eleven. . . . When the pileups were untangled by the referee Little usually would be found curled around the ball. . . . Dede Hanks, veteran race track blacksmith, received $200, his largest fee, for shoeing Atherstone for its winning gallop in the 1925 Coffroth handicap at Tia Juana. . . . Henry Rothier, 1932 international Golden Gloves champion, is saving up to buy baby shoes. . . . Fay Thomas, leading pitcher in the Pacific Coast league, has failed several times to make the grade in the big leagues. . . . Heinie Martin, sports editor of a Grand Rapids newspaper, recently predicted that a score of 78 would win the Michigan state newspaper men's tournament. . . . He was assigned to cover the event and, reaching the club, he was induced by friends to enter the meet. . . . He won it with a 78, showing that a prophet is not without honor in his own town. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Carl Schurz's High school baseball team defeated Evander Childs, prep champions of New York, 4 to 3, in an intercity game at Cubs' park. . . . The Detroit Tigers took the lead in the American league when they defeated the Yankees twice. . . . Shuffle Callahan pounded out a ten round decision over California Joe Gans. . . . BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 24.—Babe Ruth, that fine old gentleman of baseball, today found the White Sox purveyors of an elixir for his fallen spirits, said crushed morale having been induced by the fact that he had gone through nine games with nary a hit, a matter of 22 futile trips to the plate. Babe's tonic came in the second inning in which he smacked his No. 11 homer with two out and the bases loaded.

The second place Yanks beat the tail end White Sox, 5 to 0, so the Ruthian shot furnished the bulk of the production, though a run scored by Combs in the first inning was enough to seal the Chicagoans' doom.

Ruffing Bears Down.

Charley Ruffing was the winning pitcher. The Nokomis, Ill., lad held the cellar inmates to five singles, no two of which came in the same inning. Among his series of accomplishments, Ruffing fanned Al Simmons three times in a row. None of the boys who are paid large sums to hit earned so much as a nickel this day. Two of the singles were made by Uhalt, two by Merv Shea and one by Joe Chamberlin. Everybody else flopped miserably.

Sam Jones was a mighty good pitcher after the Ruth episode in the second inning. A single by Dickey in the third, one by Combs with two out in the seventh and one by Gehrig in the ninth furnished the total hitting off him the rest of the way.

Uhalt started the day's activities with a single to center, but his zeal immediately thereafter was too great. He attempted to go to third on Haas' sacrifice and was doubled on Gehrig's throw to Dickey, who covered third and tagged Bernie in the nick of time. Bonura popped to Heffner.

The Babe Comes Through.

Three singles netted the Yankees their run in the first inning. Combs singled to center and went to third on Saltzgaver's single to right. The runners held on while Ruth and Gehrig popped out, but Hoag singled to center, Combs scoring and Saltzgaver taking third. Dickey ended the session with a fly to Simmons.

And here is the detail of Ruth's slump emergence in the second inning. Crosetti got credit for a double when Simmons and Chamberlin did a you-take-it on his pop fly. Heffner sacrificed and was safe at first when Jones fumbled the ball. Then Ruffing was called out on strikes. Combs walked, filling the bases, and it appeared that Sam might get out of the woods when Saltzgaver lifted a short fly to Simmons. Ruth, however, fretting at his recent helplessness, socked the second pitch high into the right field bleachers, scoring behind Crosetti, Heffner and Combs.

The Sox actually got two men on base in the third inning. Chamberlin led off with a single and, after Shea had fanned, Jones walked. But Uhalt bounced to Saltzgaver and Haas flied to Combs.

Geisel Misses One.

Dykes walked to start the fifth. Chamberlin fanned. Shea singled to right and Dykes sought to go to third, but was called out on an astoundingly poor decision by Umpire Geisel, the only person who thought Saltzgaver had come within four or five feet of tagging Jimmy. Jones popped to Heffner.

MALONE HURLS FIRST VICTORY, TINNING SECOND

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The now gay Cubs, pepped up by the tonic derived from three victories over the pace-making Giants, kept moving in the right direction yesterday to stretch their winning streak to five games. Despite a dozen strikeouts slapped on them by the speed balling Van Lingle Mungo, they charged to a brilliant 5 to 1 triumph behind Pat Malone's pitching in the first half of the Sabbath double-header with the Dodgers. Then they came back and repeated, 8 to 0, behind the pitching of Bud Tinning and before the eyes of 30,000 customers.

CHARLEY GRIMM.

Mungo started off at such a dazzling clip in the first battle that the Cubs began to recall their unpleasant experience one afternoon last July, against Dizzy Dean, who fanned 17 of them. For a while yesterday Mungo threatened to better this mark. He whiffed two in the opening inning, three in the second, two in the third, and two in the fourth for a total of nine. Then his strenuous labors began to slow him down and the Cubs went about the business of getting some runs with which to safeguard Malone.

Hurst, Babe Hit Homers.

Don Hurst assumed responsibility for taking the first bite out of Mungo's hide. He unloaded a homer in the fifth. In the next inning Babe Herman did the same. Then in the eighth Mungo discovered he had nothing left with which to tease his opponents. They bunched four hits and a pass for three runs, and that was more than sufficient for Malone, who until the ninth had the Dodgers shut out on four hits.

Malone himself wasn't at all bashful about using the strikeout ball. He fanned seven to feature his seventh victory of the year.

Only one starting Cub was able to escape being blinded by Mungo. The exception was Ki Cuyler, who said his piece with two doubles and a couple of infield outs. Babe Herman, before his homer, fanned twice. Hack, Hartnett, and Malone also enrolled twice. Billy Herman, Klein, Hurst, and Jurges fell once.

Everything O. K. in Second.

There wasn't much to the second battle except that the Cubs did everything properly. They fielded sensationally, particularly Jurges and W. Herman, behind Tinning, although the latter didn't require much assistance. Coupled with their brilliant defense was an attack that made the freshman named Johnny Babich realize he was no longer in the Pacific Coast league. They started operating on the rookie in the second inning, three runs going across because Manager Charlie Grimm came forth with the third Cub homer of the day. The Cubs gave Babich another shower of hits good for three runs in the fifth, and concluded with another worth two runs in the seventh.

Tinning's work was of such a high grade that the Dodgers never made a serious threat after the first inning. In the initial session the first two men singled, but a double play by the energetic second base combination stopped this. Then the former fat boy went along almost flawlessly. At the end of the eighth the Dodgers could boast of only one man reaching second. It was the same until two were out in the ninth, when Cuccinello doubled to become the second and last player to travel as far as the middle station.

Judges View Movies; Change Results in N. C. A. A. Events

Los Angeles, Cal., June 24.—(AP)—Definite proof that the movie camera is far more accurate than the human eye was given today when national collegiate officials made a wholesale revision of placings in the N. C. A. A. meet yesterday.

Changes were made in five events from the blanket finish of the 120 yard high hurdles on down to the quarter mile, dethroning one champion crowned yesterday and shifting the team standings.

Fortunately, the point totals of the first seven teams were not changed, but unfortunately, George Fisher, Louisiana State high hurdler, was shorn of his title. The crown was shifted to Sam Klopstock of Stanford.

Hardin May Lose Record.

The photographic timing device, tested and certified before and after the meet, probably stole from Glenn Hardin, Louisiana State, his chance for a world's 220 yard low hurdle record. The camera caught him in 23.16 seconds. The timers gave him a new world's record of 22.7 seconds.

Five changes were made in the 120 yard high hurdles after a study of the pictures, which showed that Klopstock won by inches with the fourth place finisher, Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist, less than a foot and a half behind.

On the basis of the screen tests, Amsden Oliver, Miami, was awarded second, and Fisher third; Allen held his fourth place and Ned Bacon, Denison, retained fifth, but Lee Haring, Kansas State Teachers, moved up to sixth from seventh and Forrest Wilson, Texas, was dropped to seventh. The camera time was 14.63 seconds, as compared to the hand timing of 14.4 seconds.

Considerable shifting also took place in the 100 yard dash. It was decided that instead of placing second, Charles Parsons, Southern California, actually was tied by Hunter Russell, Illinois. The pictures showed Ralph Metcalfe far out in front.

Auburn Star Profits.

Foy Draper, Southern California, was awarded fourth place in this race, inches ahead of Jimmy Wilson, Stanford, who was shunted to fifth, and Sterling Dupree, Auburn, will get credit for sixth, moving Durward Crooks of Kansas State Teachers back to last.

The pictures also advanced Dupree a notch in the 220 yard dash, giving him fifth and shunting Ed Hall, Kansas, back to sixth. The last two places in the low hurdles also were changed with W. H. Randow, Texas A. & M., getting fifth and Bacon sixth. The judges had selected them the other way around.

In the quarter mile, Jimmy Lu Valle, University of California at Los Angeles, was moved from fifth to seventh, while Ed Ablowich, Southern California, a 1932 Olympic games star, advanced to fifth.

29 YACHTS OFF ON 650 MILE BERMUDA RACE

New London, Conn., June 24.—[Special.]—With a little yacht from the Great Lakes and another from Nova Scotia showing the way, 29 sailing craft cleared this port today and stood for the open sea in the biennial race to Bermuda, a distance of 650 nautical miles.

One of the leaders, Russell A. Alger Jr.s' jib headed sloop Baccarat from Grosse Point, Mich., had never been in salt water until a fortnight ago. But it stepped out into the ocean today with Young Carl Weagant serving as navigator.

The other was Frederick Jay Wells' Cyclone from Chester, N. S., a cutter well able to take care of itself.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Olin Dutra, the big Californian who came from nowhere to win the recent national open title at Merion, dropped into the Mohawk Country club yesterday afternoon and demonstrated to a gallery of nigh onto 1,000 that he's a champion who works at it. Olin, teaming with Walter Hagen, whom he has adopted as his barnstorming colleague, played an 18 hole exhibition match against Tommy Armour of Medinah and Lew Waldron of Mohawk. The match ended all even, but Olin's individual card, a 35—32—67, 6 under par, sufficed to establish a course record.

Armour came very close to duplicating Dutra's medal score, taking a 68 when his 35 foot putt for a deuce on the last green hopped out of the cup after having been in it. Waldron came through with a 72, while Hagen, whose putting was a trifle askew, settled for 75.

Miss Hicks Cards 79.

This would have been a handsome foursome for any match, but the male quartet had excellent accompaniment in a young lady who has been known to make a golf shot or two herself. She was Helen Hicks, who only a few days ago became America's first business woman golfer. Playing the full eighteen holes with the foursome, the former national women's champion went around in 79, even par for women at Mohawk.

Par out	545	443	535—38
Par in	544	534	343—35—73
Dutra-Hagen out	434	444	434—34

Armour-Waldron out	435	433	435—34

Dutra out	534	444	434—35

Armour out	435	443	435—35
Armour in	434	534	343—33—68
Waldron out	556	533	435—39
Waldron in	443	435	343—33—72
Hagen out	445	544	535—39

Miss Hicks out	466	543	535—41

Reach Green in Two.

Hagen and Armour both reached the first green in two to halve the hole in birdies, and Dutra and Tommy matched each other's birdies at the second. Olin and Walter went one up at the third, when the Californian scored a birdie four, but Waldron evened it at the fifth by reaching the green in two and running down a neat putt for a birdie.

Armour drove 300 yards along the 11th fairway, reached the green with his approach and sank the putt for a birdie to put his side up again. They halved the next two, but a 12 foot putt by Dutra on the 14th gave him a deuce and they were all even again. Armour's par four at the 15th sent him and Waldron ahead again, but Dutra, with a mighty drive which went past the pin on the 303 yard 17th, was down in two for a birdie three to square it again. All took threes on the home green. With a trifle more luck on his final putt Armour might have won the hole and the match and tied Dutra's 67.

Helen Gets a Hand.

Miss Hicks matched the best ball of the four men on seven holes, the 1st, 5th, 6th, 8th, 13th, 16th, and 18th. She had two birdies against men's par during the round, at the first and the 13th. Her second shot to the first green was a trifle short, but a fine chip shot left her an easy putt. Helen drew a large hand at the 13th, when her third shot, made from the rough, was close to the pin for a four, one under par.

TIDBALL DEFEATS MAKO IN COLLEGE TENNIS TOURNEY

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Jack Tidball of the University of California at Los Angeles came from behind today and defeated his southern California rival, Gene Mako, 1-6, 6-0, 7-9, 6-1, 6-4, in the final match of the eastern intercollegiate tennis tournament at the Richmond County Country club.

The doubles title was won by the Southern California pair of Mako and Phil Castlen. They defeated Carl Helmholz and S. Ellsworth Davenport, Harvard, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, in the final round.

KIRKWOOD AND SARAZEN GET 69 IN BRITISH TRIAL

7 Americans Bid for Open Title Today.

SANDWICH, England, June 24.—(AP)—That inseparable American pair, Gene Sarazen and Joe Kirkwood, today treated themselves to a brace of 69s over the Royal St. George's course in the final tuneup for the British open golf tournament, starting tomorrow.

Sarazen was hitting every shot beautifully for the benefit of a gallery of several hundred which followed him. Kirkwood, playing with the defending champion, Denny Shute of Philadelphia, and the British amateur, Francis Francis, needed only a pair of easy fours on the last two holes for a record, smashing 67, but dubbed his approach shots to both greens.

Sarazen Gets 33 Going Out.

Sarazen turned in a 33 for the 3,225 yard front nine and a 36 for the 3,551 yard trip home. Kirkwood's nine hole scores were 31 and 38.

Later Kirkwood toured the course again, this time posting an approximate 74. Shute still was way off form and his chances of retaining the title he won in a playoff with Craig Wood last year were not considered bright by most experts.

Although Sarazen, the pre-tournament favorite, Shute, Kirkwood, and Smith form the major part of the American threat for the title players from the United States have won for ten consecutive years, there are three others in the record entry list of 313. All of them are amateurs—Douglas Grant, former Californian, and the Sweeney brothers, Charles and Robert.

Tournament Proper Starts Wednesday.

Because of the huge field, the 36 hole qualifying round will be played on two courses. Half the field will play the first 18 holes of the qualifying round over the Royal St. George's course tomorrow and the second 18 over the Royal Cinque Ports layout at Deal Tuesday. The other half will reverse that procedure.

The low 100 and ties in the qualifying round will go into the first 18 hole round of the tournament proper Wednesday. The second 18 will be played Thursday, after which the field will be reduced again to the low 60 and ties. The final 36 holes will be played Friday. All four rounds of the tournament will be played over the Royal St. George's course.

EMERY DEFENDS TITLE

Cleveland, O., June 24.—[Special.]—One hundred and twenty-three golfers, including the defending champion, Walter Emery, Oklahoma, and nineteen teams, including the defending Yale sextet, will open the thirty-sixth annual national intercollegiate golf tournament tomorrow at the Cleveland country club.

The team championship which has gone to Yale nineteen times and which has never left the east will be settled tomorrow and Tuesday in the thirty-six hole qualifying rounds. The low thirty-two men will become eligible for match play for the individual championship. The first two rounds of eighteen holes each will be played Wednesday, with the quarter final, semi-final, and final rounds at thirty-six holes on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Michigan, Notre Dame Enter.

Michigan, Big Ten champion, and Notre Dame, Indiana state champion, are considered to have the best chance of bringing the team title to Chicago and. Yale has won the last three years.

Georgia Tech and Texas, both with four man teams entered, are outstanding dark horse entrants. Six man teams, of course, have a better chance, since two men may have an off day without hurting the team total, the four low scores counting.

Emery, the individual champion, is trying to repeat in the face of one of the greatest lineups of individual stars the tournament ever has seen. Michigan's hopes ride largely with Sophomore Charlie Kocsis, Big Ten champion, who shot 141 in two par breaking warmup rounds Thursday and Friday. He had 70 on Thursday and 71 on Friday.

Charley Yates Cards 72.

Notre Dame is depending upon Johnny Banks, co-medalist last year; Winfield Day Jr., twice Chicago district junior champion; and Pat Malloy Jr., promising sophomore. Johnny Montedonico, last year's captain, however, had the best practice round for the Irish contingent, with 73, while Banks and Days both had 74. Capt. Vincent Fehlig carded 75, and Malloy 77.

Charley Yates, Georgia Tech, shot 73, even par, in practice, while three of his mates were shooting two 73s and a 74. Ed White, Texas, scored 73, and John Payne, Texas, had 74 in today's practice rounds.

STATE MEET OPENS TODAY

Springfield, Ill., June 24.—(AP)—Keith Johnson, 20 year old city champion of Bloomington, and the veteran Harry Hampton of Chicago shot par smashing 68s today as golf stars of Illinois tuned up for the state amateur and professional golf tournament.

The 36 hole two day battle for the pro championship opens tomorrow, with the amateurs starting out on their four day duel with a 27 hole qualifying round on Wednesday. Harry Cooper, Chicago, who finished in a third place tie in the national open and then went to Peoria to beat Ky Laffoon in a double overtime tussle for the western open crown, is the defending pro titleholder.

Don Armstrong of Aurora captured the amateur title last year, but was unable to compete. A combined field of 150 pros and amateurs was expected to fight it out for the two championships.

Johnson and Hampton easily outshadowed those who toured the championship layout of the Illini Country club today. The Bloomington amateur scored a brilliant 32 on the front nine, with four birdies and five straight pars and came home with a 36 for his 68, shattering par by three shots and bettering the competitive amateur course record of 69, shot by Ferris Hamilton of Springfield last Memorial day. His only error came on the 196 yard 11th, where he took a four on the par three hole. Hampton was out in 35 and back in 33 for his 68.

Rightmeier to Battle Barry at White City

Two professional boxing shows will be presented tonight. Everett [Young] Rightmeier, Sioux City, Ia., featherweight, will make his Chicago debut in an eight round windup bout at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. The other show at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, will be headed by Jackie Gibbs of Orange, Tex., 165 pound boxer, and Solly Dukelsky.

Rightmeier is confident of whipping Dave Barry, who gave Leo Rodak an interesting battle for 10 rounds last week, and pave the way for a match with Rodak. The Sioux City youngster has lost only one fight in three years. In two of his latest bouts he defeated Sammy Levine at Minneapolis, April 20, and held Jackie Wilson to a draw at Sioux City, Dec. 20.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—(AP)—Detroit maintained its hold on first place in the American league today by defeating the Athletics, 8 to 4.

Bob Johnson's homer in the fourth, his 22d of the year, was about the only cheering note for the A's fans. His drive, like many of its predecessors, landed in the left field bleachers and was the first run made off Schoolboy Rowe, winning hurler for the Tigers.

YANKEE BEATS RAINBOW OVER 28 MILE COURSE

Newport, R. I., June 24.—(AP)—Yankee, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, former secretary of the navy, today whipped Rainbow, Harold S. Vanderbilt's new candidate for the honor of defending the America's cup against the British challenger, Tom Sopwith's Endeavour. Yankee led Rainbow all around a 28½ mile course and crossed the finish line 58 seconds ahead.

The race was sailed in a moderate breeze, probably never exceeding 12 knots, but Yankee, the heavy weather craft of four years ago, showed conclusively that the changes in her hull have made her a boat to be reckoned with in light air.

There was a mixup at the start, in which Rainbow crashed into Yankee's stern, denting a plate or two, and from then on Rainbow flew, in addition to mainsail, jib and staysail, a protest flag.

Yankee was 36 seconds ahead at the first mark, a bell buoy off Seaconnett, which represented a seven-mile beat to windward. The next leg of the course was a 13 mile reach, and on it Yankee widened her lead to 53 seconds. Then came a 8½ mile reach home to the finish line and Yankee added five seconds to her margin of victory.

Peoria Yacht Club Skippers WinTeamRace

Visiting yachtsmen from the Illinois Valley Yacht club of Peoria were victors in a team race conducted yesterday by the Sheridan Shore Yacht club off Wilmette. Five star class sloops were sailed by each club. Peoria, with second, third, fifth, seventh, and eighth places, scored 30 points to Sheridan Shore's 25.

Carol, sailed by Sheridan Shore sailors, finished first, negotiating the eight mile course in 1 hour 15 minutes and 30 seconds. Despite the light south winds, the rest of the fleet crossed the finish line within the next four minutes. Fred Bloom, skipper of the Gemini from Peoria, led the Stars until a few feet from the finish. Then R. S. Kendig steered Carol in front to win by four seconds.

Ali Baba, flying the red pennant of Peoria and skippered by Allan Ruch, was only 10 seconds astern of Gemini. Max Hayford sailed the Chicago entrant, Smack, in fourth, with a Peoria boat, Glider, skippered by John Selley, fifth.

Tom Waage's Hummer, of the Sheridan Shore fleet, was sixth and Walrus, sailed by Holt Thomas, Peoria, seventh. Another Peoria skipper, Arty McLaughlin, was eighth in the Twinkle Ditto. A Chicago boat, Neo, with Sam Pirie at the tiller, finished ninth, followed over a minute later by Silver Spray of the Sheridan Shore fleet, sailed by Burton Ellis.

Cubs Conquer Dodgers in 2 Games, 5-1, 8-0

was a double past third by Jordan with one gone in the first inning. The matter was additionally complicated by a wild pitch that moved Jordan to third. Malone climbed out easily, however. He fanned Taylor and Frederick rolled to Jurges. Mungo immediately went about the business of serving strikes. He made his start by fanning Hack and Klein in the opening home half after Billy Herman had lined to Boyle.

A single by Leslie opened the Dodgers' second, but a double play hurried the conclusion of this threat, whereupon Mungo made more headway on strikes. He started the Cub second by slipping a called third strike past Babe Herman. Cuyler was able to locate one of the dazzling fast balls and it splashed against the left field wall for a double. Cuyler stood at second long enough to have an excellent view of what followed. He saw six strikes zip across the pan, three for Hartnett and three for Hurst.

Strikes and More Strikes.

Malone began to get the strikeout urge in the third. He fanned a couple, making his total three. Mungo promptly raised his total to seven. His victims in this instance were Jurges and Malone for the first two outs in the home third. Billy Herman followed with a double past third base, but the inning closed in a hurry when Hack, trying to pull back his bat, accidentally tapped the ball in front of the plate. Lopez threw him out.

The Cubs finally got a man to third in the fourth inning, but Mungo took care of this situation in his customary way. Klein led off with a bounder to Jordan, who fumbled. Babe Herman looked at a third strike for the second time. Cuyler bounced one high in front of the plate and Mungo threw him out. Klein went from first to third on the play because the Dodgers left the far corner unguarded. Then came three strikes on Hartnett for Mungo's ninth whiff.

Mungo Starts to Weaken.

The first indication of a letup by Mungo appeared at the start of the fifth. This was where Hurst, with a count of one ball and two strikes, hoisted his homer into the right field seats. Hurst quit immediately on the plea that he must have eaten something that didn't agree with him. Before the inning closed Mungo registered strikeout No. 10, Malone being the victim. Hack became No. 11 at the start of the sixth and Klein was nipped on a roller to Leslie, whereupon Babe Herman popped in with his homer into the right field bleachers. After this Mungo was soft picking.

The Cubs didn't score despite two hits with one out in the seventh, but they made up for this in the eighth. For a starter Mungo rounded out his even dozen strikeouts by making a victim of Billy Herman, who had escaped until this point. Then Hack singled to right and Klein walked. Babe Herman bounced into a force-out. Cuyler came along with his second double, a drive down the right field line, to score Hack and put the Babe on third. The Babe and Cuyler scored on Hartnett's single to left. Grimm, who had taken Hurst's place, also singled, but Jurges fouled out.

Malone Loses Shutout.

Malone's possible shutout began to fade in the ninth when Jordan and Taylor opened with singles. Frederick bounced into a force play and Leslie was called out on strikes. Cuccinello whacked Hack on the shin for a single and Jordan ran home, after which Stripp hoisted to the Babe.

SECOND GAME

Young Babich wrapped strikeouts of Hack and Babe Herman around a double by Klein in the opening inning, but this was only a flash. Cuyler led off in the second with a single to center and strolled to third on Hartnett's double to left. Mr. Grimm, the manager, then ran his count to three and two before doing a cleanup job by banging the ball into the right field bleachers for three runs. It was the boss' first homer of the year.

The hammering that produced three more runs off Babich in the fifth began with Billy Herman's single to right. He was forced on a bunt that Hack intended for a sacrifice. Klein bounced one so high that he was able to beat Cuccinello's throw for a single. Babich had fanned Babe Herman twice, so it was necessary to do something about squaring that. The Babe

DOCTOR TREATS SON WITH SERUM AND CHILD DIES

Battle for Life of Second Paralysis Victim.

San Francisco, Cal., June 24.—[Special.]—Anti-infantile paralysis serum administered by a prominent Sonoma county physician to immunize his two little sons today was followed by the death of one of the boys and the critical illness of the other.

The lives of ten or more other children, members of wealthy Healdsburg and other Sonoma county families, were believed saved by the prompt action of the grief stricken father in warning the laboratory from which the serum was obtained that it apparently was contaminated. It had been planned to give the ten children injections of the serum tomorrow.

Battles for Boy's Life.

The dead victim of his father's wish to immunize his children against the dread disease, prevalent to considerable extent in California, is Jackie Baldwin, 2. His brother, in a serious condition at Healdsburg General hospital, is Bobbie Baldwin, 7. The heartbroken father is Dr. Byron L. Baldwin of Healdsburg, who has a large practice.

Haggard after hours of battling to save the lives of his two boys, Dr. Baldwin today continued his vigil at the bedside of his older son, and hoped tonight he and physicians at the hospital had succeeded.

Mother on Way to Fair.

The mother of the two boys, on her way to A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, was apprised of the illness of her sons when she was handed a telegram when her train reached Salt Lake City late last night. She immediately boarded a plane for home.

Dr. Baldwin late today issued a statement in which he said it would be unfair to say the serum was tainted until such time as it is tested, the diagnosis is completed and the blood of the dead child processed. This work is being undertaken today by members of the University of California staf.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: He Wants to Be Alone

C. S. THOMAS, 84, DIES; HAD DEFIED U. S. GOLD ORDER

Action Capped Career as Senator, Governor.

Denver, Colo., June 24.—(AP)—Charles S. Thomas, 84, who capped a stormy career as United States senator and governor of Colorado by defying President Roosevelt's 1933 order against gold hoarding, died today.

Thomas' life had been ebbing for weeks, and many times he had expressed his willingness to die.

Clashed with Leaders.

Though a Democrat all his life, Thomas frequently clashed with leaders of his party. He termed "undemocratic" the powers given Franklin D. Roosevelt as President and in the Wilson administration opposed United States' participation in the league of nations and Versailles treaty.

He had retired from active political life last year when the President called for the surrender of gold to th treasury, in connection with the national banking crisis. Thomas acquired more gold than the law allowed, and defied the government to seize his "hoard" of $120.

His Daughter Indicted.

His "hoard" was ignored, but later his daughter was indicted for gold hoarding, and Thomas announced he would help defend her on the ground that the order deprived citizens of their property without due process of law and therefore was unconstitutional. This case is pending.

Thomas sought unceasingly during his term in the senate—from 1913 to 1921—to have silver rehabilitated as a currency base.

DR. G. C. ADAMS IS DEAD AFTER 14 YEARS' ILLNESS

Dr. George Cooke Adams, formerly a leader in British-American activities, died Saturday at his home in St. Joseph, Mich., at the age of 72, after an illness which kept him an invalid for 14 years. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in St. Luke's church, 424 Lee street, Evanston.

Dr. Adams came to Canada in 1906 and moved a year later to Evanston to conduct research in cancer treatment. In British medical journals he wrote that cancer was preventable. Ill health interrupted his work in 1921 and he retired to St. Joseph.

Dr. Adams, born in Sydney, New South Wales, established a reputation as an engineer in Australia before he began the study of medicine in London and Edinburgh universities.

Returning to Australia, Dr. Adams became family physician to Sir Edmund Barton, prime minister of the commonwealth, and he later was named honorary surgeon to the Australian naval forces. He retired from practice in 1905.

Dr. Adams is survived by his widow, Julie, and two children, Archibald E. and Berte, of London. Cremation at Graceland cemetery will follow the Evanston funeral services.

CUBA MAY CHOOSE PREMIER TO HEAD PARLIAMENT RULE

HAVANA, June 24.—(AP)—With the short lived naval revolt at Antilla apparently completely suppressed, interest centered today in the work of a conciliation committee seeking to avert a cabinet crisis.

It was reported in several quarters that a parliamentary form of government headed by a prime minister may be suggested by the committee. President Carlos Mendieta and the committee conferred with Gen. Mario G. Menocal, former president and leader of the Nationalist party. It was reported the president seeks Nationalist support to strengthen his position in the event of a final break with the ABC society.

ABC leaders expressed the opinion a parliamentary plan of government for Cuba would be satisfactory to them, but they insisted the premier would have to be chosen from their ranks.

4 KILLED, EIGHT HURT IN 3 WAY AUTO COLLISION

Evansville, Ind., June 24.—(AP)—Four persons lost their lives and eight others were injured in accidents involving three automobiles on U. S. highway 41 near the Evansville-Henderson, Ky., bridge early today.

The dead are Isom Small, 30, his wife, Dorothy, 26, Cleatis Powers, 23, and his wife, Gladys, all of Evansville. The first three were killed instantly and Mrs. Powers died four hours after the accident.

Five persons were injured in the first wreck and three others were hurt about a hour later when an automobile ran into the crowd gathered at the scene of the tragedy.

Three Killed in Crash.

Zanesville, O., June 24.—(AP)—Three persons were killed late today when an automobile careened off the Newark-Zanesville road and struck a tree. Marshall M. Holmes, his wife, and his brother, Harold, were the victims.

Man with Stab Wound in His Heart Still Alive

Lancaster, Pa., June 24.—(AP)—George Hampton, 41, with a stab wound in the heart, is alive and "doing as well as can be expected." In an operation, which hospital officials say has seldom been performed except by professors of surgery, Dr. John L. Atlee Jr., 30 year old surgeon, lifted Hampton's heart from its place and with two stitches closed the wound in the left auricle. Mrs. Myrtle Dorvart, 36, Hampton's housekeeper, is charged with the stabbing.

GRAINS RALLY ON BAD FOREIGN CROP PROSPECT

Sentiment Reversed as Week Ends.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain markets executed a quick turnabout last week and ended with a flourish of strength. The sensationally bullish report on the condition of European crops by Broomhall was regarded as the factor which caused the change in sentiment. Throughout the week there was conspicuous lack of speculative buying which ordinarily would have been expected in the face of the bullish crop news both in this country and abroad.

The rally in September wheat did not come until after the price had slipped below 90 cents a bushel, at which level it was selling 18 cents a bushel below the high price of $1.07½ which it touched June 1. The better demand from milling interests rather than speculative buying was the factor which caused the late rally in wheat.

Market Movement Heavy.

As harvesting in the southwest neared its peak the receipts at terminal markets and interior points continued heavy until on Saturday 1,992 cars representing nearly 3,500,000 bushels were received at 10 markets. Hedging pressure in the future contracts was heavy throughout the week and until new buying came into the market Friday and Saturday it was responsible for pushing the price of September wheat down to its low quotation of 89⅛ cents a bushel.

Speculative operations failed to provide the usual cushion for this selling. Good support was found around 90 cents, however, and after that speculators changed to the buying side.

September Wheat Off 1⅛ Cents.

The final quotation on September wheat of 93⅜ cents a bushel represents a decline of 1⅛ cents below the preceding week's final price. The range of prices for the week on all futures follows:

	July.	September.	December.
Monday	93⅜- 95	93¾- 95⅝	95 - 96⅝

Corn and other grains followed the fluctuations in wheat. Reports on the corn crop were mixed but numerous reports of serious damage from chinch bugs were received from Illinois and Iowa. July is looked upon as the critical month for this crop and trade appears to be awaiting developments. The closing price Saturday of 58⅝ cents on September corn represented a gain of 3 cents a bushel for the week. The range of prices follows:

The reports on the oats crop received through the week continued uniformly pessimistic. Despite this, however, September oats closed at 42½ cents a bushel, a decline of ⅝ of a cent from the preceding week. The advance in the price of Argentine oats is believed to have lessened the threat of any large importations.

EARNED SURPLUS OF UNITED GAS SHOWS INCREASE

The consolidated income statement of United Gas corporation and subsidiaries for the twelve months ended May 31, 1934, shows a balance carried to consolidated earned surplus of $3,471,753, which is equal to $7.72 a share on the company's outstanding $7 preferred stock. This compares with a balance for the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1933, of $2,267,146, equal to $5.04 a share on the stock.

Operating revenues of subsidiaries for the twelve months ended May 31, 1934, were 3 per cent larger than for the preceding twelve months. Most of the improvement in operating revenues was, however, offset by increases in operating expenses and taxes, with the result that net revenues from operation for the twelve months were slightly less than the preceding twelve months.

For the three months ended May 31, 1934, operating revenues of subsidiaries were 30 per cent larger than for the three months ended May 31, 1933, while net revenues from operation were 53 per cent larger.

Morris Plan Company Gets Status of N. Y. State Bank

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 24. — The Morris Plan company has announced the change of its name to the Morris Plan Industrial Bank of New York. This action followed the passage of legislation by the New York legislature granting the status of state banks to industrial banking companies. The company also announced that Morris Plan investment certificates held by the public henceforth would be classed as certificates of deposit. The deposits, it was explained, were subject to the insurance provisions of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

Kroger Grocery Company Sales in 9 Per Cent Gain

Kroger Grocery and Baking company sales for the four-week period ending June 16 totaled $17,466,588, an increase of nine per cent over the same period a year ago. The company's sales for the first 24 weeks of 1934 showed an increase of 10 per cent over the comparable period of 1933.

Expect Bank Call to Show Deposit Gain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 24.—Second quarter reports of banks and trust companies which will be called for within the next week by the controler of the currency and various state banking authorities will show further large increases in deposits. On the basis of estimates the gains should be far less than the record high reported in the first quarter of this year.

Most larger banks, it appears, will show increases of about 5 to 6 per cent over the end of March, while the average gain for 41 banks of the country having deposits of $100,000,000 or more in the first quarter of this year was about 9 per cent.

Member Bank Total Rises.

Between March 28 and June 13 weekly reporting member banks of the federal reserve system in 91 leading cities of the country showed a gain of $898,000,000 or 5.54 per cent in the combined total of their time and demand deposits. This lifted the figure of deposits to $17,111,000,000. In the same period reporting member banks in New York showed a rise of 6.42 per cent in deposits, or from $6,490,000,000 to $6,907,000,000.

The indicated smaller increases in bank deposits in the second quarter of this year compared with the first quarter, is due to the lessened output of new government securities and to larger cash subscriptions by banks to new issues. In the first quarter of the year the rise in deposits was found to correspond closely with the increase in bank holdings of United States government securities. The banks by subscribing through the "book credit" system to the large new issues of government securities created deposits in favor of the treasury which were later transferred to private ownership as the treasury spent the funds.

Federal Financing Lags.

In the last three months, however, the pace of government financing has greatly slackened and, in addition, the banks have to a considerable extent employed their large excess reserves in subscribing for new issues in cash, rather than have the bother of handling treasury deposits.

Even if the gains of the second quarter should prove to be half of the remarkable advances reported in the first quarter they will be sufficient to carry the average of bank deposits to the highest levels in several years and will lift the deposits of many of the larger banks to record totals. June 30 bank figures are normally large in comparison with those taken on other days of the year, being exceeded usually only by year end totals. The half-year reports of the banks on this occasion will register the effects of some sixteen months of recovery from the bank holiday of last year and of six months of federal insurance of bank deposits.

Reflects Easy Money.

Commercial loans declined, the board said, the $80,000,000 increase in loans and investments by reporting member banks between May 16 and June 13 being accounted for by loans to brokers and purchases of securities other than governments.

Member bank excess reserves advanced to a high of $1,800,000,000 in the first half of June as a result of treasury expenditure of cash and deposits with the federal reserve banks and a growth in the monetary gold stock. They dropped to $1,675,000,000 in the week ended June 20, however, due to treasury deposits at reserve banks in connection with tax receipts and sales of governmental securities.

Industrial production rose from 86 per cent of the 1923-1925 average in April to 87 per cent in May. The board reported that unseasonal maintenance of steel mill activity for the first three weeks of June above the May level represented considerable stocking.

TAX COLLECTION NEARLY BILLION OVER LAST YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Internal revenue collections in the first eleven months of the current fiscal year exceeded those of the same period of 1933 by nearly a billion dollars, but the cost of getting the money into the treasury declined nearly one-third, it was announced today.

From July 1, 1933, to May 31, 1934, total collections of internal revenue amounted to $2,309,996,546, as compared with $1,368,238,228 for the same period the year before. The figure for the current fiscal year included the processing taxes on farm products. Excluding these taxes, collections were $1,980,316,396. During March collections were highest, $390,352,847. The smallest monthly collection was in July, $131,115,697.

"The total increase of 1934 over 1933 for the eleven months' period, including the processing tax, amounted to $941,758,318," the treasury statement said. "Excluding the processing tax, the increase was $612,078,168. On the other hand, the bureau of internal revenue operated during this fiscal period on a sum of $2,901,708 less than for the same months last year."

RETAIL BUSINESS CONTINUES GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Wholesale trade experienced a pronounced trend toward hand to mouth buying. Local jobbers and distributors expect a slight lull until July 15, when wholesale demands are expected to take a marked upturn again.

Railroads operating trains into Chicago reported heavy carloadings and increased passenger traffic, due to the attraction of A Century of Progress Exposition. Utilities reported the week as being well ahead of a year ago, particularly the telephone company and power stations.

DROP IN STEEL ACTIVITY IS LESS THAN EXPECTED

Operations Fall 3 Points to 59%.

Apparent dissipation of the threatened steel strike and expansion in automobile production schedules in response to heavier retail demand, contrary to the usual seasonal trend, are named by the magazine, Steel, as influences tending to maintain the morale of the industry in the face of "the unpromising outlook in the markets."

Steel plant operations shrank three points over the country to 59 per cent of capacity, but the decline was less sharp than anticipated. A more marked reduction is predicted this week, with the close of the most active quarterly period in the industry since 1930. Tonnage actually delivered in June will be less than in May, but the latter was the heaviest month since 1929.

Operations Slump 7 Points Here.

In the Chicago area operations suffered a 7 point tumble from the high of 70 the previous week. Buffalo reported the greatest drop, 11 points, to the 47 per cent mark. A 4 point loss put Youngstown at 62, production was off 1 to 76 at Cleveland, and down ½ to 46 in eastern Pennsylvania. Levels of the previous week were maintained at 82 in Detroit, 70 in New England, 81 in Wheeling, 56 in Pittsburgh, and 55 in Birmingham.

Another factor in the outlook is the necessity of plant operation for some time in July to restock depleted inventories. The incentive for contracting ahead has been swept away by recent code revisions, the magazine notes, and buying is on a hand to mouth basis for the first time since the code was adopted last fall. Accordingly, steelmakers must be prepared for spot orders.

Awards Bring Cheer.

Some cheer has arisen from definite approval of certain construction projects, prospective naval shipbuilding in eastern yards, and anticipated requirements of the railroads.

Structural awards for the week increased 23,612 tons, including 6,900 for a government dam at Fort Peck, Mont. A PWA loan finally has been approved for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to build 820 cars in its own shops, and the Great Northern is to rebuild 650 refrigerator cars. The market for plates is featured by an award of 18,000 tons for the San Francisco bay pipe line.

Quarter's Outlook Meager.

On the darker side of the ledger, however, the journal says steelmakers seldom have approached a new quarter with such meager order books as at present. Consumers have been buying July materials, and market prospects appear to hinge on the rapidity with which these stores are absorbed.

New price levels to which the industry is moving on July 1 are practically untested, the magazine says, but points out that pressure from the automobile and parts manufacturers has been resisted successfully so far. The highest price advances, ranging from $5 to $8 per ton, apply to sheets and strip. A last minute rush for June deliveries has been most pronounced in these products.

FRENCH RENTES STEADY DESPITE FEARS FOR MARK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 24.—The French financial world stood up cheerfully under the threat from across the Rhine frontier last week. Despite the uncertainty on the other side of the Rhine, including one thing the French particularly fear—devaluation of the German mark—French securities, led by French rentes, stoutly maintained their positions.

Whatever slump occurred was largely among international securities. Hopes that the adjournment of congress would produce improvement were not realized. The Bank of France statement for the week ending June 15 shows $19,000,000 worth of gold flowing into the coffers compared to the influx of $24,500,000 the preceding week.

TRADE COMMISSION TO REVIEW GOODYEAR TIRE COMPANY CASE

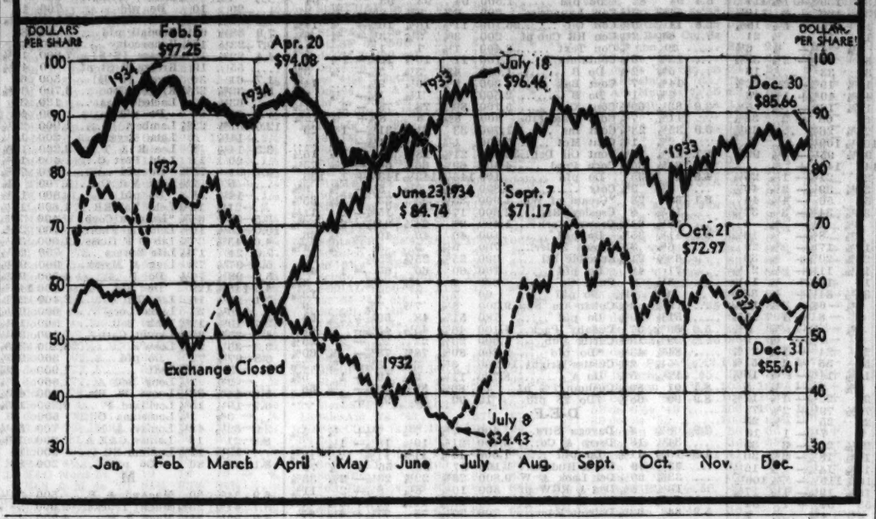
The commission Saturday denied a motion of counsel for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company for dismissal of the concern's citation by the commission on a charge of violating the Clayton anti-trust act, in price discrimination. The company has indicated it will go into the whole problem when it begins presentation of its case at Akron, O., next Monday.

The commission has complained of Goodyear's alleged price discrimination in the company's contract to make special brand tires for Sears, Roebuck & Co. Goodyear, following weeks of hearings at various cities, sought dismissal of the complaint on the ground that the tire it sold to Sears-Roebucfl was not the same from a commercial viewpoint as that it distributed under its own name and argued that its contract with Sears was on a quantity basis and as such did not constitute price discrimination within the meaning of the Clayton act.

The dismissal of Goodyear's motion means the case will go ahead, with the company launching into its side of the dispute.

Average Daily Closing Prices of 50 Leading Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange



ADVANCE IN HOG INCOME BOOSTS FARMER INCOME

The sensational advance of hog prices since May 28 has added more than $185,000,000 to the market value of swine on American farms, C. D. Streeter of Keokuk, Ia., president of the Association of American Pork Growers, said yesterday.

"The average price of 230 pound hogs at Chicago on May 28 was $7.80, and this week the price is approximately $11.15," he said.

He based his estimate of the advance in market value on the government's recent indication that there were 56,000,000 hogs on American farms. Lighter receipts since the peak of the drouth crisis, accompanied by an improved demand for pork products, have been responsible, Streeter said.

"Especially significant is the fact that hot weather demand for cold meats, particularly cooked hams and sausages, has been unusually good this year," he said.

He pointed out his estimates did not take into consideration benefits to those farmers coöperating in the government's corn-hog program. Streeter is here to participate in a live stock and meat forum.

NON-BLUE EAGLE COPPER BAN AIDS FUTURES TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 24.—Because of the ban on the sale of non-Blue Eagle copper by the copper code authority, there has been a decided increase in dealings in copper future contracts on the Commodity exchange. These contracts are based on non-Blue Eagle copper.

Foreign quotations for the metal are below the domestic price of 9 cents a pound for Blue Eagle metal. During the last week the spread was further increased, due in part to the weakness in the price of metal abroad because of Germany's withdrawal from the market. At the close non-Blue Eagle copper on the exchange was selling at a discount of approximately 1¼ cents under the Blue Eagle metal.

Because of this wide spread, the feeling is that the copper code authority will have difficulty in holding the price of the Blue Eagle metal at 9 cents unless the spread between it and the non-Blue Eagle metal is narrowed soon. The non-Blue Eagle metal can be used in articles for export and in all copper products sold in this country except those to be purchased by the United States government.

CURB MARKET DRIFTS LOWER IN DULL TRADE

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Drifting weakness characterized dealings on the Curb exchange most of last week. Favorite issues ended the period with moderate losses from the preceding Saturday, with prices moving narrowly in the majority of cases.

Oil shares were opposed in the decline in the early part of the period, but they developed considerable weakness later. International Petroleum, Humble, and Gulf closed with substantial losses. Technicolor, which reached a new high for the year Monday, reacted later Aluminun. receded several points, while Fisk Rubber dropped a couple.

Liquor shares also were lower, including Hiram Walker and Distillers Corporation-Seagram's, Ltd. Utilities showed some resistance, but ended below last week, especially American Gas and Electric and Electric Bond and Share, which dropped several points each. Gold mining shares were featureless and slightly lower. Transactions picked up a bit at the end of the week, rising to about 183,000 shares from Wednesday's low of 116,000. The total was a shade higher than in the previous week.

1933 Cigaret Production Decreases Eight Billion

Washington, D. C., June 24. — A drop of more than 8,000,000,000 in the number of cigarets manufactured in the United States last year, as compared with 1931, is reported by the census bureau. The tobacco companies rolled out a 1933 total of 112,704,260,156 cigarets. The bureau reported that both wages and cost of materials decreased, but that there had been an 11.8 increase in the number of wage earners employed in the cigaret field.

Two Companies Cut List Price of Electric Lamps

Reductions ranging from 10 to 30 cents in the list price of various sizes of electric light lamps were announced yesterday by the Westinghouse Lamp company. A reduction averaging 13 per cent in the list price of four types of lamps was announced by the General Electric company.

MILK, ICE CREAM AND CAN FIRMS UNDER U. S. FIRE

Charged with Price Conspiracy.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—(AP)—The trade commission today charged the Milk and Ice Cream institute and ten companies making cans for cream, milk, and ice cream with conspiring to raise prices and to suppress competition.

The ten companies named were:

A "White List."

All except the last named company were members of the institute, but the commission said this company joined with the others in the alleged conspiracy. The commission charged the institute maintained a so-called "white list" which consisted of certain purchasers known as "five car purchasers" who should receive a special agreed discount.

Agreement also was made, the commission said, upon freight allowances, boundaries of free truck delivery, weight and number of cans to constitute a minimum carload, and other practices including an agreement not to bid for the business of customers already under contract with another of the defendant companies.

Charges Price Boost.

The result was, the commission charged, "to constrain each respondent manufacturer to sell uniform standardized cans at prices uniform with the prices of his competitors and, from the time of the formation of the respondent association to date, has caused an enhancement of the selling price of milk and ice cream cans of about 10 per cent over the price theretofore prevailing, in the face of the fact that costs of labor and materials have decreased during the said period."

The defendants were given until July 27 to show cause why the commission should not issue a cease and desist order.

METAL MARKETS QUIET; PRICE CHANGES SLIGHT

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Nonferrous metals were quiet last week with little or no price changes reported. The copper industry continued to center its interest in effecting successful operations under the code. In the meantime Blue Eagle copper remained at the 9 cent basis.

Tin prices fluctuated irregularly over a narrow range, but while the market was moderately active on arbitrage buying credited to London account owing to wider differences, mill demand did not develop until late in the week. Prospects for seasonal declines in the tin plate mill activity, with consumers well stocked, accounted for the restricted buying.

Lead held steady in a quiet market, with the exception of a moderate volume of buying for prompt shipment which appeared on a few days. Zinc also was quiet with prices unchanged. Prospective consuming demand was said to be dependent upon the outlook for steel operations. Reports of plans for curtailment of ore production following recent heavy output were being watched. Antimony was dull.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Net in '33 Double Previous Year

Net income of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad for 1933 is shown in the company's annual report at $2,565,250, equal to $2.97 a share on capital stock, against $1,367,882, or $1.58 a share a year earlier. This is unchanged from the preliminary statement. Current assets are carried in the balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1933, at $9,317,900, an increase of $2,314,763, and current liabilities at $2,933,031, a drop of $461,142 from a year earlier.

Richfield Oil Extends Its Bond Deposit Time

The reorganization committee of Richfield Oil and Pan-American Petroleum companies has extended the time for deposit of bonds and unsecured claims until July 14. The time limit had previously been extended to June 23.

COAL DIRECTORS APPROVE CODE FOR INDUSTRY

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—The National Coal association announced today its directors had adopted resolutions approving the NRA code for the bituminous coal industry and pledging the support of the industry to its maintenance and continuation.

The action was the first formal and public announcement of the association's approval of the code, which the announcement said became effective last October. Copies of the resolutions were sent to Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, with a letter from John D. Battle, executive secretary of the association, in which he said:

"I am happy to advise you that the National Coal association, speaking through its board of directors assembled at Washington on June 20, after long, careful, and deliberate consideration, adopted a resolution approving of the code of fair competition for the bituminous coal industry and pledging its best support toward its successful continuation.

"I am quite sure you realize that this organization is the official spokesman of the bituminous coal industry of this nation. Its directors are among the leading men of the industry, although not necessarily the largest operators. They truly represent the industry."

AM. SMELTING TRUST CHARGE IS DISMISSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 24.—The federal trade commission has dismissed a complaint against the American Smelting and Refining company, charging violation of the Clayton act, following contention by the company that the commission lacked jurisdiction.

The complaint, the commission said, was based on acquisition of the stock of the Federated Metals corporation, a New Jersey corporation, claimed by the commission to be a competitor. The acquisition resulted from an agreement of Sept. 30, 1932, between the two companies, as a result of which a new company, the Federated Metals Corporation of Delaware, was formed.

"In dismissing the complaint," a statement by the commission said, "the commission made it clear that it did so for lack of jurisdiction, indicating that the acquisition complained of might well be the basis for court action. In its opinion the commission held that the basis for the position taken by the respondent must be that the substance of the transaction was an acquisition of the assets of the Federated company by the Smelting company, and not an acquisition of stock of the type violative of the Clayton act."

GERMANS ACCEPT BRITISH REQUEST FOR DEBT TALK

BERLIN, June 24.—(AP)—The German government has cabled to London its acceptance of the British invitation to discuss problems arising out of the reich's moratorium on debt payments, it was disclosed in official quarters today. No information is at hand to indicate that Germany's affirmative reply has been received, an official spokesman said.

"We are anxious to come to some arrangement," he said.

It was indicated a delegation will leave Berlin for London Monday or Tuesday, and that it will consist of one representative each from the foreign office, finance ministry and the reichsbank.

Assets? Ha! How About the Liabilities?

A clew as to why bank receivers sometimes find no assets to satisfy claims of depositors may be found in an incident related by a banker.

A downstate politician, on being named receiver for a closed bank, was being shown about the bank premises by the former president of the institution. As the former official was about to depart he was stopped by the newly appointed receiver who asked, "Say, will you tell me just what an asset is, anyway?" Unless somebody tells him, a receiver may never know what an asset is, because frequently he has none under his jurisdiction. Experience shows he is more familiar with liabilities.

To Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, a brain truster is just a "specialist." Said he at the annual alumni dinner of the Harvard university business school:

"I don't know whether there are too many professors in Washington, but I do think there are too many specialists. You know, Chic Sale considered the rise of the specialist in American life an important enough phenomenon to justify a book. But perhaps the definition of a specialist I like best is the one that says he is a chap who learns more and more about less and less until eventually he knows everything about nothing."

A La Salle street bond salesman of many years' experience gives his impressions of the working proclivities of sons of the rich.

"Usually there isn't much trouble in getting second generation sons of wealthy citizens to go to work unless they take to drink and dissipation at the start of their lives," this salesman said. "With third generation sons it's a different story. They are usually well steeped in ideas of luxury and take to horseback riding from 9 to 11 o'clock in the morning with lunch with their pals at 1 o'clock as a natural life. Many of these sons have no interest in the businesses founded by their grandfathers, being content to sit back and take the profits without working."

The advertising man's idea that a pretty girl in a picture can sell almost anything is not always successful. Business Week reports that electric ironer manufacturers, who filled display windows with machines operated by beautiful mannequins, found the system didn't work. Male spectators, and female, too, were willing to stand for hours watching the models, but they didn't buy.

The manufacturers removed the girls and adopted a new policy. Let the housewife try the machine herself inside the store. The trial worked. Sales rose 167 per cent in the first four months of this year over 1933. During the same period, says the journal, washing machine sales increased 96 per cent. Electric refrigerators sold totaled 535,583, against 240,560 a year earlier.

To this generation of bankers the moratorium is what the flood was to Noah or the Chicago fire of 1871 was to firemen. The year old son of Frank King, controler of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company was born during the moratorium and named for his father, but he still goes by the nickname of "Morry."

The New York Stock exchange maintains a "press room" for the convenience of reporters covering activities at the exchange. Several years ago, when reporters began to play poker in the room, the business conduct committee had the following notice posted on the wall: "No gambling allowed on the premises."

ILLINOIS CENTRAL INCOME FOR MAY FALLS BELOW 1933

Net operating income of the Illinois Central system for May was $905,253, compared with $1,488,116 in May, 1933—a decrease of $582,863. The May, 1934, income includes prorata of expenses made from funds borrowed from the Public Works administration—$285,147. Gross revenues for May stood at $7,538,482, compared with $7,333,511 in May, 1933. Net operating income for the first five months of 1934 was $5,547,470, compared with $4,480,102 in the like period of 1933. STOCK MARKET TRADING DULL; PRICES LOWER

Wall Street Fears U. S. Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 24.—Starting a new week, the stock market looks back on six days of rather dismal business. With traders finding no inspiration in the adjournment of congress, with business steeped in summer dullness and with the regulation bogey shadowing the speculative picture share prices followed the course of least resistance downward.

The effect of selling and the indisposition to bid for stocks has been to cancel about one-half the ground gained on the May-June rally. The course of the market since congress went home and left the New Deal in the hands of the administration brought no little disappointment to the street, which has been accustomed to witness a vigorous rise in celebration of the end of the legislative session.

Trading Is Dull.

According to seasoned observers, activities of floor traders were reduced to a minimum, the week coming to a close Saturday with the smallest two hour turnover in ten years. Such curtailment of operations is said to have accounted for the dullness and price heaviness which characterized each succeeding session. The inclination of traders to hold commitments down to a minimum is said to be the result of uncertainty about the form regulations by the commission, to be set up under the new securities act, will take.

Another major factor in the current stalemate appears to be the realization that July 1 will see the stock trading business under federal regulation. As that date approaches traders seem to be gripped by an attack of nerves for the reason that they do not know the rules under which Washington proposes to control the market's machinery, and they are equally in the dark as to the personnel of the commission which will devise and administer those rules. In those circumstances it follows that impulse to bid for shares is lacking, while some holders of stocks are inclined to sell for the same reasons. Specific instances of market weakness in individual issues were ascribed in some cases to the activity of pools in liquidating their accounts before July 1.

Gloomy Financial Minds.

On the face of things, business recession can only be exerting a secondary influence in the existing gloomy state of the financial mind, for industrial weather signs have thus far indicated less than the usual summer declines. Steel production holds up close to the highest since 1930, weekly movement of railway freight, though only 5 per cent above 1933, exceeds by 19 per cent that of two years ago.

Hopes for the new week were buoyed by the check administered on Saturday to Friday's selling movement, which did not get very far on the average. Whatever unsettlement has developed recently has appeared in the secondary issues, and Wall street feels that if the business indexes continue to show firmness the stock market should eventually move to a more normal level of activity.

IOWA JUSTICES SPLIT OVER CASE ON STATE RIGHTS

Des Moines, Ia., June 24.—Iowa's State Supreme court has clashed on interpretation of state rights under the federal constitution in a case that eventually may require federal Supreme court decision.

The principle involved was whether a state court has constitutional power to invoke judgment against a resident in another state when notice of the suit is made through an agent of the defendant. The high court by a divided vote held it had. Specifically, the schism was on appeal of the Henry L. Doherty Investment company, New York, from an Iowa District court judgment in favor of Frank Goodman of Des Moines, predicated on the alleged illegal sale of securities by Doherty's agent.

Six justices concurred with Justice William D. Evans in affirming the lower court's right to enter judgment against Doherty. Justice James W. Kindig, however, and Justice Richard F. Mitchell dissented. Citing the tenth amendment, Justice Kindig observed that "one state has no power over citizens of another state, except as pr vided by the federal constitution."

DROUTH LOANS TO BE AVAILABLE IN COMING WEEK

Myers Outlines Terms to Be Given Farmers.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—(AP)—Gov. William I. Myers of the Farm Credit administration announced today that loans from the $525,000,000 drouth relief appropriation to farmers and stockmen to purchase feed for live stock and for production of forage crops in primary drouth areas would be available this week.

Myers said that in accordance with the emergency relief act just passed by congress he would make the loans in areas which have been designated as emergency drouth areas by the department of agriculture.

The list includes all of North and South Dakota, 37 counties in Minnesota, 17 in Wisconsin, 10 in Montana, 12 in Wyoming, 24 in Texas, one in Oklahoma, one in Idaho, 11 in Arizona, 19 in Colorado, 23 in New Mexico, 11 in Nevada, 10 in California, two in Oregon and 21 in Utah.

How Loans Will Be Made.

Administration of the loans will be in the hands of the emergency crop and feed loan section and will be handled through the emergency crop loan offices which already have local loan committees established in all counties in the drouth areas.

Myers said the loans would be made to applicants who do not have the necessary feed to maintain their live stock and must use forage crops, and who do not have the means or other sources of credit available to obtain such feed or undertake production of needed forage.

The amount loaned to purchase feed for live stock will be limited to a maximum for each head and the loans for production of forage crops will be limited to a maximum amount per acre, the loans to be determined according to the cost of feed or the cash cost of growing forage crops in the various drouth areas. The minimum amount of a loan or advance is $25 for either purpose. No loans will be made to purchase feed for live stock acquired since April 1, 1934.

Notes Will Be Security.

The security is to consist of the borrower's promissory note accompanied by a nondisturbance agreement signed by each chattel mortgage lienholder, except where the lienholder is a production credit association, regional agriculture, or the governor of the Farm Credit administration.

The notes will mature Nov. 1, 1935, with an interest rate of 5½ per cent a year, and interest on the loan until maturity will not be deducted at the time the loan is made.

Myers said he considered the security regulations liberal since they did not require borrowers to give chattel mortgages or waivers. He added that all loans would be advanced in monthly instalments in amounts sufficient to feed the approved number of live stock for one month or to pay the month's expenses required for producing necessary forage crops.

Must Keep Faith.

He added advances would not be made to any borrower who failed to "observe good faith by encumbering his live stock, feed, or crops, or by waiving his rights to them after he has obtained a drouth relief loan or advance."

Loans will not be made to persons engaged in commercial feeding and fattening of live stock for market, or to any corporation unless its principal busines is farming, and no loans will be made for purchase of feed for live stock or for producing forage crops outside the designated emergency drouth areas, nor for feed for live stock that has been moved into a drouth area since April 1.

UNIT OF MIDDLE WEST TO CHANGE POWER CONTRACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 24.—The protective committee for holders of first mortgage 6 per cent series A bonds of the Kentucky Electric Power corporation announces that the Kentucky Utilities company had agreed to abrogate the provision in the power contract between the companies calling for cancellation in the event either concern should seek court protection involving receivership as soon as 75 per cent of the outstanding bonds had been deposited with the committee.

This cancellation would have resulted in a total loss to the bondholders, the announcement said, since the loss of more than 85 per cent of the company's gross income derived from electric power sales would make it impossible for the corporation to earn operating expenses and pay taxes. At the present time the committee represents 69 per cent of the $1,100,000 bonds outstanding. Kentucky Utilities is in the Middle West Utilities group and the Electric Power corporation is an independent unit.

[Letters to the financial editor of 200 words or less will be published in this column from time to time.]

Calumet City, Ill., June 15.—I have conscientiously attempted to follow rapid developments in the monetary field, but, like many other people, I have been lost in the maze. Obviously efforts of the government have been concentrated on one major point—to increase general price levels to those of 1925.

This question immediately comes to mind: Why is an increase desirable? Mussolini, who knows the principles of economics fully as well as some of our best minds, thinks low prices a solution to present problems. He immediately set machinery to work to carry out his plan for lower prices and wages. Why, then, are our best minds so intent on high prices? Why are they desirable?

The Roosevelt administration has put through much legislation in an attempt to reach the coveted goal. Bills, such as the McLeod bill and remonitization of silver, which aim to place more money in circulation, have been passed or are pending. I am still much confused about these things. Can you help me? HARRY LYNN,

BOND AVERAGES DECLINE; PRIME ISSUES STRONG

Absorption of U. S. Offer Impresses Traders.

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Unsettlement of secondary loans, apparently in sympathy with stocks, brought a late decline in bond averages last week, but prime investment issues continued to hold near their best levels of the year.

Aside from the firm demand for the best grade corporate categories and U. S. government securities, dealers were highly encouraged by the quick absorption of the new $131,400,000 issue of 4 per cent federal land bank bonds. Cash subscription books on this offering were closed shortly after the sale started Monday. The new loan was offered at 100⅝ and immediately commanded a premium of half a point or more which it held during the remainder of the week.

Study Changing Trend.

With heavy oversubscription of the new land bank issue forcing the scaling down of allotments to 5 or 10 per cent of the requested amounts, and low record interest rates being received on best names among the municipal borrowers, the financial district was further impressed by the growing movement of excess funds toward investment media of highest quality.

While various speculative corporate liens were subjected to intermittent pressue, it was considered noteworthy that some bonds of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Chesapeake and Ohio, Santa Fé, Kansas City Terminal, Union Pacific, and similar companies bettered their best prices for 1933 and, in a few instances, reached their highest levels since 1928.

U. S. Group Strong.

There was some scattered profit taking in treasury, liberty, and home owners' loan securities, but the majority of these displayed resistance throughout and ended not far from their year's peaks.

Foreign obligations were quiet and irregular. The German government Young and Dawes plan loans dropped to new lows for the year as the financial situation in the reich and the resumption of payments on the two international bond issues were further surrounded by uncertainties. Some Cuban loans also turned heavy coincident with charges of illegality made by a Cuban government commission in connection with American loans of approximately $60,000,000 granted during the Machado régime.

Business and industrial news held up fairly well during the week and previous forecasts of a more than seasonal decline were being amended.

LACK OF DOLLARS IN SPAIN FREEZES LARGE U. S. CREDIT

MADRID, June 24.—Lack of American dollars in Spain is holding up as "frozen assets" some $3,000,000 due American business men and investors, banking authorities estimate.

Officials said the situation is "deplorable," but that they can see no relief until commercial exchanges between the two countries are more nearly equalized.

Spain's unfavorable balance of trade with the United States now amounts to about $25,000,000 annually and bankers see little prospect of getting dollars to liquidate the present credits.

Included in the sum is interest on investments in Spain by many large firms, including the Ford Motor company and General Motors. Importers of American goods are hard hit also by the condition, since they cannot pay their bills except those guaranteed by commercial credits.

Sinclair Oil to Buy In $1,250,000 of Own Bonds

The Chase National bank, trustee, has notified holders of Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation first lien collateral gold bonds series "A," that there is available in the sinking fund $1,279,653 for the purchase of these bonds up to $1,250,000 principal amount. H. L. Green & Co. has notified holders of its serial 6 per cent notes series "C," the company will redeem the issue on July 28. The concern was formerly known as H. L. Green Chain Stores, Inc.

Manufacturing Decreases, Man-Hour Record Shows

The national industrial conference board states that manufacturing activity, as measured by total man-hours worked, declined 0.8 per cent in May from April, but total pay roll disbursements increased 0.2 per cent, and the number of persons working increased 1.1 per cent.

California Crude Output Shows Gain During April

Daily average crude oil production in California in May totaled 486,152 barrels, compared with 482,426 barrels in April. There were 43 wells completed during the month.

INCREASED ORE CONSUMPTION.

Lake Superior iron ores consumed by furnaces in May totaled 2,957,934 tons against 2,470,121 in April and 1,256,623 in May, 1933.

ARE YOU SUCCESS-MINDED?

Your state of mind may be worth nothing to us or we may pay you profits on it amounting to thousands of dollars during the next year. We have noted carefully nationwide and worldwide, that the men who make money in this business are men who have not been crushed with adversity, and who do not feel that the world is against them or owes them a living without work. It makes no difference what past experience has been, because we have men between these four walls who represent as former occupations, civil engineering, tool and die making, teachers, mechanics, milk wagon drivers, upholsterers, tailors, salesmen builders, contractors, managers, actors, farmers, engineers, railway men, umpires, and pretty nearly all else you can name.

There are men right here who draw commission checks, including bonuses, ranging from $50 up to $100 and $150 for a week's work—but this means a real week's work. Yet there is no investment, nor is there any season. There has never been a time in the successhistory of this big business, with its many electrical unit and specialty plants in various parts of the world (there are three in the United States and Canada alone) when men newly coming into this business started right in to make the amount of money these new men are making today. Here is one business that not only survived the depression but fattened under it, and is racing back to high ground years before general industry. It is a permanent business, is never in danger of saturation and does not impose any harsh conditions on any men whom we accept after an interview.

There are men right here in Chicago who are driving good automobiles, dressing well, taking the best care of their families and building for a future, who started in this work with just enough spark of optimism to see them through to the first check they received. This naturally means that such men have character, because character is the outstanding well with those who know you, and being able to overcome the obstacles that are strewn in your path. We want and help make optimists, and sometimes men as old as 50 or over succeed if they have health and stamina, but usually we prefer men from 25 to 50. The majority of those who rise to see us have grit, courage, ambition. We want married men preferably, although some single men, with home responsibilities measure up splendidly.

We shall not tabulate or catalog the men in this business who are making money—and very good incomes. They are here and you can meet them. We say, ready to back up this statement and all others we make, that we have plenty of men—lots of them—right here in Chicago and its suburbs—who make from $50 to well over $100 a week—and some who make more—and we have other men who are just getting started, who make from $25 to $40 a week. It depends on the man and his adaptability to the things we teach him, and his power of persistence. Of course, a man who left his pride and ambition in some dead past is going to make a cemetery of his life and a cortege of his dull thoughts and bury them—but the man who believes that there is still a future for everybody who is able to think and work, is going to learn this business, be happy in it and be independent. What's more, he is going to be grounder of his independence and money-earning powers here than he ever was in his past occupation. There he spent years and money to learn a trade, business or profession—both here he establishes himself in earnings quickly and very soon adds to those earnings, without investment, because very successful men train and coach him. We don't claim this to be Utopia, but you are not morally or mentally knocked down and dragged out in this business. You are built up and encouraged and aided in gaining increasing success.

The work we have open is specifically for the west side and western suburbs. These positions are immediately open. However, we do not take snap judgment on any man who comes in to see us. We expect to find out through going over matters with him if we believe he is adaptable. He must like us and like this business enough to want to succeed, and we wish men to succeed, because they are profitless to us as well as themselves without their success. We have no merchandise or securities to sell and ask for no deposits. If a man earns, he makes money for us, and we set up no ruinous competition against him. Therefore, if you wish to look into this thoroughly and are inspired to talk it over with us, call for a personal interview from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. Monday, June 25, suite 329 at 9 South Kedzie avenue. Men accepted are eligible for the success columns this week! You pass no examination and are not placed on any waiting or deferred list. This opportunity is for NOW!

WORK FOR 5 MEN

Not work in a shop or a factory—but a business of their own, a permanency of at least five years for the right men.

If you are ambitious to have a business of your own that is paying men from $35 to above $100 a week WITHOUT ONE CENT INVESTED, read this short story about three men we started last week.

Here in Chicago we started on Wednesday [June 20], a man 32 years old and his first day and a half he earned $52 percentage profit. Again on Friday he had profits of $28—a total of $80 for his first 3 days in his own business, merchandising our products which include air-conditioning, electric hygiene units, etc. This man confidently expects to earn an average profit of $20 a day.

Another man was engaged at 4 P. M. Thursday and by Friday noon had earned a profit of $26.10.

Another new man started Tuesday at 1 P. M. and by Thursday had earned a profit of $72.

The above inspirational examples are all men engaged within a week's time. Many more examples are available.

Men who are established with us over a long period of time have percentage incomes many times over $200 a week. Here are two examples: one man with us over 5 years earned [last week] $194. Another man with us 2 years earned in 2 days of this week [Tuesday and Wednesday] $127.

Our company is rated in the millions—doing business all over the world and our new plan of merchandising our products have revolutionized the sales field. REMEMBER, WE ESTABLISH ALL OUR MEN IN A BUSINESS OF THEIR OWN.

Our expansion program in the Middle West demands more dealer representation and also sales executives. Many men are finding a great deal of money and happiness with us. Numbered among our representatives are doctors, lawyers, mechanics, even ministers, office men—in fact, we have a former prohibition commissioner—all these men were attracted to our Company with one idea in mind—to make big money, honestly—with a new idea.

We expect to and will prove every word of this story. Good, ambitious men cannot afford to pass up this investigation Monday, 10 to 10:30 A. M. and 2 to 2:30 P. M.
